The Voice of Edison.
Comfort for the Old.
Scenario Writers, Take Notice.
A Little Frozen Group.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

DR. HUTCHISON has heard the voice of Thomas A. Edison, speaking from "the beyond", through a medium.

Dr. Hutchison, who was Mr. Edison's engineer for 10 years, says Mr. Edison sent this message:

"Well, Hutch, I have had to revise my ideas about life after death. I am on the other side of the river, but I don't know where I am going from here."

Dr. Hutchison recognized Edison's voice absolutely, so we may not doubt that the medium found him on the other side of that river.

But those that knew Edison for many years would have expected something more exciting and enlightening. Not one word about his trip through the ether, colder than 400 degrees below.

DR. ADOLPH LORENZ, of Vienna, back in America, will continue here as he has continued at home his useful work of bloodless surgery. Men past 70 with the bad habit of calling themselves "old" will find encouragement in Dr. Lorenz's achievement. He has treated 50,000 cases—his operations call for great physical effort.

Yet Dr. Lorenz is active, mentally and physically as powerful as ever. And he is 78 years old.

HE TELLS reporters:

"All my life I have been straightening limbs. It is unfortunate that there is not also a method for straightening out the brains of men."

He believes that "if any race of men should start another war, the rest of the world should rise up and annihilate them."

It SHOULD, but it would not. It would take sides in the war as it did before. This country might even send a few million men and ten thousand million dollars to enliven the proceedings.

MRS. AIMEE SEMPLE McPHERSON HUTTON will produce a religious motion picture. A good director, going back to ancient, simple beliefs that Mrs. Aimee Hutton possesses, should produce a marvelous picture.

It would show a real Satan, with horns, tail and cloven hoofs, "going to and from in the earth, and walking up and down in it." It would show him scurrying across an evening landscape, disguised as a huge black dog, as Goethe shows him.

It would represent him leading a wild dance on the brocken, allowing the director to introduce the "most beautiful one hundred young ladies in the world" and some interesting characters of antiquity, all of whom, presumably, became Satan's property at death.

THERE MIGHT be an interesting interview between Satan and Aimee Semple Hutton herself, Aimee, of course, conquering the power of darkness.

A finale, borrowed from "Uncle Tom's Cabin" or "Faust," might show Mrs. Hutton crowned with light, rising to her eternal reward, with angels on both sides of her, leaving Satan on his knees, converted and vowing to devote the rest of his existence to good works.

What a chance for a scenario writer.

YOU KNOW that Japanese and Chinese have been fighting in Manchuria with temperature at 40 degrees below zero. You read of a group of Chinese soldiers, 380 of them, found huddled together, trying to keep each other warm, frozen to death, where Japanese soldiers had trapped them on a mountain top in Southeastern Manchuria.

War is not pleasant.

OF NORTHERN states, New Jersey contains the highest percentage of Negro population, but mortality statistics show that it will be difficult for the Negro race to continue its increase. In one New Jersey district mortality among whites is 43 per thousand, among the colored men, women and children, 260 per thousand.

This seems to offer an opportunity for missionary work more important to the Negro race than any mere effort to convince the colored man that he is as good as the white man, or better.

DISTURBANCES throughout the world's interior are added to the world's other troubles. Following earthquakes and eruptions in South America, Krakatoa, the great volcano, rising from its own island between Java and Sumatra, is in violent eruption, sending columns of flaming lava 4,500 feet into the sky, more than four times the height of New York's Empire State Building.

Fifty years ago one of Krakatoa's severe eruptions was followed by a tidal wave that drowned 30,000 in the Dutch East Indies. The effects of this wave traveling across the ocean were observed in South America.

BY A VOTE of one the Senate decided not to adopt the "cloture" which would put a stop to filibustering, and enable the Senate to proceed with business.

Intelligent Senators know that filibustering just now is unwise, and that the members of the "most pleasant club in the world" run the risk of having their house ruling made over for them by the common people. Those people are gettin' tired of congressional talk that means nothing.

Woman in Stillman Case

MRS. LUC ROCHEFORT . . . . HER LOVE VALUED AT $200,000

The first picture of Marjorie Baker Rochefort, Canadian woman whose estranged husband, Montreal politician, has sued Banker James A. Stillman for $200,000 damages for alienation of affections. Mrs. Rochefort says she'll support Mr. Stillman. This is a copyrighted (1933) New York Journal picture, serviced by International News Photograph Service.

DIVORCE FACING ROCHEFORT

BOSTON, Jan. 20.—(INS.)—Mrs. Marjorie Nye Rochefort plans to file suit for divorce against the man who is suing James A. Stillman for $200,000 heart balm, she said today.

She failed to appear at the beauty shop, where she has been working as a hairdresser; had left her aunt's home in North Welmouth and was in seclusion here with friends.

She said she was prepared to take the witness stand in New York to aid Stillman, whose only interest in her, she asserted, was to help her financially in establishing a beauty parlor.

Mrs. Emily M. Baker, mother of Mrs. Rochefort, was quoted as asserting Rochefort's heart balm suit bordered on a "shakedown," and claimed Rochefort demanded his "cut" in money, secured by his wife. She asserted Rochefort hid in his apartment when Stillman came on a visit and threatened the mother if she should reveal to

BUDGET TO HIT SUPPLY BUREAU

Resuming their budget sessions today, the County Commissioners expected to give consideration to the Department of Property and Supplies, the Bureau of Elections and the Bureau of Weights and Measures. To date $139,285.02 has been slashed from the departmental requests which made up the estimated budget for 1933 of more than $20,000,000.

The requirements of the Department of Property and Supplies, under Director Ray Sprigle, were expected to come in for considerable slashing today. This department has been enlarged each month as additional properties are put under Sprigle's wing.

Director A. M. Marion, of the department of parks, has helped the Commissioners lop $47,637 from the park estimates put in some weeks ago. After the slashes Marion found himself with $501,366 to run the two parks this year.

However, the Commissioners are expected to make additional savings in salaries.

Judge Richard Kennedy, of the County Court, informed the Commissioners he was willing to talk reductions in salaries.

Death Kiss Girl 'Jinx' Perils Eighth Gunman

By GEORGE C. RALLATI

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Gangland watched with bated breath today the contest between medical science and the underworld superstition that Margaret Mary Collins' kisses invariably mean death.

Should Sol Feldman die on his cot in Mother Cabrini Hospital he will become the eighth of Margaret Mary's sweethearts to die after knowing her kisses.

Dion O'Banion, gang leader and bitter foe of Al Capone, was the first sweetheart of the girl—known to police as the "Kiss of Death" girl—to be killed. Johnny Phillips, Gene McLaughlin, Johnny Sheehy, "Jew" Bates, Irving Schlig and Sam Katz, were other underworld characters to die by the gun after Margaret Mary kissed them, police records show.

Feldman was shot November 29 after smashing a furrier's window and stealing a fur coat.

On leaving the hospital recently, apparently recovered, he was greeted by the taunts of his companions:

"Remember Dion O'Banion."

Feldman became weaker and paler.

He had a relapse yesterday and was taken back to the hospital.

Dr. A. J. Chesrow, discussing Feldman's case, said:

"Apparently this idea has preyed on his mind and resulted in shock, which has lowered his vitality."

Dr. Chesrow suggested that should Feldman die the Coroner can record it truthfully as:

"Death due to superstition."

U. S., BRITAIN TO CONFER ON DEBTS

Roosevelt and Hoover Agree to Parley In March

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt, in today's White House conference, agreed upon a discussion of war debts with representatives of Great Britain to take place early in March after the change of administrations.

In a statement issued at the White House following the hour and a half meeting in the Red Room, it was said the official talks with Great Britain would include also the economic problems of the world and "ways and means for improving the world situation."

NEGOTIATIONS ORDERED

Secretary Stimson was instructed immediately to initiate negotiations with Great Britain arranging for the projected conference.

Mr. Roosevelt made no statement when the White House session was over, but let it be known that he planned to do so after leaving the city for the trip to Muscle Shoals.

The White House statement follows in full:

"The conference between the president and the President-elect this morning was attended by Secretaries Stimson and Mills and Messrs. Norman Davis and Moley.

"The discussions were devoted mainly to a canvass of the foreign situation and the following statement covering the procedure to be followed was agreed upon:

"The British government has asked for a discussion of the debts.

"The incoming administration will be glad to receive their representative early in March for this purpose.

"It is, of course, necessary to discuss at the same time the world economic problems in which the United States and Great Britain are mutually interested, and therefore that representatives should also be sent to discuss ways and means for improving the world situation.

"It was settled that these arrangements will be taken up by the Secretary of State with the British government."

FRANCE ASSAILED

In diplomatic quarters, note was taken immediately that the statement referred to Great Britain alone. At the very time it was issued, blasts against the French default on payment of its December 15 debt installment to this country were being sounded in the Senate.

Senator Robinson (Rep.), of Indiana, had set it off with a scath-

MARIETTA, Ga., Jan. 20.—(AP.)—Glenn T. Fields, flying the air mail from St. Louis and Chicago to Atlanta, was killed today when his plane crashed into Little Kennesaw Mountain, near here.

'Vicious' Lions Playful When Freed for 'Kill'

WOLF ISLAND, Mo., Jan. 20.—(AP.)—Playful as a pair of milk-fed kittns, Denver M. Wright's lions refused to leave his camp on Hog Island, in the Mississippi River, near here, when he opened the door of their cage today preparatory to staging a synthetic lion hunt.

Wright himself released the lions from a position he hod taken atop the cage. He said he planned to stage the hunt tomorrow or Sunday.

Before releasing the animals, Wright inspected all the firearms in the party to make sure they were not loaded. Wright explained:

"No one is going to shoot them but me or my son."

He remembered his first attempt to stage a hunt when the lions were shot by interlopers before he or his party were able to hunt them.

After the inspection the members of the party were required to sign a document releasing Wright from liability in the event the lions should cause death or injury to members of the expedition.

Then Wright climbed atop the cage outside a barbed wire barricade erected for protection of the "safari" and opened the gate.

One of the lions darted from the cage, ran a few steps to the front, then turned sharply and dashed through the barbed wire fence bordering a runway supposed to direct the animals away from the camp.

The other lion, which was either ill or tired, walked out of the cage languidly, and then caught the spirit of his core energetic companion and followed him through the fence, which members of the expedition had been assured was lion-proof.

This caused slight consternation within the barricade and the hunters wondered whether they were safe, as the barricade consisted of the same type of fence as the runway. But their fears were unfounded.

SEEK TO QUASH RUTH'S STORY

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 20.—(INS.)—A legal fight to strike out the entire testimony of Winnie Ruth Judd was launched today at the preliminary hearing of J. J. (Happy Jack) Halloran by counsel for the rich lumberman.

For the fourth successive day Mrs. Judd took the witness stand. Frank O. Smith, counsel for Halloran, accused as an accessory in the "trunk murders" of Agnes Anne Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson, attempted to question Mrs. Judd on the alleged transfer of the body of Miss Samuelson from one trunk to another the night following the slayings.

Jacob Morgan, one of Mrs. Judd's lawyers, charged Smith was depriving the "velvet tigress" of her constitutional rights inasmuch as she has a petition for commutation of her death sentence pending before the State Pardon Board, and also because she was not tried for the Samuelson murder.

Smith asked that her entire testimony be stricken from the record because she had been denied advice of counsel during the early part of the hearing. He also resubmitted a motion to eliminate her testimony on the grounds she was mentally and physically incompetent.

Justice J. C. Niles asked Mrs. Judd if she had testified truthfully, and she replied:

"I have testified truthfully. I believe in a supreme being."

Bandits Kill Man, Fail to Get Payroll

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(INS.)—Two Negro bandits fled empty-handed today after the wanton murder of a paymaster and the wounding of his assistant almost in the shadow of the Capitol.

Edward Ecklund, 40, Brooklyn, carrying a payroll for painters working on the new House office building, was wounded fatally. His assistant, Harry Stumph, also of Brooklyn, was shot through the abdomen. The payroll of $3,500 was found in Ecklund's pocket.

GANG LINKED IN BROWN MURDER

Ambushed at Home by Hired Assassins, Chief Asserts

International News Service.

Bradway Brown, rich young husband of the Beaver (Pa.) society leader, Mrs. Ruth McCauley Brown, was shot to death last Monday night by hired assassins, "probably New York gangsters."

That declaration from Police Chief Morris Beck, of Palmyra, today swung the probe of Brown's mysterious death back into the channel of murder as Beck promised "a break in the case in the next 24 hours."

Beck's statement came after he announced "painstaking reconstruction" of the case and information from an undisclosed source had convinced him the baffling death of the young socialite was not suicide.

As Beck made his announcement, he was interrupted by a long-distance telephone call. Following a 15-minute conversation, he left for an unannounced destination. He returned after four hours, confident of solving the mystery.

Beck said his information indicated two killers lay in wait in Brown's garage and shot him when he drove his car in after returning from his Philadelphia office.

The murder theory was in direct conflict with an earlier explanation, held by county detectives, that Brown had committed suicide.

The wounds could not have been self-inflicted, doctors held, and members of his family insisted Brown had no motive for suicide.

STORK VICTOR IN POLICE RACE

The stork early today won a race with the fleet emergency automobile of North Side police.

He left a seven-pound baby boy at the home of William Noe, of 217 Voeghtly street, as a city physician and a physician and nurse from the Elizabeth Steel Magee Hospital sped to the bedside of the mother.

Unemployed three years and dependent upon a Catholic charity for aid, Noe, through his brother, Michael Noe, has appealed to police for medical aid.

Noe's wife, Dorothy, 35, is the mother of seven other children. She gave birth to twin girls 11 months ago.

Leaps Out Window In Holdup Prank

Two police radio automobiles and a squad of city detectives sped to 7418 Penn avenue, the location of the Reformed Presbyterian Church Seminary, early today in response to frantic calls of "burglars."

Students at the seminary to greet a visitor from Altoona staged a fake holdup as the visitor lay sleeping in the dormitory. Awakening at the call "Stick 'em up!" the visitor leaped from the bed out a second floor window. He was unhurt and detectives and police returned to their stations.

Last of Army's '3 Musketeers' Killed in Plane

LIEUT. I. A. WOODRING

Motor Explodes in Air During Test Over Dayton

DAYTON, O., Jan. 20.—(AP.)—Lieut. I. A. Woodring, 31, last of the Army's "Three Musketeers of Aviation," noted for their daring, was killed today when an experimental type observation plane, which he was testing, crashed near here.

Lieut. Woodring had completed a test flight at 2,000 feet and was returning to Wright Field, when, without warning, the engine exploded. The ship was torn to bits. Lieut. Woodring seemingly had no opportunity to take to his parachute. It was found unopened on his body.

Lieut. Woodring was regarded as one of the outstanding fliers in the air service. In 1928 at March Field, Cal., he was a member of the "Three Musketeers" of the Air Corps, so dubbed because of their daring. Other members of the famous trio were Lieut. W. J. Cornelius and Lieut. J. J. Williams. Lieut. Cornelius was killed in a plane crash in 1928 and one month later, planes piloted by Lieut. Williams and Woodring collided head on, the former being killed, but Woodring saved his life by using a parachute.

Night Club Queen, Peers' Mother-in-Law, Dies

LONDON, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—Mrs. Kate Meyrick, London's spectacular "night club queen," mother-in-law of two peers, died last night, a victim of influenza.

Death came at the home of the young Earl of Kinnoull, one of the two peers who married Mrs. Meyrick's daughters after she became wealthy in the night club business. The other son-in-law is the Lord De Clifford.

Mrs. Meyrick was a frequent inmate of prisons, mostly on charges of selling liquor in prohibited hours in her night resorts. Once she was sentenced to 15 months at hard labor for bribery and conspiracy. After her last prosecution in May, 1931, she promised never to run another club, a promise she kept.

She also is survived by a son, educated at Harrow, one of the foremost aristocratic schools.

LINER FIGHTS TO RESCUE OTHERS

Stedman, Ocean Hero, Seeks to Save Men On Sinking Boat

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—With her captain and three men already swept to death, the 30-year-old British freighter Exeter City was sinking rapidly in mountainous seas in midocean this afternoon.

The American liner American Merchant, which rushed to the British ships aid upon receipt of distress signals, was making desperate attempt to cheat the ocean of further prey with the use of a breeches-buoy, shot by cannon across the storm-torn expanse of water separating the two vessels.

Capt. Stedman

The rescue vessel is in command of Capt. Giles C. Stedman, famous sea hero, decorated by Italy and the United States for his part in the rescue of 28 men from the Italian freighter Ignazio Florio by the President Harding in mid-Atlantic during the winter of 1925, when Stedman was chief officer of the President Harding.

LIFEBOATS WRECKED

The latest message from Capt. Stedman, disclosing the heroic efforts being made to save the 28 men remaining aboard the Exeter City, read as follows:

ASKS DIVORCE OVER RUM

A tale of frequent embarrassments caused, she said, by her husband's excessive drinking, was told today by Eleanor Borland, of Mt. Lebanon, step-daughter of former Senator James L. Adams, at the hearing in her divorce suit against Joseph VanKirk Borland, an engineer.

Once, she testified, he struck her when they were returning from a party, and she was forced to leave his automobile and return home in a taxicab. He also left her at a country club and ordered the maid from their home when he returned intoxicated, she said.

When she went to New York to meet him upon his return from Europe, he left the hotel and was brought in drunk at 4 o'clock the following morning, she testified. They were married in June, 1925, in New York, and separated in September, 1932.

Conference to Take Place After Change Of Administration

ing speech in which he termed France a "thorough ingrate." He was joined by Senators prominent in both parties.

The White House statement was reviewed in detail by the President, Stimson and Mills in the executive offices before it was given out by one of the Chief Executive's secretaries.

Great Britain met its December 15 installment, thereby causing a favorable reaction here. Prior to doing so, however, the British emphasized in strong language that the payment was considered there the last to be made under existing arrangements.

The President and President-elect did not skip entirely over the Sino-Japanese situation in their discussion although talk of this problem was said to have been incidental.

Mr. Roosevelt was represented as feeling that an accord between the outgoing and incoming administrations on the sustaining of American treaties had produced a healthy effect in that part of the world theater where the Sino-Japanese situation is paramount.

PLANS STRENGTHENED

It was disclosed in authoritative quarters after the Hoover-Roosevelt conference that the discussion of world economic problems individually with Great Britain was designed not to cut under but rather to strengthen plans for the projected world economic conference.

Secretaries Stimson and Mills have been closely in touch with plans for the economic conference, and today advised President Hoover during the meeting.

Norman H. Davis, a Democrat and delegate to the arms conference who also has been busy in affairs having a relation to the economic conference, joined in the discussions as advisor to Mr. Roosevelt, along with Prof. Raymond I. Moley.

The two administrators, it was said, were in complete harmony in believing that the debts problem was one to be discussed between the United States and individual debtor nations.

Although both Mr. Hoover and Mr. Roosevelt were represented as feeling that the problem of debts could not be divorced entirely from the world economic conference, it was said that an agreement was reached that no direct debt discussions should take place at the projected world parley.

The White House conference lasted an hour and a half, after which the President-elect returned to his hotel for conferences with Senator McNary (Rep.), of Oregon; Harvey Couch, a member of the Reconstruction Corporation Board, and Senator Thomas Walsh, of Montana, who has been mentioned for Attorney General in the next cabinet.

As Mr. Roosevelt rode out of the White House grounds at the southwest entrance he was cheered by about 300 persons. He waved his hat.

The President, who had left the Red Room just ahead of the President-elect, in accordance with official custom, went directly to his desk in the executive offices.

During the conference—their second in the White House since the election—the Chief Executive sat on a red velvet brocaded sofa at the right of the Red Room fireplace, with the President-elect at his right.

Because of the warmth of the day, the wood fire laid in the fireplace was not lighted.

Secretaries Stimson and Mills, and Davis and Moley sat near the two leaders in front of the fireplace, with small tea tables placed near the hand of each to afford ash trays, cigarets and cigars.

Mr. Hoover, as usual, chose a cigar, while his successor-elect smoked his customary cigaret as the conference proceeded.

Mr. Roosevelt took advantage of his overnight stay in Washington to talk over the complicated congressional situation and to size up prospective cabinet members.

SERIES OF MEETINGS

After a long series of meetings last night he was described as "reconciled" to an extra session of the new Congress. This will be called in all probability in mid-April, affording him first a fair opportunity to organize the new Democratic government after the March 4 inauguration.

Before consulting with Secretary Stimson soon after his arrival yesterday, the President-elect talked with Senator Johnson, California Republican who supported him in the campaign. Johnson has been at odds constantly with the Stimson foreign affairs policy. He also has been mentioned frequently for the Cabinet, although he is not expected to listen to such an offer should one be made.

Agreement on Conference Pleases Britain

LONDON, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—The agreement between President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt to discuss the war debts with Great Britain in March was characterized in political quarters here this evening as the best news in weeks.

British opinion, official and unofficial, is largely agreed that solution of the war debts problem would provide the key to solution of the larger economic problems, but the government itself will await official notification of the decision at Washington before commenting.

The cabinet already is assembled in London preparing for the opening of Parliament on February 7 and at its meetings scheduled for next Monday, Wednesday and Thursday, discussion of the debts undoubtedly will dominate all other matters, domestic and foreign.

Experts in the Treasury office have been busy since last December, when England paid the debt installment for that month, preparing the British case for debt revision.

There has been no indication of England's preference of methods for dealing with the situation, but apparently the government is prepared to deal either through a commission of experts or through established diplomatic channels.

It is thought here that if the latter method is adopted most of the exchanges will take place between the ambassador at Washington and the State Department there, with United States Ambassador Mellon acting in emergencies in London.

The assurance that the debts discussions will be reopened has given relief to the British government, particularly because of the apprehension, which had increased during the past week, that the American political situation might cause delay.

France Will Seek New Debt Parley

PARIS, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—France was ready today to negotiate relative to the debt owed the United States should President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt choose to reopen the question before March 4.

A foreign office spokesman said the government was amply occupied with internal financial problems but also would be willing to discuss the debt.

KINGFISH LONG CLAIMS TRUCE ON BANK BILL

Roosevelt Diplomatic In Dealing With Senator Huey

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Senator Huey P. Long, the Louisiana "Kingfish," today strutted through the corridors of the Capitol with more self-confidence than ever as he prepared to renew his battle against the state-wide branch banking provisions of the Glass bill.

His jubilation was due to a compromise which he claimed to have reached with President-elect Roosevelt last night and which promises to go down in political history as a keen bit of diplomacy on the latter's part.

The compromise represents Roosevelt as favoring the restriction of branch banking for national banks to counties instead of state-wide, as provided in the Glass bank reform measure.

RIVAL CLAIMS

Both Long and Senator Carter Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, sponsor of the bank bill, have claimed on the floor of the Senate that Roosevelt supported their respective viewpoints.

In a spectacular scene in the corridor of the hotel where Mr. Roosevelt is staying, Long last night gave every indication that he was on the verge of a break with the President-elect.

He created somewhat of a furore when he strode down the hotel corridor and asked newspapermen what time it was. When he learned he was late he turned abruptly and whacked the door of Roosevelt's suite with a double fist.

When asked what he intended to tell the President-elect, he declared loudly:

"What am I gonna tell him? I'm gonna talk turkey to him. I ain't asking for anything and I ain't afraid of anything except the people."

'I'M THE KINGFISH'

Long later went to another door in the Roosevelt suite and started kicking at it. He shouted:

"I'm the Kingfish. Let me in."

Several of those inside scurried out by a side entrance as Long entered.

Three-quarters of an hour later, the door opened and the "Kingfish" came out as quiet and composed as a diplomat. But it was Roosevelt who appeared to have performed the feat of diplomacy.

The "Kingfish's" first words were:

"He's just like he always was; same old Frank.

"Every man, woman and child in America would be happy if they knew what I know. He's going to be one of the greatest presidents we ever had for consistency. He is going to surprise the American people by keeping faith with them."

Capone 'Enforcer's' Plea Before Court

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—Frank Nitti's attorneys asked the Felony Court today if the gangland "enforcer" could go South to recuperate from police-inflicted bullet wounds.

They said Nitti, expected to die for days, still was in a serious condition from bullets that pierced a lung, grazed his spine, and injured his neck. Nitti, who enforced the dictates of Al Capone for years, has been charged with assault to kill.

BANKER'S LOANS HIT IN TRIAL

Unauthorized loans from the Citizens Trust Company of Bellevue were used to finance stock transactions of Ansley D. Smith, former cashier of the bank, Paul Yeager, bank examiner, testified today at Smith's trial on charges of embezzlement. Yeager told the jury that an examination of the bank records showed that many of Smith's loans were unauthorized. C. H. Ammon, a teller of the Diamond National Bank, told of stocks purchased in Pittsburgh being delivered to the Diamond bank, for delivery to Smith and the Citizens bank.

Principal witnesses yesterday were D. H. Reichardt and H. K. Witzel, of the A. E. Masten & Co. brokerage house, and H. O. Whayland, of Post & Flagg. It took the day for them to give details of stock transactions which Smith is alleged to have negotiated through the bank. Representatives of other brokerage offices were testifying today.

Stillman that her daughter was a married woman.

"Margie," who was Miss Marjorie Nye, of Brewer, Me., until her marriage to the prominent Canadian in Cambridge in 1915, when her husband was studying at Harvard and Boston University, revealed that for the past six months, instead of being the "pal" of Stillman, she had been working industriously as a beauty shop operator in Boston.

She has been living with her mother and her aunt, Mrs. Maude B. Tagingdon. Mrs. Tagingdon's husband is a shoe salesman and his home here is a modest one.

Mrs. Baker said Rochefort met her daughter in a Boston theater.

It seemed to be a "love match," said Mrs. Baker, and she did not interfere with the marriage, although she thought her daughter quite young. She was 19 when married.

In three or four years the romance "went on the rocks," Mrs. Baker charged, when Rochefort began going around with other men and women, some of them actresses. She alleged Rochefort took a gay trip to Paris.

WATER DISPUTE LOST BY TOWN

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 20.—Judge C. E. Whitten today enjoined the City of Monessen from turning water from the mains of the Tri-Cities Water Company into six houses in the Monessen steel district.

Last January the city served notice of its intention to turn water into the six houses, where no contract was in effect, claiming sanitation conditions constituted a health menace.

Judge Whitten, in his opinion, points out that Monessen has no authority to set aside rules and rates prescribed by the Public Service Commission governing the water supply to various classes of consumers.

Drafted by the State Budget Commission, the bill proposes total expenditures of $9,411,518 as compared with $14,988,804 for the previous biennium.

in high seas, using line carrying gun."

Although the Exeter City is helpless, with the forepart of her superstructure torn away and her lifeboats shattered by wind and wave, hopes were held out that the American Merchant would succeed in taking off the remaining members of the crew.

SWEPT OVERBOARD

The master of the British ship, according to the local offices of the line, is Capt. E. D. Legg. He apparently was swept to his death when mountainous waves crashed over the 2,929-ton freighter, which was en route to Portland, Me., from Fowey, England, with a British cargo.

Shortly before the American Merchant hove alongside the Exeter City as darkness was falling, the master of the rescue ship advised his offices here that the captain, third officer, an apprentice and one seaman already were lost and that the freighter was rapidly filling with water.

It took the American Merchant three hours to cover the 15 miles separating her from the Exeter City when the SOS was first received, owing to the heavy weather.

FORTUNA, Cal., Jan. 20.—(INS.)—The crew of the freighter Tiverton, aground near here, was being taken off the ship today by Coast Guardsmen, according to advices. A receding tide has left the vessels high and dry on the beach, it was reported. Doubts were expressed that the ship could be refloated.

SINGAPORE, Jan. 20.—(INS.)—Repairs were being made today on the Indo-China steamship Gouverneur General Paul Doumer, which arrived here yesterday reporting a fire had broken out on board after leaving Saigon.

The flames were extinguished before the ship reached here.

The vessel, of 1,467 tons, is owned by the Compagnie Maritime Indo-Chinoise.

JAPAN RUSHES MORE TROOPS TO CHINA

Manchurian Forces Increased by 50 Per Cent

TOKIO, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—The army has decided to dispatch a majority of that portion of the 1933 conscripts, plus auxiliaries, composing Gen. Nobuyoshi Muto's command, to Manchuria immediately. Throughout Japan rookies began reporting to army stations today.

At the same time, 1931 conscripts and veterans in the Manchurian forces will remain in service, a war office spokesman said, despite the expiration of the two-year conscript terms.

Competent military opinion was that this means, although the number of Japanese units in Manchuria will be unchanged, the man power in the next few months will be enlarged 50 per cent. A third of these, it was said, will be raw recruits.

The present command of Gen. Muto, Japan's supreme military chief in Manchuria, was estimated at 40,000 soldiers.

Meanwhile, when the Diet begins its sixty-fourth session tomorrow its paramount consideration will be the direction in which Japan's military adventures on the continent of Asia are leading.

It is not likely that any serious direct challenge to the army leadership which now dominates the councils of state will arise, but the 1933 budget, totaling nearly two and a quarter billion yen ($450,000,000) emphasizes the question as to how long Japan can afford to pay for campaigns in Manchuria and possibly further afield.

The budget is the largest in the history of the nation.

Critics of the budget, including some of the country's most eminent financiers, have asserted that the present army policies are running the empire into debt at the rate of a billion yen a year and that ruin looms ahead.

Japan In New Threat To Hamper League

GENEVA, Jan. 20.—(INS.)—A new threat by Japan to withdraw from League of Nations activities unless a solution of the Manchurian problem satisfactory to Tokio is reached, was voiced today as the committee of nineteen convened to discuss the latest compromise proposal.

Instead of courting international disfavor by formally resigning from the League, Japan is now threatening to retire from active participation and withhold financial contributions, in the same manner as Argentina has withdrawn from League activities while still avoiding an open break.

The committee of nineteen is meeting to hear Japan's reply to the latest compromise—acceptance by Japan of the draft resolution settling the dispute provided the United States and Russia are excluded from participation in the conciliation efforts.

Robinson Calls France 'Ingrate' on Debts

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—A concerted attack on France's default of her war debt to America was loosened in the Senate today after Senator Robinson (Rep.), of Indiana, had termed that country a "thorough ingrate" and urged prompt passage of the Johnson bill to bar financial dealings with nations failing to pay.

Senator Fess (Rep.), of Ohio, expressed resentment at statements "by the great metropolitan newspapers that this was to be a gift and not a loan to be repaid."

He said France has assumed a "childish" attitude toward America, which helped her in time of need with "money and men."

Senators Smoot (Rep.), of Utah, and Copeland (Dem.), of New York, and Howell (Rep.), of Nebraska, joined in the criticism of France and other defaulting countries.

Smoot, a member of the now defunct funding commission, said the nations' debt representatives knew when they negotiated the settlements that the loans were "just as sacred as any obligation that could be made between man and man or nation and nation."

Copeland said it was "amazing to me how much resentment is felt by the American people over the failure of France to meet her obligations."

Poe's Lone Play Praised In Birthday Premiere

UNIVERSITY, Va., Jan. 20.—(AP.)—The University of Virginia, which Edgar Allan Poe attended as a youth, proudly acclaimed itself today as the scene of the world's premiere of the famous poet's only play.

The drama "Politian," a tragedy based on a Kentucky murder trial, was presented last night before an audience in which sat a number of biographers and literary historians. It was sponsored by the Raven Society, honorary scholastic group which meets in the memory-haunted room Poe occupied as a student.

Tonight Dr. John C. French, Johns Hopkins University librarian and first president of the Poe Society of Baltimore, will address the Jefferson Society, of which Poe was president during his student days.

Although the son of two wandering actors, Poe's literary efforts never turned to drama with the exception of "Politian," of which he evidently thought so little that he never bothered to complete it to his satisfaction.

One century after it was penned, Poe's alma mater introduced the drama to the theater on the poet's one hundred and twenty-fourth birth anniversary. Critics at the university praised the play, both for its literary worth and for its adaptability to the stage.

NORMAN, BANKER-BACHELOR, 61, TO WED DIVORCEE, 33

'MYSTERY MAN' OF MONEY IN ROMANCE

Intrigue Loving Head Of Bank of England Found by Cupid

LONDON, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, will marry Mrs. Priscilla Cecilia Maria Worsthorne, it was learned today.

Now 61 years old, Norman generally had been considered a confirmed bachelor. His bride-to-be is 33 years old. Disclosure of the plans in a notice filed in the London register office gave the city a surprise.

Mrs. Worsthorne was formerly the wife of Alexander Louis Wynand-Koch Worsthorne.

Mrs. Worsthorne is a long-time friend of Norman's family. She has been active in public affairs and is at present a member of the London County Council.

SURPRISE IN CHARACTER

The unexpected announcement of Norman's approaching marriage is in character with this "mystery man" of world finance.

He has been Goveernor of the Bank of England for 13 years, but although the bank itself is one of the most conservative institutions in the world Norman is like a figure out of a mystery novel. He looks like a retird sea captain and there are those who describe his appearance as that of a romantic poet or a dashing gun runner.

His trim, pointed beard, his dark piercing eyes, his long nervous fingers which tap on the table when he is impatient are familiar in the highest financial places of the world. He wears an old-fashioned tie threaded through a golden ring and he never fits in with the accepted conservative correctness of the London businessman.

APT AT INTRIGUE

Time after time he has gone off in intriguing secrecy, dressed in his black coat and his black sombrero hat, to Paris or Berlin or New York, but the steamship passenger list never bears his name. He is "Mr M. Collet." Collet is his middle name.

When an important banker comes over to talk with him Norman would rather conduct the conversations in secret anywhere but at his office in the Bank of England.

More than once he has stopped an Atlantic liner in the middle of the English Channel, clambered down a ladder to a motor boat and dashed back to England, his conference with a foreign financial giant completed on the ship. He professes to dislike publicity, but he gets more of it than Lawrence of Arabia. The directors of the Bank of England think they could never get along without him.

FIRE FRIGHTENS VANITIES GIRLS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Jan. 20.—(INS.)—The screams of scantily-clad members of the Earl Carroll's Vanities troupe rent the peaceful atmosphere of the Biltmore Hotel here today when fire broke out in a room occupied by W. H. Baxter, New York oil man. The girls offered inspiration to the local fire laddies.

However, before a ladder could be raised the blaze was extinguished and the Carroll beauties returned to their slumbers. Baxter was dragged unconscious from the room.

Members of the Oklahoma Press Association, in convention here, were completely "scooped," sleeping through the commotion to a man.

STANFORD, Mont., Jan. 20.—(AP.)—Mrs. S. E. Eckert found a double handful of sapphires in the gizzard of a turkey. Many of them were a good dark blue color and several weighed three to four karats. The origin of the bird has not been traced, so there has been no "sapphire rush."

FREAK STORMS SWEEP U. S.

Associated Press.

Freakish mid-winter winds which brought torrential rains and blizzards, together with property damage and various climatic changes to scattered parts of the nation, had died down today, but the devastating effects remained.

Idaho and other western states presented scenes of snowdrifts that piled as high as six feet, while Southern California checked the havoc wrought by a drenching downpour of rain, accompanied by a gale that endangered lives and shipping.

Rather than face the storm at anchor in the harbor, two battleships and a destroyer put out to sea from San Pedro.

Los Angeles measured 2.07 inches of rain, of which half an inch fell in 12 minutes. Snow fell early today in the citrus fruit sections at and near Riverside and San Bernardino, Cal., but the crop loss was expected to be small.

Power lines were down in Michigan as a result of a 50-mile gale that stirred up mountainous waves on three of the Great Lakes, Michigan, Huron and Erie.

In Chicago the wind reached a velocity of 59 miles an hour and put an end to a January warm wave.

New York counted extensive property losses from the effects of a 55-mile gale.

Duluth, Minn., had real winter temperatures in the vicinity of the zero mark.

Traffic Blockaded As Wind Fells Tree

Traffic in Bausman street near Georgia avenue was halted for an hour last night when the wind uprooted a giant elm. The tree fell across Bausman street, blocking vehicular traffic until it was removed by employes of the Bureau of Highways and Sewers. A wind velocity of 42 miles an hour was recorded at the weather bureau.

4,000 Bus Drivers In London Strike

Trolley Holdup Victim Saves Cash in Socks

Edward C. Ryan, 50, of 8875 Frankstown avenue, operator of a Pittsburgh-Verona street car, had a "hunch" early today, acted on it, and is several dollars richer.

En route to the Homewood car barns shortly after last midnight, he was held up by two "fares" at Snodders Crossing in Penn Township. While one of the men jammed a gun in his ribs, the other searched him and, failing to find any money, leisurely extracted several dollars in silver from his changer.

Back at the barns, Ryan took off his shoes. In his socks were hidden the day's receipts in paper money.

Mortgage Holiday Declared in Iowa

DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 20.—(INS.)—A moratorium on mortgage foreclosures—both on real estate and personal property liens—was ordered by Gov. Clyde Herring in a proclamation issued late yesterday and broadcast throughout the state today.

The proclamation requested all holders of real estate and personal property mortgages to refrain from any action whatever on delinquent notes until the Legislature can act on the foreclosure problem. All state and county officials were instructed to carry out provisions of the order.

HOBO COLLEGE OPENS CLASS IN TECHNOCRACY

None Alarmed Over Rise of Machine; Vote Short Day

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—Now take this technocracy thing! The ancient and honorable Society of Hoboes took it for a thorough educational airing today. They organized at hobo college—"Liberal Science Institute" in the telephone book—a course in advanced technocracy.

To 43 of the school's most gifted students, James McBeth, king of the hoboes, and dean of the college, announced the step. But first, before erudition rolled over the classroom like a fog, he led them in cheer.

In this manner did the student body shout its enthusiasm for the aims and ideals of alma mater:

"Hobo! Hobo!
Always on the go.
We're the guys without any dough.
Where do we learn the things that we know?
In Hobo College!
R-A-A-A-Y!"

The spake McBeth:

"The theory of technocracy is not new to the philosophy of the road at Hobo College. At our last convention we adopted the four-hour day and the four-day week.

"The scientists have lagged far behind the hobo in social understanding. We long since recognized that hard work dulls the mind and weakens the spirit, and that long hours of labor mean short years of life."

Hoboes are not at all alarmed at the ascendancy of machines. They are even planning more and better machines. "The Deacon," who hasen't worked for 37 years, got up and told the assemblage today what he was doing to create such a condition.

Many men have been thrown out of employment, he understood, by machines which do the labor of 20 men when you simply press a button.

"The Deacon" is perfecting a machine that will press the button.

Snappy Talks If Solons Tell Only What They Know

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

They're going to neutralize the stentorian shillabers in Congress by limiting the champion hogcallers to one pig a day.

Senator Huey Long just finished a very fine marathon stretch of paging the porker and train announcing.

Senator Thomas assisted Huey in the relay lamentation. When Huey got tired he was relieved by Thomas.

And when they both got exhausted they made it a duet.

The Senate aims to remedy the oratorical shambles by enforcing the rule of cloture.

Cloture means no barking at the moon in the daytime.

It limits the speaker to what he knows. That means a five-minute talk. Which is sure tough on the orator whose leather lungs are week-end bags.

BANDMAN DEATH CLUE FAILS

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—(Universal.)—A promised thrill in the murder of Capt. Edwin O. Schildhauer, Austin High School bandmaster, collapsed last night when "a pool of blood" described by a janitor in an apartment building was asserted to have been nothing more than the consequences of a nosebleed.

The blood was found in the vestibule of an apartment occupied by Louis Leppla, cousin of Mrs. Frances Schildhauer, widow of the slain bandmaster.

Leppla's sister, however, explained that when a suitor, Jerry Winchell, came to call on her at about the time of the murder, December 10, he suffered the nosebleed.

BACKS SUNDAY RUM SALE PLAN

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—Representative Philip Sterling today defended legislation he has offered in the General Assembly authorizing the sale of liquor on Sunday, and the issuance of perpetual licenses to establishments dispensing alcoholic beverages.

Sterling said the first provision "anticipates an open Sunday in Pennsylvania at an early date," and would give the liquor vender the same right to operate as the proprietor of another business.

He added that the perpetual license feature is calculated to avert recurrence of political interference and graft which attended the licensing of alcoholic selling places in pre-prohibition times. His bill also would create a state liquor commission.

BARTER URGED IN WEST END TO AID JOBLESS

Businessmen Asked To Accept Scrip Paid for Work

The West End and other communities in the Chartiers Valley will boom business with barter and trade, based on scrip, if plans formulated at a meeting of West End businessmen, last night, materialize.

Attempts will be made to enlist the aid of thousands of persons in the district in making the scrip acceptable in stores and business houses.

A second meeting, at which it is planned to have an economist present to round out the plan, will be held in the West End Board of Trade rooms Tuesday evening.

Howard W. Miller presided at last night's meeting, where he presented the plan to an audience of 50 businessmen. He said:

"When this becomes a permanent organization we will put many men to work, taking them from the Welfare Fund lists.

"It will be our purpose to ascertain what people have and help them to exchange it for materials or services. We're enthusiastic about the plan, and I believe it's going to be a great success."

Other businessmen participating in the original organization of the group include William Bell, Carl Koch and James T. Fox.

Aimee, Ill, Starts Trip Abroad in Fierce Gale

SAN PEDRO, CAL., Jan. 20.—(AP.)—Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, evangelist, boarded the Italian motorship Fella during a gale late yesterday for a long vacation tour of Europe, North Africa and the Holy Land.

The vessel anchored in the outer harbor to await a let-up in the storm, the worst here in eight years.

The blonde evangelist appeared pale and wan and spoke in a sick-room voice of her immediate plans.

Naples, Italy, is her port of destination, she said, and she will go by way of the Panama Canal and Canary Islands. Her husband said:

"You have no idea, boys, how sick Aimee really is. We hoped she would get as far as the Panama Canal before anyone knew she was aboard. I am going to stay behind for the time to look after the business at Angelus Temple, but next summer I'll meet her somewhere in Europe. If she is well enough then we'll come home. Aimee will be back in a year, anyhow."

Mrs. Hutton's stateroom was banked high with flowers and 20 pounds of candy was piled on her bureau. She wore a yellow silk negligee with a red collar. Her nurse alone will accompany her on the long tour.

Garbo's Return to U. S. Next Month Hinted

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—The glamorous Greta Garbo hasn't said she is going back to the United States, but it was learned from reliable sources today that she would be on her way in a week or two.

From the time she left the American shores last July 31, after her farewell to Hollywood, the movie star has been as secretive in Europe as she ever was in the United States. There was even the unanswered question of whether she ever would return to the country where she rose to sudden fame and wealth.

She came over on the liner Gripsholm, and if she returns on the same line the next sailing would be on the Drottingholm February 4.

She has spent most of the time quietly with her family on an island near here. Later during her visit, she appeared more often in public, going to theaters, shopping and riding horses. She appeared in better health.

CAR RECEIVERS PERMANENT

The Pressed Steel Car Company with assets of $45,000,000 and which normally employs 11,500 men, most of them in the Pittsburgh district, today was placed in permanent receivership by Vice Chancellor John O. Bigelow in the New Jersey Court of Chancery at Trenton.

This action followed the appointment of temporary receivers a week ago, and marks the close of a bitter fight waged by officials to save the organization from bankruptcy.

The jobs of 900 employes now on the company's payroll are threatened by the receivership action.

Reduced buying of railroad equipment has resulted in losses in recent years. The receivership was precipitated by the failure of the company to pay off a bond issue of $3,332,000 which matured on January 1.

Officials of the company attempted to prevent receivership by first offering bondholders $250 in cash and $750 in a new issue of bonds for each $1,000 bond of the maturing issue. This was followed just before the end of the year by an offer to pay $550 in cash in settlement of each $1,000 bond.

Holders of about 60 per cent of the bonds agreed to accept one of the alternative plans of settlement according to officials of the company.

New York Applies To R. F. C. for Loan

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 20.—(AP.)—Gov. Lehman today sent a letter of application to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation at Washington for an allotment of $45,000,000 from the R. F. C. fund of $300,000,000 to be used for unemployment relief in New York state.

JURORS BORED BY MIX SUIT

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 20.—(AP.)—Voluminous records of the 101 Ranch show's 1929 season were recited to a bored jury today as Zack T. Miller's $342,000 damage suit against Tom Mix, film cowboy, concluded its first week.

Miller, former operator of the show, alleges breach of contract.

R. M. Harvey, of Chicago, 101 advance man in 1929, read from the records statistics on attendance, gate receipts and weather to show how much he believed receipts would have been swelled had Mix been with the show.

CANADA'S COMPLEX PROBLEM SOLVED BY SALES TAX

MANUFACTURERS' LEVY ADOPTED WHEN OTHER METHODS FAILED

By WALTER DAVENPORT.

(Excerpts from an Article in Collier's Weekly of January 21, 1933. Reprinted by Permission of the Editor.)

Canada has come to her current administration of the sales tax by a system of trial and error. As it was first adopted, it was a turnover tax of 1 per cent. It applies generally on imported goods and on pyramiding sales of imports and Canadian manufactures—the manufacturer paying 1 per cent, the wholesaler paying 1 per cent and the jobber 1 per cent. For example, suppose a tanner bought hides from a packing house.

Revenue Produced Without Harm To Business

Canada has developed the world's best system of taxation in the manufacturers' sales tax.

It produces the revenue the dominion government must have without hindering business, and it imposes no perceptible burden upon the consumer. Walter Davenport, who investigated it in Canada, calls it "the tax nobody notices."

In the accompanying article, Mr. Davenport explains how the Canadian government evolved this highly successful and satisfactory tax by actual experience, and brought it to its present astonishing efficiency.

One per cent of the purchase price went to the government. After he had tanned the hide and sold it as leather, he paid to the government 1 per cent of what he got for it. The manufacturer of leather goods—shoes, harness or what not—paid another 1 per cent of his selling price.

And finally the wholesaler, disposing of the manufactured product to the retailer, paid 1 per cent. Or if there was a middleman, a jobber, between the wholesaler and the retailer, the government got yet another 1 per cent.

Pyramiding Protested

This is known as pyramiding and there was an immediate protest at Ottawa. The wholesalers and the jobbers complained bitterly because (and it was all easily demonstrated) they had to pay 1 per cent on any imported goods they handled and another 1 per cent on what they might purchase from domestic manufacturers.

In addition to that, if they sold directly to the consumer—the ultimate consumer—they had to pay yet another 1 per cent because the consumer was supposed to be exempt from any of the burden. Of course, he wasn't, because in the long-involved process of tax upon the price to him was sooner or later sure to include at least a part of the aggregate tax.

But, further objected the wholesalers and the jobbers, large retailers could ignore them and import goods directly from foreign houses and be liable for only one tax of 1 per cent. Or, cried the jobbers, the retailer could buy directly from the Canadian manufacturer, in which instance he, the middleman, was frozen right out of business. And the government would suffer, too, because, you see, at least one tax producer—the jobber—would thus be eliminated.

After some pondering, the government tried to remedy this situation—or a part of it—by increasing the rate of sales tax on imported goods. But that, obviously, didn't erase the trouble. All sorts of complications developed.

In a short time the government was forced to waste weeks and months trying to define "wholesaler" and "retailer." Suppose the first purchaser from the manufacturer or the first importer decided to do some retail business. Was he a wholesaler or a retailer? And what was to become of the businesses which, by long-established custom, had existed a step beyond the first purchaser of imports and domestic manufacturers — the business men who called themselves retailers?

Machinery Clumsy

Moreover, so clumsy was the government's machinery of administration that many businesses went along operating for two and three years before the government's auditors got around to them to rule whether the concern was a wholesaler, a retailer or what. All very confusing.

Also it was quite necessary that the government audit all manufacturers, all wholesalers and all jobbers, and the government found it impossible to keep pace with business because it couldn't train and organize enough auditors in time to catch up.

By 1924 Ottawa was listening gloomily to those who advised it to give up the sales tax, pointing to history for evidence that this method of getting revenue was too fraught with obstacles to be workable. But Canada elected to make radical changes and try again.

Moreover, Canada couldn't afford to abandon any existing form of income. And the advocates of the sales tax were still harping on the old argument—that a sales tax was sure to fatten the public treasury because the people would always be buying things in order to keep alive.

Adopt Manufacturers' Tax

Therefore, in 1924, Canada abolished the turnover tax and substituted for it the manufacturer's sales tax. Pyramiding was effectively eliminated and the tax ceased to be visible by the time the ultimate consumer, that universal victim of taxation, had received the goods from the retailer.

The Canadian government had learned lots about sales tax by sticking to them. It had learned, among other things, that a man will buy a $45 suit of clothes for $50 and not utter a single cry of distress, but if his bill reveals that he has bought a $45 suit to which is added $5 tax, he will go completely berserk the next time he has a chance to vote.

The new system, still obtaining, applies to finished manufacturers and to imported goods ready for the ultimate consumer. There is but one tax applied and collected. To make certain that only one tax might be collected it was decreed that no tax might be levied on goods "to be used in, wrought into or attached to articles to be manufactured or produced for sale."

In other words, only the finished motor car can be taxed and not the motor that goes into it, or the transmission apparatus, or the wheels or the tires. Or if you manufacture clothing no tax is collected from the man who sells you the cloth, the buttons or the thread.

You, the manufacturer, pay the tax after you have sold the completed suit to the retailer. But the custom tailor—the man who measures you for your individual suit and sells thus to individuals who are his customers—pays on the materials he buys to make that suit. Thus the tax is never passed on to the ultimate consumer. Not, at least, in visible form!

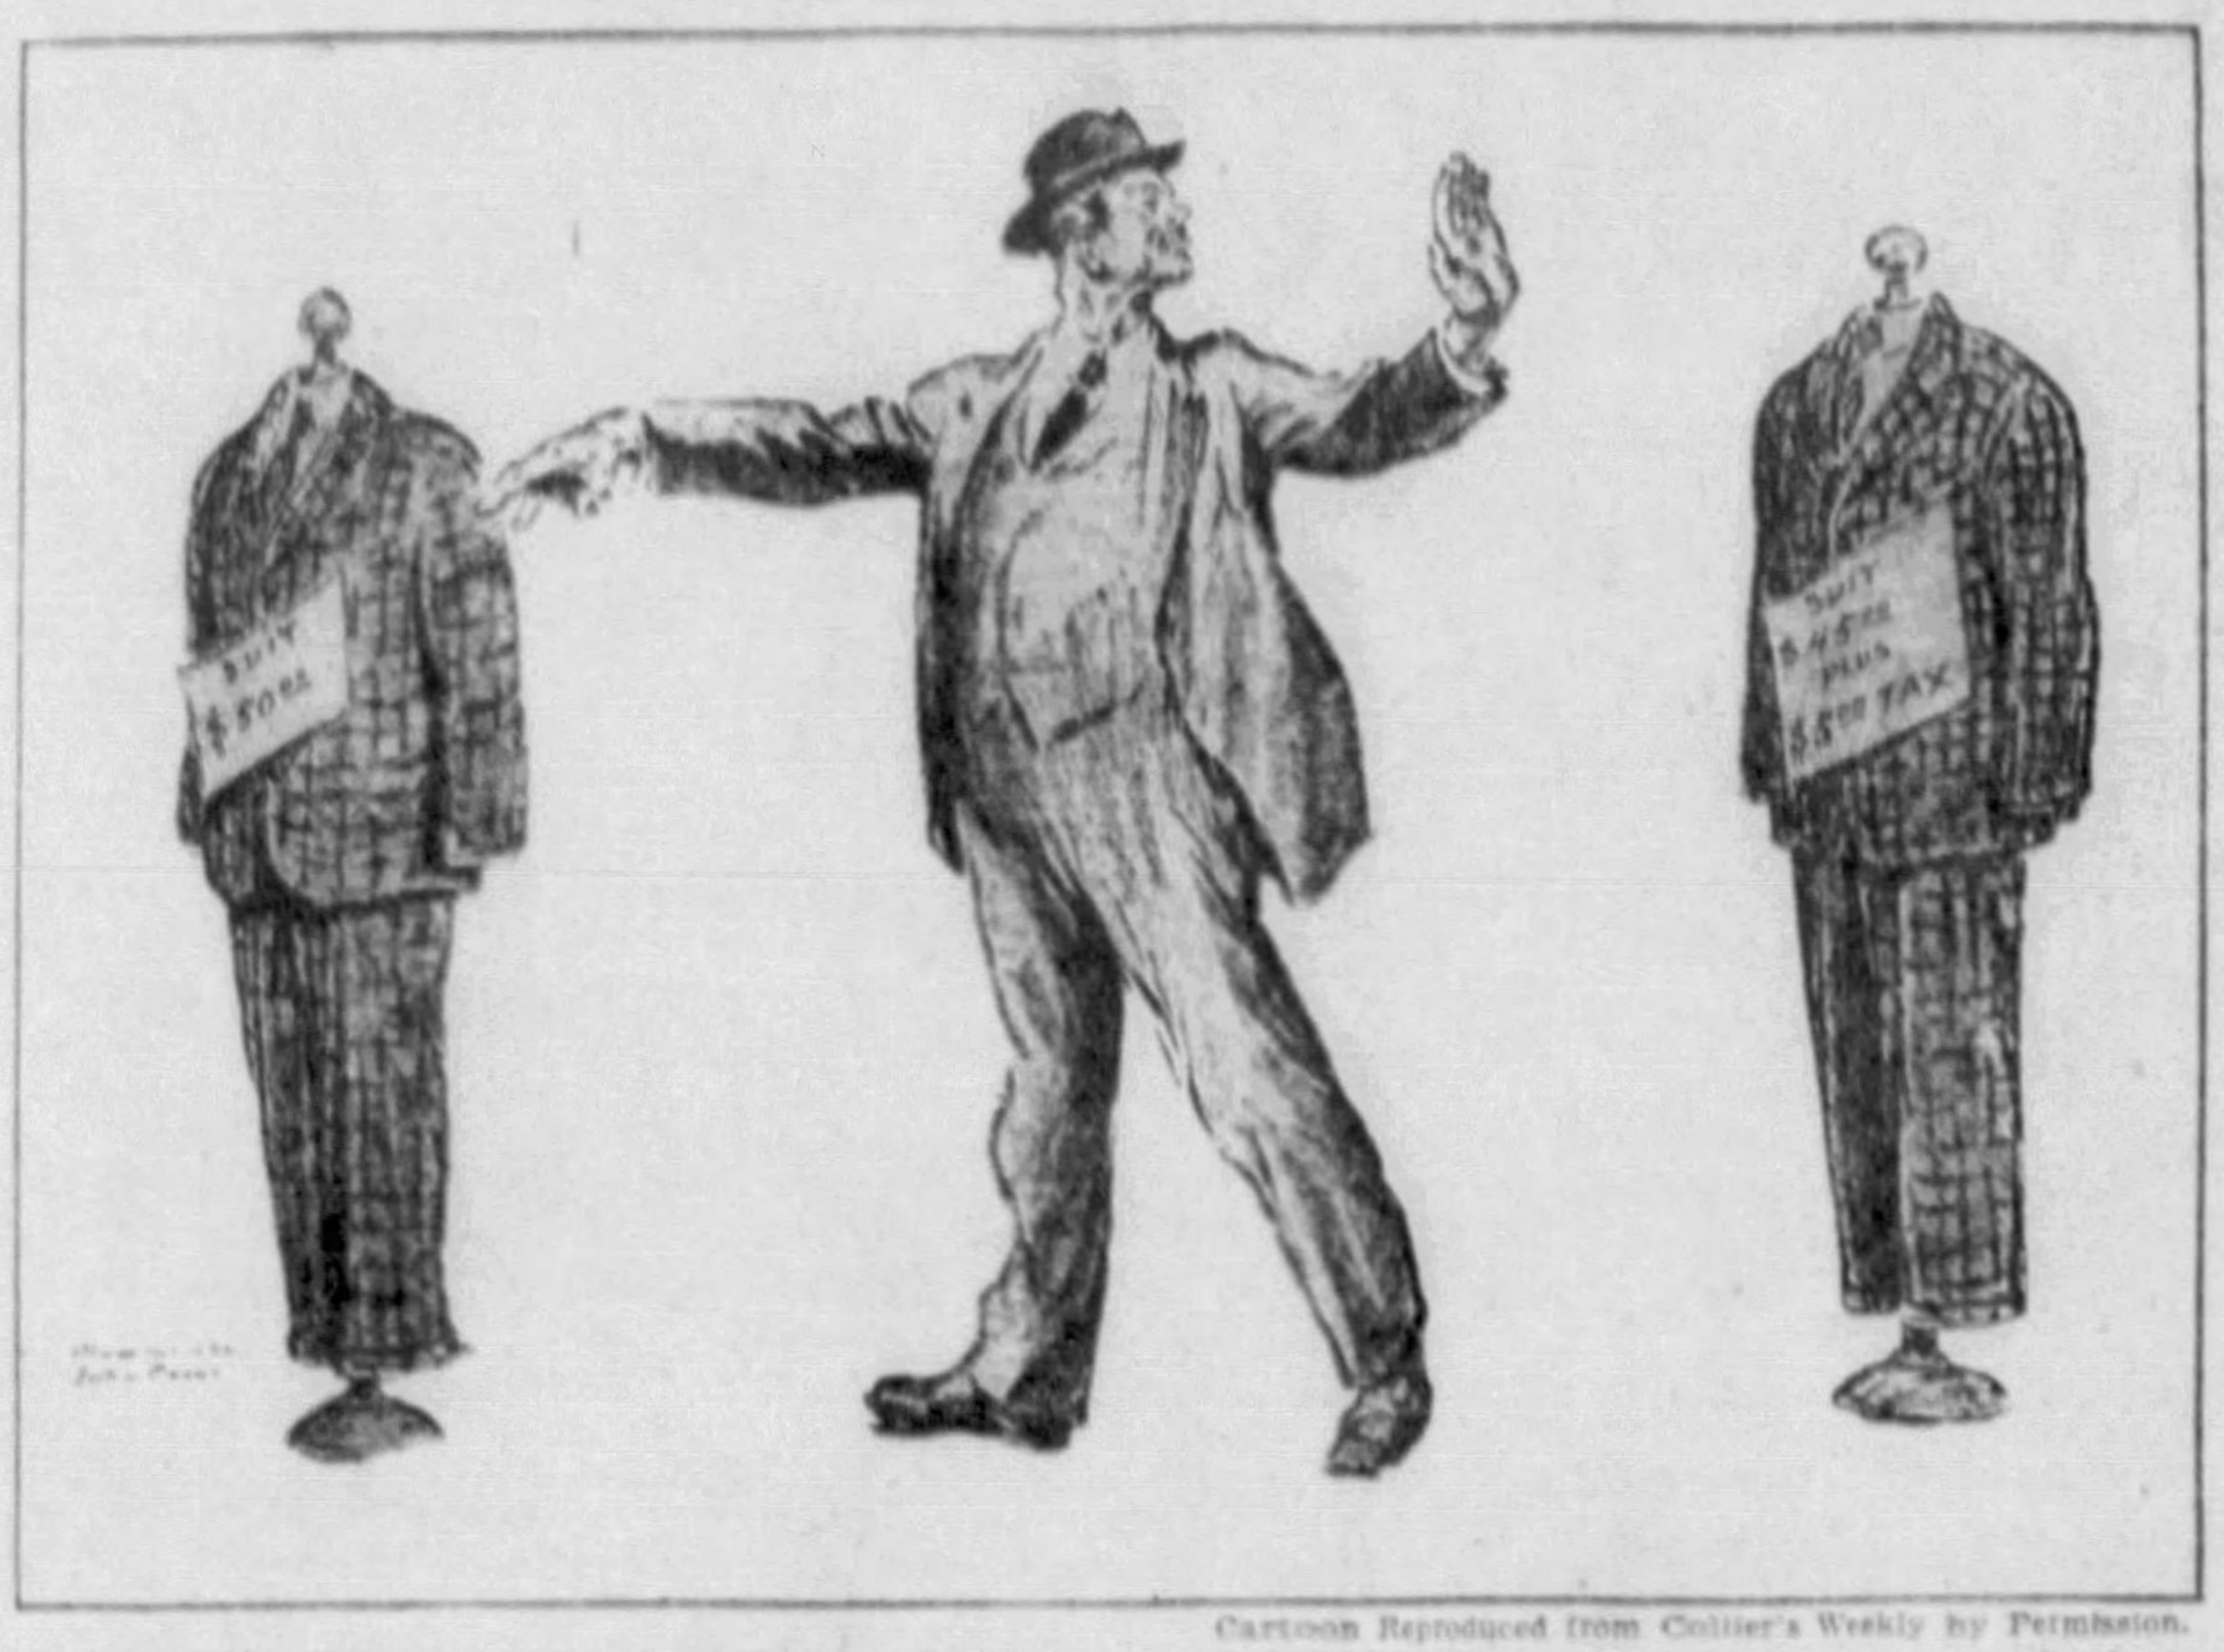
Must Make Reports

The revised law puts upon the manufacturer the burden of accounting for what he owes the government, very much as he must compute his own income tax. He trains his own auditors or hires sales tax experts and every month makes his statement to the government, accompanying this sworn-to document with his check.

And then, every so often and frequently without notice, the government's auditor appears and surveys the manufacturer's books. Penalties for evasion or failure to pay vary, but in spirit they follow income tax penalties which in Canada are quite similar to ours.

(This instalment is the second of three from Walter Davenport's article in Collier's Weekly, "The Tax Nobody Notices." The third instalment will appear in an early issue, probably tomorrow.)

INVISIBLE TAXATION



Cartoon Reproduced from Collier's Weekly by Permission.

"The Canadian government," reports Walter Davenport, "learned a lot about sales taxes by sticking to them. It learned that a man will buy a $45 suit of clothes for $50 and not utter a single cry of distress, but if his bill reveals that he has bought a $45 suit to which is added $5 tax, he will go completely berserk the next time he has a chance to vote."

BEER CAUSES DEPORTATION

LEWISTOWN, Pa., Jan. 20.—(INS.)—A glass of beer Adolph Lehmann drank in Mexico, November 3, 1931, has developed international complications as far as Lehmann himself is concerned, it was learned here today.

Col. Zach Miller, circus owner, brought Lehmann from Germany to America as his bodyguard some years ago. In 1930, when the circus played Lewistown, Lehmann shot a Negro to death in a quarrel on the show grounds and was sentenced in the local courts to serve three to six years in the penitentiary. He was released on parole March 4, 1931.

Drifting down to Texas in search of a ranch job, Lehmann yielded to a desire to quench his beer thirst and stepped across the international border. He found it impossible to get back into the United States and was sent to his native Germany.

MRS. ROOSEVELT TALKS POLITICS

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(Universal.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President-elect, last night called on every citizen of the country to take a personal interest in politics and affairs of the world in general.

She was the principal speaker at a meeting of the Greenwich Village Civic Association.

Selecting "Women in Civic Life" as her topic, Mrs. Roosevelt pointed out that through their representatives, citizens touch on virtually every problem of the world, adding:

"The attitude of the voter who thinks he doesn't matter in the general scheme is wrong. Every person has a part in shaping public opinion."

BERLIN FEARS HITLER RIOTS

BERLIN, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—The fear that Sunday may find Berlin's proletarian square, Buelow Platz, the scene of trouble was expressed today in warnings to the German and foreign press in behalf of the Communist Party, by Walter Ulbricht, a member of the Reichstag.

Ulbricht said the Nazis, despite Communist warnings to the police and the Prussian commissary government, would be permitted under the personal leadership of Adolf Hitler to stage a huge demonstration in Buelow Platz opposite Liebknecht House. The big square is the center of the proletarian district where the Communists are in the majority.

Ulbricht said the authorities, while admitting the Nazi demonstration was an act of provocation, had permitted it, while a request for a Communist counter demonstration had been refused.

Grant Pawned Watch for $22, Records Show

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 20.—(INS.)—How U. S. Grant, just six years before he became commanding general of the Union armies during the Civil War and 11 years before he was elected President, pawned his watch and chain for $22 in St. Louis only two days before Christmas, 1857, came to light here today.

The historic document was unearthed in the files of the Illinois State Historical Library.

Grant at that time was in desperate financial straits. After serving in the Mexican war he had been stationed on the West Coast but had resigned his commission. In July, 1854, almost penniless and utterly discouraged, he joined his family in St. Louis. During his six years stay there he tried his hand at many occupations, being successful, history records, in none.

PRISONER, 91, PLANS CAREER

CARLISLE, Pa., Jan. 20.—(INS.)—"Give me a pick and shovel and I'll dig as much ditch as anybody in town."

At 91, that's all Tom Collins asked of society today as he counted the hours and minutes until his release next Monday from a six-year incarceration for murder.

Or if there are no ditches to dig, he's ready to take a ladder and a saw and go back to tree surgery, his work for 30 years.

Thus, in the Cumberland County Jail, Collins laid his plans for the future with much the same zeal and enthusiasm as a youth awaiting his college diploma.

Tall, spare and vigorous, keeping fit by wielding a broom and other prison work, he will thump his chest and tell visitors:

"I'm not worn out. Why, I'm as good as I was 50 years ago. I expect to live to be 150 or 160 years old."

KOPPERS SUIT LINKS MELLONS

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 20.—(AP.)—A deal whereby Koppers Coke Company acquired a large block of stock in the Brooklyn Union Gas Company was described yesterday by a witness in the stockholders' suit against the directors of American Light and Traction Company to compel an accounting of $25,000,000 allegedly lost through transactions in stock of other concerns.

John S. Brookes, Jr., Washington, lawyer and former secretary and general counsel for Koppers, testified before Vice Chancellor John J. Backes that prior to its acquisition by Koppers in 1928, the Brooklyn Union Gas stock was held by American Light and Traction through its subsidiaries.

Brookes told how he and other lawyers devised a plan by which Koppers could acquire the Brooklyn Union Gas stock legally. He said:

"It was done through subsidiaries which divided it. These subsidiaries, however, were not owned by a company, but by five men individually who own Koppers."

These men, he said, were Andrew W. Mellon, now ambassador to England; R. B. Mellon, Henry B. Rust, Charles D. Marshall and H. H. McClintic.

The question had arisen at that time, Brookes said, whether the stock was legally held by American Light and Traction, in view of the New York state law which prohibits any corporation from holding more than 10 per cent of the stock of such a utility.

Dr. King and Dr. W. A. Waugh, also of Pitt, are the only American scientists credited with isolating the vitamin and determining its chemical composition.

LAKE COAL RATE RAISE SOUGHT

An increase of 30 cents a ton on shipments of lake cargo coal to be consumed locally at points between the Straits of Mackinac and Brockville, O., was asked of the Interstate Commerce Commission today by railroads hauling coal to lake ports.

According to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington, the railroads asked that existing rates ranging from $1.43 to $1.46 a ton be restricted to points west of the Straits and east of Brockville. The roads complained that during the past few years coal dumped at lake ports for transshipment by vessel under the lake cargo rates has been diverted through short barge hauls to industrial plants and others which should get fuel through an all-rail shipment.

Pittsburgh district coal shippers said today they had not determined to what extent the proposal would affect their interests. Southern railroads, as well as the roads serving the Pittsburgh district, are a party to the request for an increase, and apparently, it was said, it will have no bearing on the long standing fight of the Pittsburgh district against lake cargo rates enjoyed by the southern coal fields.

13 Vagrants Held In Store Robbery

Thirteen men docketed by police as vagrants had been arrested today for questioning in connection with the robbing of a butcher shop of Joseph Recordo, at 901 Wylie avenue early today. Five dollars in cash and $10 in meats were stolen.

Woman Hurt in Fall Dies in Hospital

Shower of Beer Hits Lawyer in Court Blast

DETROIT, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—A court hearing was adjourned here when the evidence exploded and a United States attorney retired to change his attire.

The evidence was a bottle of beer. The beer stood on a table. In emphasizing a point the attorney thumped the table. "Pop" went the beer, and the attorney was struck with the full force of the evidence.

BANDITS SEIZE CASH, WHISKY

Two armed bandits held up Robert O. Lee in his drug store, 2338 Carson street, and escaped with $35 in cash, a revolver and three pints of whisky last night.

Lee, alone in the store, was forced into the back room by one of the gunmen while the other looted the cash register of $25. Lee surrendered $10 from his pockets to the pair who picked up the whisky and a revolver that lay nearby. They escaped in an automobile.

Henry Simmons, a clerk in the tailor shop of Jacob Kitman, at 2148 Wylie avenue, was robbed of $7 in cash by two Negro bandits in the shop last night.

Three Youths Held In Tube City Thefts

Three youths alleged to have robbed nearly a score of homes in the McKeesport district within the last two months, were held for court by Police Magistrate James J. Lundie, of McKeesport. They were Harry Zukoski, 15, of 905 Grant street; Toiva Hilva, 17, of 1001 Jenny Lind street, and Stanley Podwapiniski, 18, of 521 Hicks alley, all of McKeesport. Articles valued at $680 and $28 in money were recovered, police said.

GOLF, POOL FEES MAY BE RAISED

Possibility of increased rates at the swimming pool and golf course in South Park next summer loomed today. The County Commissioners in budget session yesterday discussed with Park Director A. M. Marion the revenue and upkeep of the pool and links. Approximately $40,000 was turned into the county treasury last season from the golf links in the two parks and about $21,000 from the South Park pool.

Commissioner C. M. Barr suggested the revenue could be increased by raising the green fees from $1 to $2 per game and that adults be charged 25 cents at the pool. Commissioner W. D. Mansfield said he would oppose any increase in the daily rates on the golf links, but suggested yearly permits be raised from $10 to $15 and that a higher greens fee be charged out-of-the-county players.

CITY PREPARES FOR AUTO SHOW THRONGS

Thousands of visitors from the tri-state district are expected to visit the city next week for the annual Pittsburgh Automobile Show, which opens Monday and continues through the following Saturday at the Hotel William Penn.

Show visitors will find 24 lines offering the newest engineering creations and new riding comforts in 1933 automobiles displayed in the hotel's Chatterbox and lower exhibit hall. Downtown shoppers and business executives will find convenient noon-hour inspection with the doors open earlier than in former years when the show was an East Liberty attraction. The doors will open at 11 a. m. and close at 11:30 p. m.

An educational feature free to the public will be found in exhibitions of automotive accessories, parts and equipment, as well as latest models in radios and electric refrigerators. These displays will spread through the large main lobby and lower corridors leading to the Chatterbox entrance.

Billed as the world's smallest broadcasting station, programs will be heard throughout the showrooms from Station WEE. The station will be there for inspection. Announced as complete in every detail in comparison with regular large stations, the plant will be housed in its own building, 53 inches long, 22 inches deep and 20 inches high. The station will broadcast on 4-100 watt.

GAUDY'S HIRING DEFENDED BY MANSFIELD

County Commissioner W. D. Mansfield, who appointed Joseph Gaudy, McKeesport contractor, as an assistant road foreman in charge of emergency work while Gaudy held a county contract to supply a power shovel on the same project, today defended the appointment by pointing out Gaudy was one of few men he knew who could do the work properly.

Mansfield also presented a motion at the Commissioners' meeting yesterday, asking that the engineer of Controller Robert G. Woodside be instructed to inspect power shovels being used on county road projects. Mansfield proposed that if other power shovels which meet the demands of the Commissioners can be obtained for a lower rate, the change be made.

CONTRACTS ATTACKED

Contracts held by Gaudy to supply a shovel on the Renzie road project, and that of the W. J. Hasley Company for one on another project, are under fire.

Mansfield, in defending Gaudy, said he was one of the men selected last year by the Allegheny County Emergency Association as a foreman on its relief work. He has practical knowledge of road work and of handling of men in a careful and considerate manner, and experienced in using explosives, Mansfield said. The Commissioner also declared Gaudy himself was handling the explosives on the Renzie road project at 75 cents an hour.

Property and Supplies Director Ray Sprigle has said he would seek to have Gaudy and the Hasley company make refunds to the county, inasmuch as indications are that lower bidders on both contracts had not withdrawn. Alfred Hirsch, head of the Contractors' Machinery and Supply Company, informed Sprigle his bid of $4 an hour still stands.

NEW COMPLAINT

Complaint was made today that a contract for fire escape equipment at the Allegheny County Home and Hospital at Woodville was let to the second lowest bidder instead of the lowest.

F. W. White, vice president of the South Hills Ornamental Iron and Wire Works, 2428 West Liberty avenue, declared his firm was low bidder at $2,856. The contract was let to the Guibert Steel Company for $3,189.

The contract was for installation of two spiral tubular slide fire escapes. J. Lawrence Hopp, architect for the poor board, declared the contract was given to the Guibert concern because the equipment it offered had the approval of the State Department of Labor and Industry. He said the South Hills company wanted to install unapproved equipment. White denied this.

Letter to Lincoln Sent in Hunt For Business

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 20.—(INS.)—American history apparently is the least of the worries of one Chicago business house.

Despite the fact that Abraham Lincoln has been dead for 67 years, 9 months and 4 days, a letter addressed to "Abraham Lincoln, Springfield, Illinois," was delivered here today at a local hotel. The clerk, stumped, scrawled "deceased" on the missive and returned it to the mail carrier.

How Coughs and Colds Yield to Creosote

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

BLAZE DELAYS P. R. R. TRAINS

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 20.—Pennsylvania Railroad main line traffic was held up for 45 minutes as fire destroyed the boiler and power houses of the railroad company in the East Conemaugh yards last night. Electric generators and air compressors were put out of commission, and it was not until connections were made with another circuit that the signals could be operated. The loss was $50,000. A force of 50 men, under Division Engineer Collins Van Nort, arrived from Pittsburgh to rush repairs. Six main line tracks and 19 yard tracks were tied up by the fire.

Volunteer firemen attending a district convention, joined five local companies in fighting the flames.

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—Capt. W. L. Hope and his companion, Lieut. Hinley, who were reported missing on a search through the Alps for Bert Hinkler, British flier who dropped out of sight 13 days ago, were located today at Vetrox in the Simplon Valley.

ASK GOLD STAR MOTHERS ON PILGRIMAGE

One hundred and twenty-six Pennsylvania Gold Star mothers and widows have been invited by the War Department to go on this year's pilgrimage—the last—to European cemeteries where World War dead are buried, according to an Associated Press dispatch today.

About 1,000 from the 1,500 invited from the country at large, are expected to accept, it is reported.

The pilgrimage will take the mothers and widows to the one of nine principal cemeteries in which their son or husband is buried. If the body has not been located, the trip will be to the cemetery where there is a memorial chapel inscribed with the soldier's name. Mothers and widows of those lost or buried at sea will go to France with the others.

The first sailing is from New York, May 17. The last pilgrimage is to return August 24.

A list of the mothers and widows invited from Western Pennsylvania, with the cemeteries to be their destinations, follows:

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Early Recognition Will Aid in Cure of Cancer

Dr. Copeland

At a recent meeting of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, announcement was made of another country-wide campaign against this terrible disease. Three hundred cases of cured cancer were reported and made the basis of a new appeal to the public. These cases were accomplished by early diagnosis, proper application of surgery, radium and X-ray treatment.

What was done for these fortunate persons can be done for others. This society believes that more cures of cancer would be made if the disease were recognized and treated in its early stages.

Unfortunately, many persons do not realize the danger of neglecting health. They seek relief after the damage has been done. Then, usually, it is too late for cure.

I am sorry to say that often the victim of this disease refuses the aid of modern knowledge. He neglects treatment and refuses to be operated upon, even though surgery has made such tremendous strides in the cure of cancer. The poor results are obtained when surgery is resorted to merely as a last hope.

May I warn my readers against unauthorized and unethical institutions offering so-called "cures" for cancer. If you have been told you have cancer or suspect cancer, keep away from charlatans. Consult with your physician. He will advise you wisely and truthfully.

If operation is recommended do not become alarmed. Fear of the "knife" was common in former years, but today, with the marvelous advances in surgery, there is nothing to fear. The danger lies almost wholly in delay.

Some cases of cancer are successfully treated by means of radium or the X-ray. The X-ray is particularly beneficial in certain forms of cancer of the skin. Radium is only used in special cases. Sometimes a combination of X-ray and radium is used after operation. Of course the type of treatment that is most beneficial must be determined by the physician. Follow his advice and do not be misled by unscientific and unconfirmed methods of treatment. But never forget that cancer is a dangerous and fatal disease when neglected.

We never know when it will strike us. We can only guard against it by recognizing it at an early stage. This can be accomplished only by giving attention to health and heeding all the warnings of nature.

Too many persons succumb to cancer of the stomach and intestines because they overlook simple signs of warning, such as frequent nausea, chronic dyspepsia, and daily gastric distress. Impaired health, loss of weight and appetite, and vague pains, demand instant attention. The presence of blood in the excretions must never be disregarded.

I have often referred to the importance and value of periodic health examinations. I can think of no better method of combatting cancer. If you report to your physician for a complete examination every six months, you will be assured of prompt attention if it is needed. If cancer is discovered you can have the consolation of knowing it is in its early stages and that cure is possible.

Answers to Health Queries

E. M. Q.—How much should a girl of 13, 5 feet 4 inches tall weigh?

A.—She should weigh about 114 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of this age and height, as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance.

Educational films will be a feature of the institute. Banana growth and marketing, production of canned milk, and the scientific research work done by the million-dollar Food Institute will be flashed on the screen.

KIDNAP REPORT UNVERIFIED

The story of the kidnaping of an unidentified 7-year-old girl by five men in a large sedan at South Thirteenth and Bingham streets late yesterday could not be verified by South Side police today.

Helen Przybilski, 13, of 1210 Bingham street, stold police she saw the men seize the child from the sidewalk and heard her scream. Helen ran to the Birmingham School and told her teacher, who summoned police.

This should keep you going for some time. How long will it take you? Watch for the answer tomorrow.

After a breathing spell on the last cipher you can pick up your pencil and start to work on something that is tough. It's Cipher No. 45 and contributed by Mack A. Roney, of McDonald, Pa.

This is a plain transposition cipher. Maybe this will help. It's a quotation from Southey. Let's see what you can do with it.

"Bogey" on this one is 45 minutes.

Now for Cipher No. 44. Did you succeed? It was a simple cipher, known as a rail fence type. Here's how to obtain the message:

Read across the lines diagonally up and down from the first to the second line and back, in this manner—vvvvv. After you have decoded the two lines repeat, using the letters you skipped in the first step. Continue this to get the completed message.

A few more smart cipher fans have solved recent codes. William Morrison, of East Liverpool, O., and Frederick Wood, of Jeannette, Pa., who also sends an original cipher, are among them.

Mrs. Miles G. Thompson, of Cumberland, Md., says:

"We have been enjoying your cipher problems very much. Keep them up."

"Isn't she a Honey?"
"Yes, but I wouldn't kiss her on a bet . . . wait until you see her teeth!"

IT'S true, unsightly teeth will mar the most beautiful face, rob it of all charm.

But, is there any real excuse for unattractive teeth? Surely not, when they can be possessed by anyone with the smallest degree of pride.

The great trouble is that many persons who are otherwise quite nice and particular, are downright slovenly about their toothbrushes. They use them over and over again, month in and month out, without even a thought of a change, until the bristles have become soft, scraggly, paste-caked, food-clogged, germ-laden — an actual menace!

Sound and attractive teeth, and firm and healthy gums, require a frequent and regular change of toothbrushes. In fact, the new health habit is to renew your toothbrush with each tube of tooth paste you buy. And it is an inexpensive habit, made so by the invention of the Lykolene Refillable Hygienic Toothbrush which enables you to have a fresh, sanitary and serviceable toothbrush at all times — and without a penny's cost.

FREE Toothbrushes FOR LIFE

To keep yourself supplied for life with toothbrushes of the finest imported bristles and of the most modern design, and without a penny's cost, just buy Lykolene Dental Cream, that new, delightful, super-cleansing dentifrice, when you next need tooth paste. In each carton is a Lykolene toothbrush REFILL. This refill fits perfectly into the permanent Lykolene toothbrush handle, which you buy separately, but only once, at the small cost of 15 cents. After this meager investment, you need never buy a toothbrush, so long as you continue to use Lykolene Dental Cream, for you merely discard your old, used refill each time and replace it with the new, fresh one that you received with your latest purchase.

You'll like Lykolene Dental Cream because it's made in accordance with the highest standards of the Dental profession. In addition to being superlatively good, it's economical, too. A BIG, Family-size tube (the kind for which you usually pay 50c) costs only 29c cents. And, then, just think of your lifetime saving on toothbrushes.

An enlarged photograph of a toothbrush in service at time of taking picture, showing its inefficient and unsanitary condition. "This brush under test," reports one of the leading testing laboratories of America, "showed a bacteria count of 28 million, principally Staphylococci and Streptococci." Millions of such brushes are in daily use.

IT'S REFILLABLE

The Lykolene toothbrush is novel! Unique! Wholly different! In its REFILLABLE feature it represents, in opposition to the old-fashioned, unsanitary kind, an entirely new idea in dental hygiene because it brings about automatically frequent and regular renewal, thus assuring the maximum of service and safety — all without cost.

Its two parts are easily combined and separated. There are no mechanical parts; nothing to adjust or get out of order. The handle comes in six beautiful colors.

NEW ATTEMPT TO AWAKEN GIRL SET

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—Medical science is going to make another attempt to awaken Patricia Maguire, 27-year-old Oak Park (Ill.) girl, asleep now more than 11 months.

If still asleep on February 15, which will be the anniversary of the day she was stricken, a blood transfusion from a person who has recovered from "sleeping sickness" will be given on or about that date.

To date no signs of returning consciousness have been observed as result of a transfusion given the pretty brunette last Sunday with blood drawn from the arm of her stepfather, Peter Miley.

POSTMAN NEVER PASSES BY

Acting on the same principle as a serum or vaccine, it is hoped that the blood from a former victim of "sleeping sickness," already selected by the doctors, might have the power to aid Patricia to combat her illness.

In a little yellow-painted wood house, sandwiched in between similar dwellings, a drama is being enacted that has drawn medical attention the country over.

It is one house that the postman never passes by. Daily he leaves bundles of mail from relatives in Dallas, Tex.; Joliet, Morris and La Salle, Ill. One day there was a newspaper from Glasgow, Scotland, containing a story about Patricia.

GAINS IN WEIGHT

Each morning is a day of new hope for members of the anxious family who have cared for Pat constantly for 8,523 hours or enough for 1,065 nights, or two years and 11 months on an eight hour average.

Stricken without warning, and from no reason that has been determined, Patricia lapsed into unconsciousness on a Sunday morning while preparing for church. She had complained for several days before of being so "sleepy."

Last fall, her attendants were gladdened by a sudden restlessness—inarticulate protests when moved.

They watched eagerly—the soft-voiced mother, Mrs. Peter Miley, whose hair has grayed this last year, Pat's older sister, Mrs. Gladys Hansen, her step-father, several doctors, her nurse. But Pat slumbered on. Her breathing heavy, labored, almost a snore. She has added several pounds to her weight of 120 a year ago.

DON'T LET COMMON CONSTIPATION DULL THE JOY OF LIVING

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief

Constipation takes the sunshine out of your days. It may bring headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness, sallow skins, pimples. If neglected, it can seriously impair health.

Fortunately, you can avoid this condition by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides two things needed to overcome common constipation: "bulk" and vitamin B. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much better than dosing yourself with patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

SUNDAY SHOW PROGRAM GIVEN

Harry Kalmine, regional director of the Warner Theaters, who said he was going to give the best program of all for the Father Cox benefit show Sunday at the Enright Theater, today announced the feature picture as "Blessed Event" with Lee Tracy and Dick Powell. This has been acclaimed one of the five best pictures of 1932. There will also be a comedy and news reel.

Director Kalmine expects the same liberal spirit from those who will attend this benefit that every person will bring a donation of food, at least the value of the admission price for such a show.

He realizes Father Cox, a patient in Mercy Hospital, needs friendly co-operation more than ever, and hopes everyone will donate with the idea of really helping the needy. Donations of food are the only requirements for admission—standard canned goods and groceries, or any food that will be welcomed by a destitute family.

The doors of the Enright will be open at 2 o'clock and the show will continue until 11 o'clock.

In the meantime the Father Cox-Sun Telegraph subscription drive is meeting with gratifying results. For every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page, Father Cox gets a liberal cash commission for his unemployment relief fund.

LAPSED LICENSE RULE CLEARED

Many motorists who have allowed their drivers' licenses to lapse are writing the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh asking whether they can regain them without taking a test, S. S. Scott, head of the legal department of the club, said today.

He explained that a person who held a license in 1930 or 1931 does not have to pass the test again, but that those who have allowed their licenses to lapse for three years must take out a learner's permit. The new year begins March 1, he added.

Applications should not be sent in before February 15.

Patricia Pitt's Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair
-With-
Patricia Pitt

The Stage and Play cast for "'Vamp Till Ready,'' written by one of our own Pittsburgh authors, Mrs. Harvey Gaul, whose pen name is Avery Gaul, has at last been chosen. It's to be given, you know, February 14 in the Twentieth Century Club.

And rehearsals have started with Chester Wallace, of the Carnegie Tech Drama School, in the double role of director and actor.

Nearly all the characters are musicians, Mrs. Gaul tells me.

In Cast Of Play

Madelline McClintock will be the leading lady, and Charles Webster, trained at Tech's Drama School and a professional, too, will be the leading man.

Mrs. Thomas Mabon will have the role of an opera singer; George Kountz, Jr., formerly a Tech drama student, a composer; Clara Dorothea Jenkins, a guest on the farm; vivacious and smart Louise Evans, of all things, a country girl.

The Stage and Play always attracts a large audience of theater-lovers, but I venture to prophesy that this play will attract even more folks since the play is by a Pittsburgh author who is so well known.

Morning Lecture

If high school boys and girls, with their idealism and energy, counted the ballots in elections, there would be an honest accounting, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, congresswoman from Florida, told members of Pittsburgh's "400" at the morning lecture series yesterday in the William Penn's Urban Room.

As her part in interesting high school boys and girls in good government, she had high schools in her district elect three boys and girls judged to be the best citizens, and from this group of six had one boy and girl chosen finally, and taken to Washington for a course in study of government.

She gave her hearers an insight into the congressman's long day, and diverted them with amusing incidents.

Mornings Busy

One woman remarked to Mrs. Owen, on finding out that Congress didn't convene until noon, that it was nice she had her mornings for rest.

Mrs. Owen described the crowded mornings of examining the mail, often around 200 letters a day, of preparing and attending important committee meetings and interviewing visitors.

At one committee meeting on the proposed Everglades National Park, Florida, she had to stuff a five-foot snake into a canvas bag so that the attention of those at the meeting could be brought back to the problem.

Snake Homeless

One of the committee members had asked the scientist if the snakes in the proposed park were dangerous. To prove that they were not, the scientist pulled out casually five feet of snake and stretched it across a desk.

And the spectators were so spellbound that they could pay attention to nothing but the snake, until Mrs. Owen popped it back into its bag.

She added that the snake had coiled itself up by that time, so it was easy to pick it up.

Mary J. Silvius Married to G. P. Lang

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney G. Silvius, of Moore avenue, Knoxville, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Jacquelin Silvius, to George Paul Lang, son of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Lang, of Carrick, which was solemnized at a pretty ceremony Tuesday morning in St. Canice's Church, Knoxville, with the Rev. John C. Fallon officiating.

The bride was attired simply in grey pebble crepe with a matching hat, and carried roses and baby's breath. Miss Dorothy Millan, her only attendant, wore blue pebble crepe with a hat to match, and her flowers were roses. Joseph Reimstadtler served as best man.

After a short motor trip Mr. Lang and his bride will reside in Carrick. Mrs. Lang is a graduate of Mt. Mercy Academy and the bridegroom of St. Vincent's.

Miss Helen Kepler's Betrothal Announced

Announcement was made at a small, informal party Wednesday evening of the engagement of Miss Helen Kepler, of the Homeopathic Hospital, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Kepler, of Akron, O., to Roy O. Ewart, son of Mrs. Grace Ewart, of Seattle, Wash. No date was announced for the wedding, which will be an event of early spring.

Miss Kepler is a graduate of Akron University and a member of Psi Mu, and her fiance, a graduate of Ohio State University, is a Delta Upsilon.

Gossipy Chat With Nancy Jane

Ruth Bryan Owen, that charming, rich-voiced congresswoman from Florida, who addressed the Morning Lecture series yesterday, has a fund of grand stories.

Here's one of her favorites. At a Rotary luncheon the man who introduced her said, in conclusion:

"I am very glad to introduce Mrs. Owens because I knew her when she was young."

When he realized from the hush following this remark that something was wrong he added hastily:

"When she was comparatively young."

Among the many audiences she has had, the most unusual was one of automobile tops.

At least that was what it looked like to her from the bandstand, as high as a two-story building.

The audience was in automobiles parked about the bandstand.

When her audience wished to applaud a part of her speech, the drivers honked their horns.

At the end of the speech, there was much honking, and off drove the cars without the speaker ever seeing the face of one of her hearers.

Mrs. J. Henry O'Neil and Mrs. William Standish, II, are often confused, by me, among others. Mrs. Reed Brown resembles the pair, too, but she's in Paris; so that simplifies the problem of which is which by one person anyway.

$107,000 Budget Drive Opened At 'Y' Dinner

More than 300 workers gathered at a dinner meeting in Central Branch of the Y. W. C. A. last night to start the association's $107,000 budget drive. They will make their first report next Monday.

''Bridges'' was the topic of the principal speaker, the Rev. Dr. Herbert B. Hudnut, pastor of Bellevue Presbyterian Church. Mrs. J. L. Kirkpatrick, president of the association, presided, and addresses were given by Mrs. Albert P. Burchfield, general chairman of the campaign, and Miss Esther M. Hawes, metropolitan general secretary. Members were elected to the metropolitan board of directors for three-year terms.

Dr. Hudnut compared the Y. W. C. A. to a bridge, the important functions of which were to surmount a barrier, to start streams of human traffic hitherto impossible and to link up worlds divided by a gulf. The Y. W. C. A. would serve as a glorious bridge if it could develop in young women a passion for understanding, Dr. Hudnut said.

Family Relations School To Be Sponsored by State Federation

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Sponsored by the home department of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, a family relations school is to be conducted in Dickinson College, Carlisle, from June 26 to 30. Outstanding speakers will be engaged through the co-operation of the White House Conference; Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, will open the sessions; Mrs. Mulford Stough, chairman of the home department, will direct the activities, and Dr. Russell Compton, Dickinson psychologist, will serve as dean. Another interesting feature is that the only fee will be $5 and that lodging will be furnished for those attending the school.

This was only one of the important things made known at the board meeting of the State Federation in headquarters at Harrisburg yesterday and Wednesday. Another particularly interesting and new piece of work discussed was the press and publicity department's trial press school which Mrs. Elmer Melick has been conducting at Coatesville and which has been so successful that plans will be made to extend it into the five districts of the Federation.

The fine arts department, Mrs. F. N. Rupprecht, chairman, is cooperating with the Guild of American Festivals in urging all federated clubs to give at least one concert annually with only American artists on the program.

The legislative department is appealing to the Governor and the General Assembly not to eliminate the department of women and children in industry, a body which the clubwomen were largely instrumental in establishing. To the resolutions committee will go recommendations from the board: To advocate an eight-hour day for child workers and raising the age from 14 to 16 years, and to work for an amendment to the dance hall law which will prohibit endurance contests.

Mrs. Gifford Pinchot entertained the board at luncheon in the executive mansion and among other guests was her niece, Rosamond Pinchot Gaston.

First Cabaret Supper Being Given at Congress

Supper will be served at 9 o'clock tonight at the Congress of Clubs, the interest group of which is giving the first cabaret supper ever held in the clubhouse. Dancing, a floor show, cards and "futures" are all included in the entertainment.

During the play forum at 10:45 this morning, Mrs. H. Bragdon is reviewing "Another Language," by Rose Franken. After luncheon Mrs. Harvey Gaul is discussing "Experiences in Play Production." Mrs. L. A. Nubach, chairman of hostesses is assisted by Mrs. M. E. Rothberg, Mrs. P. S. Spangler, Mrs. J. L. Rodrigues, Mrs. S. H. McKibben, Mrs. J. H. Dickson, Mrs. Charles Jablow and Mrs. Paul Heisey.

* * *

Christopher Morley's playlet "Thursday Night" was presented last night at the meeting of the Junior Ambridge Women's Club in Laughlin Memorial Library. During the social hour, the members appeared in costumed impersonations and brief sketches were given by various groups. A treasure hunt was among other features of the evening's entertainment. Hostess included Alice Wessley, Mrs. James McElwee, Mrs. J. N. Lind, Josephine Pugliano and Myrtle Trembley.

Attorney Henry Oliver Evans will discuss "War Debts and World Peace" at tomorrow's luncheon in the Woman's City Club.

NEW JACKET SUITS FASHIONED FROM PRACTICAL MATERIALS

ONE OF THE sure signs of approaching spring is the first appearance of jacket suits. They are out and about long before season. No matter what the weather, fashionable women always prefer, somehow, an abbreviated jacket to a heavy coat for those last few days in January and in early February, before spring fashions are the general thing.

* * *

THIS YEAR is no exception. Aside from one consideration — that is, that this year's suits have been made practical for early spring weather by means of warm linings and heavy materials. Many of the new 1933 suits are made of materials heavy enough for coats and have jackets lined with short-haired furs.

* * *

THE DESIGNER resorts to woolen linings in the new suit in today's sketch. In this particular case, the suit is also provided with a woolen blouse —one which matches in fabric and in its bright brick color the jacket lining.

* * *

THE SUIT itself is of heavy brown woolen, in solid dark color. The lines of its cut are accentuated by double seams everywhere and by the use of trimming buttons.

* * *

ONE OF its youthful features is its little turn-over collar which may be buttoned up close about the throat and held high in place by means of a narrow scarf of marten.

Things I Never Knew Till Now

(But which you've known all along!)

That according to many dictionaries the only definition of a "natural"—the term now applied to those who are spectacularly successful as entertainers, or in the arts—is a "weak-minded person!"

That the Atchison Globe has discovered that police reporters do not get into as many fights as society reporters.

That the Soviet founder Lenin's real name was Nicholai Ulianoff.

That George Creel, who was in charge of publicity during the war, admitted he thought the Ukraine was a musical instrument.

That sometimes they marry the dead in China.

That some stewards on liners call the passengers "bloods" and the color is determined by the amount of their tips.

That Japan doesn't give medals to its soldiers for bravery in action. (The A. E. F. will tell you landlords won't accept 'em).

That according to a Washington (D. C.) weekly the original American Legion was composed of American deserters and Tories within the British lines during the Revolutionary War.

That banana oil is made from coal tar. (No, not this stuff!)

That if Australia could be placed in the N. Atlantic it would fill the space between the U. S. and the British Isles.

That Paderewski once gave piano lessons at two-bits (25 cents) per.

That Garbo's last name is the Italian word for gracefulness, refinement or elegance. (Her real last tag, however, is Gustafsen).

That there are more than 40,000 horses racing in this country every year—all of them trying their darndest to be last!

That rough college fraternity initiations are getting down to needle showers with ice water.

That the Prince of Wales belongs to a bill-posters' union.

That aliens leaving the country outnumbered those arriving by 3 to 1. (That ought to help the unemployment sitcheeayshun.)

That statistics show that out of 100 average healthy men at the age of 25—36 will perish at 65 . . . One will be rich . . . Four will be wealthy . . . Five will be supporting themselves, and 54 will be dependent upon friends, relatives or public charity.

That Manhattan was purchased from the Injuns for only $24 we all know, but it is now worth 14 billion smackers.

That people who inspect breweries in Australia are served tea or coffee as refreshments! (Come home, Hellinger, all's forgiven!)

That you can't patent a chemical fomula. And hold it, I mean. One Times man did it, and the formula was published in the Patent Office record—and a famous firm thefted it from him!

That if you think you have it tough, in some parts of China if you don't pay your taxes you are shot.

That in the town of Russgnach, Italy, all the males are christened Felice, and the females Felicita. (Anything to get mixed up, huh?)

That Manhattan College in New York is in the Bronx!

That nearly 400 different types of cheese are produced in the U. S. (This doesn't include those on the radio and in the movies).

Farce Is Bill In Fulton

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Hypnotized," romantic farce that opened yesterday on the Fulton screen, is a hodge-podge of those crazy ideas that Mack Sennett used to put into his one-reel comedies, and has now spread over feature length. It is typically Mack-Sennettian, with a lion on the loose, 'n' everything else of the same character, but now attached to a love story, the romance of an elephant trainer in a circus and Princess Mitzi, sideshow violinist.

There are a lot of "names" in the cast, Moran and Mack, the "Two Black Crows," Charlie Murray, Ernest Torrence, Wallace Ford and Maria Alba, the latter as the romantic principals.

Do not look for subtle comedy in this one—remember, it is in the characteristic Sennett groove—but if you can roar at sudden plunges into a bathing pool, and surprises of a like nature, don't take chances of having the vest buttons snap. Open the vest. The writer managed only one completely satisfactory laugh, but he confesses prejudice against the type. If you liked the old Sennett comedies, "Hypnotized" is your dish—five times as ample as it used to be.

The romance meets its snag when the bridegroom doesn't show up for the wedding, and the "Princess" wrathfully decides to return to her Gypsy father in Europe. Murray goes along, and the first thing you know, all principals are on board a steamship, where most of the action takes place. How come? Well, Torrence is a hypnotist and he has Ford under his spell, which explains his disappearance. Also that of Mack, who has been an elephant's attendant in the circus.

And there is a lot of weird action on board that ship before the engaged parties are finally married by the skipper, and Torrence is set to washing dishes in the kitchen to work out his passage.

A screen explanation of "Technocracy" is a special short feature.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The attraction to follow "The Sign of the Cross" in the Nixon will be the new George White musical production, "Melody," coming Monday, January 30, for a week's engagement. It has been playing in Philadelphia and Boston, and will go into New York after its engagement here. Among the company are Hal Skelly, Evelyn Herbert, Everett Marshall, Walter Woolf and Jeanne Aubert. The book of "Melody" is the work of a Carpenter—Edward Childs Carpenter, ha, ha. Sigmund Romberg thunk up the tunes and Bobby Connolly was overseer of the footwork. Mr. White promises the usual number of girls, never claimed to be less than 50 for a production of this nature. Joseph Urban is responsible for the setting.

* * *

The new vaudeville in the Variety, opening with a Sunday midnight show, will be headed by Ada Brown, who was featured in her last appearance here as a member of Bill Robinson's "Brown Buddies" company. Miss Brown is a vocalist, to give a singer a nickname.

* * *

Lionel Belmore, who began acting with Henry Irving in London 50 years ago, celebrated the anniversary while playing in the production of "The Sign of the Cross." His part is that of a Roman patrician, and he achieved the 50-year mark reclining on a soft cushion with a wreath of roses on his head, while two slave girls plied him with fruit and wine. May you do as well on the fiftieth birthday of your job! May you have a job!

* * *

Katharine Cornell has decided upon Baltimore for the premiere of her new play, "Alien Corn," now in rehearsal. It will be given its first public presentation February 13, and it is expected to reach New York a week later.

* * *

Following the completion of his present tour in "The Laugh Parade," Ed Wynn will boil it down for presentation in stage-film houses, the condensed version to open in Brooklyn, February 17.

Nancy Carroll has been chosen for the featured feminine role in "Bedfellows," latest of the Charles R. Rogers productions for Paramount. Miss Carroll will share stellar honors with Ricardo Cortez, who recently was placed under long term contract by Paramount.

Lion's Fight For Movie Is Real

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 20.—Murders, holocausts, terrible accidents—I've seen them all, but the biggest thrill came yesterday when a lion and a puma staged a death-fight as an unpremeditated climax to a motion picture scene in the Paramount studio.

For two hours we had been waiting—having our pictures made looking through the wire barrier, crabbing to Director Eddie Sutherland about the delay, wise-cracking about the docile looking lions, the pumas lying on their backs like house-cats, the dozing leopards, the ludicrously grinning hyenas.

What an anti-climax, we jeered, if the animals refused to come out of their cages when the doors were opened, when the half dozen cameras started grinding on the big scene for "Murder in the Zoo."

Then came Eddie Sutherland's call for lights, for action.

The murderer of the story dashed across the room, pulled a lever releasing all the doors of the line of cages.

A moment's tension. A lion climbed gingerly out. A leopard flashed into the aisle. Another lion. A puma jumped nervously.

Sutherland

For weeks these animals had been trained to work together, but something went wrong. A puma tried to slither by a lion. There was a snarl. Suddenly, the two animals were coming headlong towards the camera. The puma tried to pivot, slipped. The lion was upon him, seizing the middle of his back.

Vaguely we were aware of other movements—the wily leopards that took to the top of the cages, the hyenas cowering in their cells, the other pumas leaping nimbly, the lions falling over one another. But, with an awful fascination, the eyes came back to that silent deadly struggle.

Unable to avoid it, Director Eddie Sutherland never allowed it to finish. Pistols—blank cartridges—roared in the lion's face. Men jabbed at him. Snarling, he backed away.

But the puma, its back broken, lay upon the floor. A merciful shot ended its suffering.

Subdued we were, pasty-faced a few of us, as we came down from the platform after the animals had been driven back into their cages.

The mild thrill had turned out to be a tragedy, the cinma drama had turned real.

And I'm not so hard-boiled. I know that now.

* * *

Cocoanut Grovers were thrown into a state of excitement the other night when Marlene Dietrich came in with Maurice Chevalier. She wore a gown with a jacket modeled closely after a man's tuxedo . . . Alice Joyce and Clarence Brown were sitting tete-a-tete that same evening in the grove . . . And, on the dance floor, Rochelle Hudson and her latest, a newspaperman, were doing lively steps to Phil Harris' music . . . You can see the stars every night in the Beverly Wilshire, too. Barbara Stanwyck and Frank Fay were there, giving every evidence of being the best of friends. Gray-haired Mack Sennett was with Marjorie Beebe. . . . And Sally Eilers was making a night of it with her husband, Hoot Gibson.

The Morning Musicale at Hotel Schenley was again well attended yesterday and the audience was repaid by hearing two of our fine voices, Sarah Logan, contralto, and George Thompson, baritone.

Mr. Lissfelt

Miss Logan chose almost entirely music made in our own generation, fine songs from the German and French. Mr. Thompson kept within the classic group and then did some fine ballads in excellent English style.

There is no more beautiful contralto voice in our town than Miss Logan's. Its quality is mellow and rich, she uses it well, and her singing always makes one feel as if that is just the way one should like to have it.

Mr. Thompson, I am certain, considers himself an amateur singer, but he far transcends that class in all he does. He wants freedom that comes with much public singing, of course, but there is style and dignity in his performance, and the voice is most pleasing. J. FRED LISSFELT.

Miss Colbert On Fashions

Brunets desiring to be really well dressed should leave red fabrics to their fair-haired sisters, using the color only as an accent to a sports costume or as an evening gown once in a very great while, declares charming Claudette Colbert, best-dressed star on the Paramount lot. She says:

"My reason for discouraging the use of red by brunets is because of the completely obvious quality of the color. It adds absolutely nothing to one's appearance and in many cases detracts greatly from it.

"This season the brunet has unlimited opportunities with the many hues of gray that are so modish. Nothing is quite so flattering to our dark brown hair and olive complexions as the cold slate grays and the warm dark-bluish grays. If you want to be clever, use all gray accessories in place of the usual black and brown varieties.

"Another pet theory of mine has to do with black and the brunet. Too many of us avoid this most flattering of all tones. If you believe that black next to your face is not becoming, try the tiniest bit of white there."

Convict

Spencer Tracy is seen as a convict in "20,000 Years in Sing Sing," film in Stanley.

All in a Day

—By Mark Hellinger—

ESPLANADE HOTEL, BERLIN, Germany.—Well, my hunch came true. I had a feeling that I was going to like Berlin, and I'll be doggoned if it hasn't turned out to be far and away the best place I've struck yet. Of course, I've only been here a day—and it's 10-to-1 I'll be good and tired of it before very long. But at the moment it's all very swell.

Ask me why I like it so much and my only reply is that the town is homelike. You sense immediately that these people are friendly souls. They are anxious to please—and they convey the impression that they actually enjoy having you among them.

This morning, for example, I visited the barber shop in the hotel. The barber had never seen me before and, for all he knew, he might never see me again. Yet he took particular pains to find out exactly how I wanted to be shaved before he touched the razor to my kisser. He didn't do as I asked, but I can hardly blame him for that. Mr. Orlando Sideri, my barber in New York, has been trying to learn to shave me for 10 years and success has not yet crowned his efforts. So what could a poor German accomplish in 10 minutes?

Still, it was a swell attempt. And the manicurist—well, here's a blow-by-blow description direct from the ringside:

"Look, honey," I say to her, says I, "don't do any cutting. Just clean 'em up a little and let it go at that. Nothing more. You understand?"

She nodded.

"I understand," she returned. "You leave everything me. Everything be all right."

Five minutes later, she was cutting away. I sat up with a start.

"Look, lady," I cried, "I told you what I wanted. Ich wohl nicht mit der scissors. Haben zie nicht understood?"

She took my hand and pushed me gently back.

"I do what is good for you," she asserted. "I must do this for you. Otherwise your hands get sick. Please no be baby boy. You leave everything to me."

And that's all there was to it. She insisted upon clipping those corners whether I liked it or not just because she thought it was necessary. And all this, mind you, when she didn't know whether my tip would be 2 cents or $2.

I liked that. Because the dame was on the level. Because it was so different from other spots thus far on the trip. Because—oh, well, what difference?

Yes, my nails hurt like the devil right now. But did you have to bring that up? . . .

I admire this hotel. I've never struck anything quite like it. Our American hotels are given to boasting both in statements and in printed advertising. But even the best of our establishments could learn plenty from the methods employed by the management of this place.

An example? Certainly. The moment you register, your name is flashed to every employe—and, brother, there are plenty of them. I wasn't here more than 20 minutes when I left my room to mail a letter. I must have passed at least seven employes, and there wasn't one who didn't bow and address me by name.

It is, of course, nothing more than a satisfaction of vanity. Yet, that's the one thing for which hotel life was made. The average customer may not admit it, but the more bows and the more service he is given in the course of a day, the better he likes it.

In the end, naturally, it's all a lot of applesauce—and you pay plenty for every inch of service.

I hope that none of the European hotel managers read that last sentence at any time. I like this place—and I'd hate to see it tossed out of the hotel union for such a terrible crime.

Now for the other side of the picture. Berlin, at the present moment, is just about the most expensive city in the world in which to live. When I tell you that a single package of Camels, Luckies or Chesterfields costs $1.75 in the tobacco shops and $1.90 in the hotel, you'll get a rough idea of what I mean. In other words, you can buy practically two complete cartons in America for the price of a single package in Berlin.

The reason for this situation is the terrific tax the government places on cigaret import. They want to sell native brands, and, since the natives cannot afford anything else, that's what they smoke. American cigarets are a great luxury over here, and, even though the Germans declare the smokes are a trifle too strong for them, a package disappears as if by magic when you offer it around a table. In this respect, the situation is almost as bad as Moore's restaurant.

American cigarets are bootlegged here in many quarters, and it seems to be a flourishing business. The Camels are smuggled across the border and sold to the various cigaret bootleggers at an average price of 40 cents a package. The boys sell them on the quiet at 75 cents for the same package.

I've been approached several times today on the bootleg cigaret question, but I have turned each of the gentlemen down. As a proud American and a firm believer in our great Constitution, I refuse absolutely to buy anything from a bootlegger unless it comes in a bottle.

Speaking of bottles, as I sometimes have a habit of doing, here's a little something else along the price lines that may interest you:

When I left New York, a case of the best Hennessy brandy could be bought from the right sources at prices that ranged anywhere from $36 to $45.

In Germany, where the selling of liquor is permitted, the same bottle of Hennessy costs $4 if you shop for it—and $7 if you don't. There is no reduction on a case, so that the price runs anywhere from $48 to $84 for said case. And in the bar of this hotel, a drink of Hennessy brandy with a little charged water cost four marks, forty—or about $1.10 in our money!

No, my friends, Berlin is hardly a cheap town. They tell me that there is a great deal of misery here and that I will meet plenty of it before I leave. I don't doubt that for a moment. But what I can't understand is how the people can afford to pay the prices that are charged for different articles.

An average shirt costs $5, and you wouldn't dream of paying $2 for it in America. A good hat costs at least $8. Shoes, socks and the like are priced along similar lines. And you mustn't think that these are tourist prices—because the tourists to Berlin these days are few and far between.

As to food—well, Mr. Cozine and I had dinner in Horcher's restaurant, which is justly celebrated as one of the best eating aces in the world. We had no wine nor drinks of any sort, and the bill called for slightly less than $10. For that sum in America today, you can buy a whole restaurant.

Yes, the dinner was expensive. But oh, brothers and sisters, those liver dumplings and sauerkraut! . . .

SHOP OWNER'S PURSE STOLEN

Search was being made by police today for a tall, thin woman about 35 years of age, who late yesterday stole a pocketbook containing $40 from a hosiety shop at 411 Smithfield street.

Mrs. Bertha Yeager, the proprietress, said she kept the purse on a shelf in the rear of the store. She did not notice its disappearance until the woman had placed a $25 order and left the store.

The woman told Mrs. Yeager she was a nurse and was buying stockings for nurses at her hospital. She gave her name and address as Miss Bunter, of the Y. W. C. A., Chatham street. Investigation by police revealed no record of the woman at the Y. W. C. A.

AUDITORS REJECT WOODSIDE'S FREE PROBE PLEA

POLITICS

McGovern Attitude Is Clash Feature

By MARK SHIELDS

Mr. Shields

As a political sideshow, yesterday's clash between the County Commissioners and County Controller Robert G. Woodside was not much of an entertainment. Such diverting sidelights as there were all came from the spectators, who jammed each other about in discomfort, 800 eager to crowd into a room holding 100, hopeful that there would be some sharp words passed and perhaps a fraying of tempers which would lead to direct action.

Commissioners Charles C. McGovern and C. M. Barr, and Woodside are noted as gentlemen who in the past have touched off fireworks. It was that which appeared to magnetize the crowd which overlooked the real issues underlying the controversy.

The most interesting feature of the meeting was the attitude of Col. McGovern, who presided as chairman of the board. It was a character study which may have escaped some, but is worth consideration with a view to future political developments.

* * *

McGovern as Angry As Barr at Charges

McGovern first insisted the Commissioners should hear the charges made by Woodside, a position which the Controller questioned because of his own jurisdiction in such affairs. Commissioner Barr, who had been personally affronted by Woodside last week, insisted on an immediate hearing and a challenge to the Controller's position.

McGovern was as angry as Barr at the charges Woodside had made against the competency and integrity of the Commissioners. He seethed with resentment because he felt his own pledges to the people at the time of his election were under fire. He was as angry as he has ever been under similar circumstances, and every one knows that between the commission chairman and the Controller there exists one of the county's most fiery political feuds.

McGovern spoke with a sharpness, a positiveness, a repressed antagonism, which was reminiscent. He exhibited the potentialities of the follow through, the punch and drive which had been associated with him in his first term as Commissioner, but which some of his friends had come to feel had diminished.

It is no secret that many of the chairman's admirers — unselfish ones who asked no jobs and would take none—have been wondering at the manner in which he has mildly accepted some things in the past year. He has borne some sharp criticisms of the board without comment or reply.

* * *

Old Fire Back, But Acts With Restraint

But he was changed yesterday, back to the old fire—minus the headstrong disposition to lash out blindly even though effectively.

He wanted a showdown. But he realized that nothing could be accomplished by making the demand when it was apparent the Controller would not acquiesce and could stand on his legal rights to defy the board for the time being at least. He acted with restraint, and voted with Commissioner William D. Mansfield against Barr's insistence upon an attempt to compel the Controller to present witnesses to his charges that the Commissioners had conducted an espionage system aimed at other elective officers of the county.

Col. McGovern was as willing to fight as he ever was, as angry as when he caused spectacular scenes in county board meetings under the old regime. But he was not tilting at windmills. His measured judgment was regulating his animosity.

That was the personal side of the meeting, as it appeared to me, and a side which eventually may be more important than many persons now see.

On the political side, it was plain that McGovern and Barr believe that organized politics is using Col. Woodside as a means of attacking them in preparation for a future effort to take back control of the county board.

* * *

Important Political Repercussions Entangled

It was also plain that they are prepared to fight this attempt, but to fight with a measured plan, so far as McGovern is concerned.

True, the "battle of the resignations" blew up for the day, there was no public entertainment. But anyone who thinks that the incident is no more than a mountain made of a molehill is mistaken. There are some important political repercussions entangled in this episode. There is a splash of real interest, and ultimately there will be an appeal to the public for decision.

There must be a hearing. Col. Woodside has made serious charges, and the Commissioners have claimed tangible gains for the taxpayers as a result of the course they have adopted—particularly with respect to the county audit—and which Woodside attacks.

Parenthetically, it should be said for Col Woodside that he, also comported himself with restraint. He was, beneath the surface, as angry as McGovern. They are of the same temperament, impetuous, fiery talkers, and not above swinging with the right or left—or both.

Indeed, the crowd might have profited by the example of the Commissioners and the Controller, who had much more reason than did the spectators to become unruly.

Faith and Hard Work Advised by Coolidge For Future Success

CHAPTER VI.

The presidential election of 1892 came in my sophomore year. I favored the renomination of Harrison and joined the Republican Club of the college, which participated in a torchlight parade, but the unsatisfactory business condition of the country carried the victory to Cleveland.

For nearly two years I continued my studies of Latin and Greek. Ours was the last class that read Demosthenes on the Crown with Prof. William S. Tyler, the head of the Greek department, who had been with the college about 60 years. He was a patriarch in appearance, with a long beard and flowing white hair.

His reverence for the ancient Greeks approached a religion. It was illustrated by a story, perhaps apocryphal, that one of his sons was sent to a theological school, and not wishing to engage in the ministry, wrote his father that the faculty of the school held that Socrates was in hell. Such a reflection on the Greek philosopher so outraged the old man's loyalty that he wrote his son that the school was no place for him and directed him to come home at once.

Better at Mathematics

In spite of his 80-odd years he put the fire of youth into the translation of those glowing periods of the master orator, which were such eloquent appeals to the patriotism of the Greeks and such tremendous efforts to rouse them to the defense of their country. Those passages of the marvelous oration he said he had loved to read during the Civil War.

My studies of the ancient languages I supplemented with short courses in French, German and Italian.

But I never became very proficient in the languages. I was more successful at mathematics, which I pursued far enough to take calculus. This course was mostly under George D. Olds, who came to teach when we entered to study, which later caused us to adopt him as an honorary member of our class. In time he became president of the college. He had a peculiar power to make figures interesting and knew how to hold the attention and affection of his students. It was under him that we learned of the universal application of the laws of mathematics. We saw the discoveries of Kepler, Descartes, Newton and their associates bringing the entire universe under one law, so that the most distant point of light revealed by the largest reflector marches in harmony with our own planet. We discovered, too, that the same force that rounds a tear drop holds all the myriad worlds of the universe in a balanced position. We found that we dwelt in the midst of a unity which was all subject to the same rules of action. My education was making some headway.

Hard Work Rewarded

In the development of every boy who is going to amount to anything there comes a time when he emerges from his immature ways and by the greater precision of his thought and action realizes that he has begun to find himself. Such a transition finally came to me. It was not accidental but the result of hard work. If I had permitted my failures, or what seemed to me at the time a lack of success, to discourage me I cannot see any way in which I would ever have made progress. If we keep our faith in ourselves, and what is even more important, keep our faith in regular and persistent application to hard work, we need not worry about the outcome.

During my first two years at Amherst I studied hard, but my marks were only fair. It needed some encouragement from my father for me to continue. In junior year, however, my powers began to increase and my work began to improve. My studies became more interesting. I found the course in history under Prof. Anson D. Morse was very absorbing. His lectures on medieval and modern Europe were inspiring, seeking to give his students not only the facts of past human experience but also their meaning. He was very strong on the political side of history, bringing before us the great figures from Charlemagne to Napoleon with remarkable distinctness, and showing us the influence of the Great Gregory and Innocent III. The work of Abelard and Erasmus was considered, and the important era of Luther and Calvin thoroughly explored.

Comprehension Cleared

In due time we crossed the Channel with William the Conqueror and learned how he subdued and solidified the Kingdom of England. The significance of the long struggle with the Crown before the Parliament finally reached a position of independence was disclosed, and the slow growth of a system of liberty under the law, until at last it was firmly established, was carefully explained. We saw the British Empire rise until it ruled the seas. The brilliance of the statesmanship of the different periods, the rugged character of the patriotic leaders, of Anselm and Simon de Montfort, of Cromwell and the Puritans, who dared to oppose the tyranny of the kings, the growth of learning, the development of commerce, the administration of justice—all these and more were presented for our consideration. Whatever was essential to a general comprehension of European history we had.

But it was when he turned to the United States that Prof. Morse became most impressive. He placed particular emphasis on the era when our institutions had their beginning.

COUNTY CHEAT CHARGE JAILS SQUIRE

3 Others Also Held; Park Prosecution Lauded by Judge

Justice of the Peace Henry Williams and Constable George J. Burkhart, of Stowe Township, and two clerks in the Justice's office were held in County Jail today following alleged admissions that the county treasury had been mulcted of more than $5,000 in the last year by collection of costs on "phantom" cases, according to District Attorney Andrew T. Park.

Williams and Burkhart and the two clerks, Ellis McDaniels, 40, Williams' nephew, and Charles E. Duncan, 45, Williams' stepson, were committed to jail late last night on District Attorney's detainers. Charges of false pretense and conspiracy were to be filed against them today, Park announced.

Judge Frank P. Patterson today commended the District Attorney for his manner in prosecuting the case. He said:

"I want to commend the alertness of the District Attorney not only for this action, but for the general conduct of his office."

'PHANTOM' CHARGES

Park declared a partial audit of the books seized in the office of Justice Williams a week ago revealed that of 276 assault and battery cases entered, 274 were marked "discharged." From this number county detectives selected 25 cases at random and found that all of them bore phantom names, Park said.

During the month of August, 23 assault and battery cases were marked "discharged" on the Justice's books and all of them were fictitious, according to Park. The addresses of various witnesses and principals were vacant lots in the township.

Further audit of the books probably will not be necessary because of the alleged confession of Williams and Burkhart, Park said.

HELD IN 'FIX' CASE

Williams was arrested by county detectives last week after he was alleged to have accepted $50 from a motorist to "fix" an alleged traffic violation which involved the motorist. The detectives reported finding the money in Williams' pocket and no record of the complainant's arrest on the books. The records were then seized and the audit begun.

Williams, a street car motorman for 30 years, began his six-year-term on January 5, 1932. He was a candidate on the Independent Republican ticket, Park said. Burkhart has been a constable of the township for the last 10 years.

RAILWAYS NOT TO PAY CITY

Earnings of the Pittsburgh Railways Company are not sufficient to pay its bond interest and other fixed charges, officials revealed today, indicating they would be unable to pay the city of Pittsburgh $300,000 for street paving repairs, pole licenses and other fees.

Abolishment of weekly passes has not produced the expected additional revenue, but no fare increase is contemplated now, it was reported.

Ambridge Man Shot From Ambush

Ambridge police today are investigating the mystery shooting of John Petronchak, 26, of 617 Pine street, Ambridge, who was shot from ambush as he returned home shortly after last midnight.

Petronchak, in Valley Hospital at Sewickley with a bullet wound in his arm, was unable to ascribe a motive for the shooting, police said.

JAP WAR SCARE 'PIFFLE,' SAYS SIMS HERE

Admiral Says Trade Interests Would Ban Submarines

Piffle—that expressed Rear Admiral William S. Sims' opinion of war possibilities between United States and Japan when questioned on possibility of future danger from harbor building programs in the Western Pacific.

The retired naval officer, who spoke here today before the Friday Morning Club in the Carnegie Music Hall, declared submarine attacks on commerce could be the only means of warfare and industrial leaders of warring countries would quickly bring pressure to end such a conflict. At the Hotel William Penn, Admiral Sims said:

"Japan would be faced with the same restrictions as the United States in that there would be a limitation of operations because of fuel requirements. We couldn't attack Japan with four times the size of our present navy. The Japanese would do well to be able to seize the Philippines. Lack of naval bases would defeat warfare. The distance between factions would consume one-third of the ship's fuel before reaching an enemy, with a like amount needed to return. This would leave only one-third for battle moves."

He pointed out submarines alone could travel the necessary distances for attacks.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Jan. 20.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Here is how this two headed President thing works out. We have a President that's in, but has no authority, a President that's out, but has no authority. A Senate that's in, but has no leader; a House that's in, but's been voted out. A budget that both sides are afraid to try to balance. Debts that are owed us, that will never be paid, debts that we owe, which we keep adding to. We are sore at Japan because they took Manchuria. Sore at the world because they won't disarm. In fact we are just sore at ourselves because we muddled everything up. And in the midst of it all we tell the Philippines "what constitutes liberty."

Will Rogers

Yours,
WILL.

SEES HARDSHIP IN COMMISSARY

CHARLEROI, Pa., Jan. 20.—(AP.)—Criticizing the state commissary plan for the distribution of relief, James T. Heffran, former legislator, says "it would work an unnecessary hardship on local business men throughout the state."

In a letter addressed to Gen. Edward Martin, chairman of the Emergency Relief Association, Heffran, secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce, says:

"The new plan would be disastrous on the morale of those needing relief and work an unnecessary hardship on local business men throughout the state.

"The commissary plan would add hundreds to the present unemployed and cause literal business suicide in many districts."

LANCASTER, Pa., Jan. 20.—(AP.)—Community markets were indorsed by Dr. Theodore B. Appel, State Secretary of Health, as the "most economic and healthful plan for administering relief," in an address before the forty-first State Tuberculosis Society conference.

Dr. Appel warned that state and federal relief funds are running low and that it is up to the county boards to "feed more people for less money."

Dr. Clapp to Direct Frick Art Collection

A Pittsburgher, Frederick M. Clapp, head of the fine arts department of the University of Pittsburgh, has been named organizing director of the late Henry Clay Frick's $50,000,000 art collection to be opened soon in New York.

Dr. Clapp is in New York, having been granted a leave of absence by the university. He has been in charge of the university's department since 1926 and has added more than 15,000 volumes on art and more than 50,000 photographs to its collection.

COUNTY BATTLE ONLY LEGAL ROW NOW

Officials in Dispute Over Authority to Conduct Hearing

Controller Robert G. Woodside's request for an "independent voluntary" audit of his office books, made recently in the course of his verbal tilt with the County Commissioners, was declined today by William F. Marsh, president of the Pittsburgh Chapter, Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

Woodside asked Marsh to name a committee of accountants who would volunteer their time to the county in making a check of the records in the Controller's office. In his reply today, Marsh said he did not have authority to name such a committee and pointed out that it would cost the members of the committee their time and money.

GETS NOTICE OF SUIT

Another "misfortune of war" was delivered to the Controller today when he received formal notice of a suit in trespass to be filed against him by Mrs. Georgette Wehner, of R. F. D., Allison Park, growing out of the oratorical attack Woodside made on the Commissioners last Friday.

Meanwhile the widely-heralded battle between Controller and County Commissioners has turned into a legal dispute as to who will conduct the hearing. Postponement until after the budget sessions is expected.

Controller Woodside has contended that the Commissioners have no right to preside, but says the law specifies the County Controller may hold hearings on financial affairs of the county.

Chairman C. C. McGovern replied:

"You have no right to sit in judgment on the Board of County Commissioners. You have stepped outside your authority. You left yourself out of the possibility of being a fair judge in that already you have come to the conclusion that we have committed certain offenses."

SOLICITORS CONFER

Today County Solicitor J. F. Fife and Archibald Powell, solicitor for the Controller were to seek a decision on who shall preside at the adjourned hearing if held.

Woodside contends that the Act of 1894 gives the Controller the authority to conduct such hearings.

In open hearing, Woodside asked that all remarks which he had made regarding Commissioner C. M. Barr personally be taken out of the record. He said:

"The remarks that slipped out at that time were not intended as a slur at Commissioner Barr's character."

Woodside referred to a reference which he made in the previous hearing to a Mrs. Wehner as a "girl friend" of Barr's.

Lawyer Says He'll Quit When McGovern Does

Another "resignation" went up in smoke today.

On the heels of their failure to materialize in the Controller-Commissioners' dispute over county governmental affairs, Attorney James Philip O'Connor decided not to carry out his resolution to quit the bar if a Criminal Court jury found two of his clients guilty.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty of burglary against John Patton, 25, of 6 Brady street, and Peter Betten, 21, of 2113 Tustin street. The defendants were acquitted on seven other charges.

When the verdict was read, Judge Frank P. Patterson reminded O'Connor of his statement yesterday, and said:

"Maybe you meant that statement only for Criminal Court, or perhaps you had another reservation?"

Said O'Connor:

"No, your honor, I will resign on the day Buck McGovern resigns."

The judge asked:

"What about Woodside?"

O'Connor said:

"On the day Woodside resigns, too."

CLAIRTON VETS JOIN 'BUY AMERICAN' DRIVE AS JOB AID

$250,000 FIRE THREATENS SMETHPORT

SMETHPORT, Pa., Jan. 20.—(A.P.)—Angry flames, painting the sky with a false dawn, threatened the entire village of Smethport today and raged through a business block, causing damage estimated by Fire Chief Edward Larkin, of Bradford, at $250,000.

Starting about midnight in the office of Justice of Peace R. C. Gleason, directly above a meat market, the fire, spurred by the brisk gales whipping this section, was not brought "under control" until 5 a. m.

Responding to the frantic calls for aid sent out by local firemen, companies from half a dozen towns and cities throughout Northern Pennsylvania and Southern New York sped to the scene and checked the blaze from reaching over the village—county seat of McKean County and a community of 1,800 persons.

The W. A. Ostrander drug store, the Lindholm meat market and apartment, a leather shop, a newsstand and several frame structures were leveled by the fire.

Edwin Lindholm was overcome by smoke and was carried from his home and two firemen suffered minor burns about the face and eyes.

Fire companies came here from Bradford, Port Allegany, Kane, Eldred, Duke Center, Mt. Jewett and Olean, N. Y., Coudersport and Limestone, N. Y.

The cause of the fire has not been determined.

FEAR VIOLENCE IN IRISH VOTE

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—The tenseness of the election campaign in the Irish Free State is illustrated by the fact that former President William T. Cosgrave, who has invaded Connaught, the stronghold of President Eamon de Valera, has been accompanied by a bodyguard of 400 members of the Army Comrades Association, generally known as the "White Army."

An occasional touch of humor is noted in the campaign, however. One of these was supplied by the description of Cosgrave supporters of the economic deadlock with Great Britain as "A Kathleen Mavourneen war," because it was said "it may be for years or it may be for ever."

Cold weather continues to hamper the campaign of both parties. De Valera entered Skibbereen, Cork, last night during a heavy rain, but this did not prevent a torchlight procession in his honor.

VATICAN SHUNS TECHNOCRACY

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—Technocracy has left out of consideration the "moral and social elements which must predominate if the world wants true restoration," the Vatican City newspaper, Osservatore Romano, said today in a front page editorial dealing with the new economic credo. The newspaper demanded:

"Is the world only material, is energy only electrical? How does the new system evaluate spiritual values?"

The editorial explained that the newspaper gave space to this discussion of Technocracy because of its undeniable interest, adding:

"But it is certain that the real progress of the projects which are dear to the hearts of the exponents of Technocracy will tend only to shift to other fields a question which is only partly technical in nature. This question is composed of social and moral elements."

Charleroi Glass Man Hit by Auto, Dies

CHARLEROI, Pa., Jan. 20.—Capt. J. K. Hein, 74, plant official of the Macbeth-Evans Glass Company and president of Charleroi Council for many years, was killed when struck by an automobile today. PIRATES LOOT CHINESE SHIP

SHANGHAI, China, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—A tale of how 15 Chinese pirates plundered the Chinese coastal steamer Tahua almost within sight of Shanghai Tuesday night was received here today by vernacular newspapers from Ningpo, where the vessel, which does not have a wireless arrived.

The reports were that 400 Chinese passengers were robbed of money, jewelry and clothing, the ship's safe was looted of 200,000 Mexican dollars being shipped by a local Chinese bank to Ningpo and that the captain was forced to steer his ship to a nearby island where the buccaneers escaped. All was accomplished without the firing of a single shot.

According to the vernacular newspapers, the captain of the Tahua said that the pirates boarded the ship at Shanghai Tuesday as passengers and that when the ship was outside Woosung they forced their way to the bridge, herded the passengers and the crew into the hold of the ship, methodically searching them and the staterooms, taking money, then jewelry and finally their clothing.

Wrecks Two Autos In South Side Crash

George Jackson, 23, of 3469 Carson street, today faced charges of reckless driving and violating automobile laws as the result of an automobile ride shortly before daybreak.

Jackson, driving a machine owned by Mike Lazur, 23, of 129 West Third avenue, Homestead, went through a red light at South Eighteenth and Carson streets, crashed into two automobiles, wrecking both. Jackson and Lazur suffered cuts and bruises.

The reason: Tusko, once billed in a circus as the largest elephant in captivity, became a city ward last fall after eating several private owners out of houses and homes. Tusko smashed up his quarters during a stay in Portland, Ore., and Lewis thought he had a restless look in his eye again.

Co-op Coal Miners Strike Over Wages

Miners were out on strike at the Delta mine near Cecil today, according to Patrick Fagan, leader of the United Mine Workers of America. Low wages, on a co-operative basis, were responsible for the 250 men walking out, Fagan said.

Caution

Because of the tremendous public popularity of the "Buy American" campaign, certain persons are offering for sale to the public cards, stickers and various articles for a profit.

The Sun-Telegraph herewith informs the public that it is not engaged in any particular in the sale of anything in this connection, and that association of its name with such activities is unauthorized.

$170,000 GRANT FOR ROAD WORK

Allegheny and surrounding counties will have more than $170,000 of federal aid money with which to complete rural road relief projects following allocation of an additional $1,433,603 to Pennsylvania counties by the State Emergency Relief Board in Harrisburg yesterday.

A total of $5,433,603 is being spent on paving of 2,000 miles of rural roads.

The new allocation to the counties included Allegheny, $38,824; Beaver, $20,982; Butler, $36,250; Washington County, $32,268; Westmoreland, $49,925.

Allegheny County's total grant amounts to $122,200.

POST LAUNCHED ON VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN

With the county executive committee of the American Legion including in its minutes an indorsement of the "Buy American" campaign, members of the Daniel Keffer Post, No. 75, of Clairton, have launched an active campaign of their own.

With Warren Sherr as chairman, a committee of the post has organized its unemployed members, and has started to sell large and small posters throughout Western Pennsylvania. The posters urge that American-made goods be bought by everyone.

CONVENTION SLOGAN

The committee in charge of the Disabled American Veterans' convention, which will bring more than 200 members from 40 Pennsylvania posts to Pittsburgh tomorrow for the state convention in the Fort Pitt Hotel, has adopted "Buy American" as the slogan for the convention. The meeting, according to Curtis Haube, department junior vice commander, will indorse the movement and urge its members and their families to buy American. He said:

"There is danger that the novelty of 'Buy American' might wear off in this country. We must remember that many European and other foreign countries employ the principle in their own nations all the time. It's patriotism with them and so it has to be with us."

FEDERAL AID DENIED

Ross C. Purdy, general secretary of the American Ceramic Society, who urged "Buy American" over station WCAE and through the Sun-Telegraph last week, today announced that the Department of Commerce, through its solicitor, E. F. Morgan, has refused again to indorse the movement. Purdy, making public the reasons, quoted Morgan as saying that "Buy American" is an issue not patriotic but economic, and that the government must not officially support it.

Citing the fact that the United States is a creditor nation, Morgan said the government must aid no plan making it difficult for foreign nations to sell in America. Many American enterprises and their staffs are dependent upon imports, he said, adding exports also required friendly feeling abroad.

He termed government support of "Buy American" out of keeping with traditional freedom and termed it "paternalistic." Morgan concluded:

"In short, it has not appeared that government support of such a movement would be for the common weal and, therefore, it has been withheld. Similarly, no obstruction is offered by the government to the numerous spontaneous efforts which have been inaugurated to promote the Buy American idea."

Senate Approval Seen For 'Buy American' Plan

The Senate Committee on Expenditures in Executive Departments is expected to approve the "Buy American" bill, Senator Steiwer said in Washington today. The bill overwhelmingly passed the lower House of Congress last week. It limits purchasing by federal government departments to American-made products.

Reports from France show that imports have been cut 30 per cent in 1932 over 1931.

In Chicago, Britton I. Budd, head of the Chicago Rapid Transit lines, announced that "Buy American" posters would go in every station and in the system's cars.

In New York, Carl Byoir, publisher, declared the American tourist trade enriches foreign coffers by $2,000,000,000 a year, and urged Americans to see their own land and North and South American continents first.

When your system is stagnant and you feel sluggish, headachy, half-alive—don't waste money on "tonics" or "regulators" or similar patent medicines. Stimulate the liver and bowels. Use a famous physician's prescription every drug store keeps. Just ask them for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin.

This appetizing syrup is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. One dose will clear up almost any case of headache, biliousness, constipation. But if you want to keep in fine shape, feel fit the year 'round, take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin every few days. You'll eat better, sleep better and feel better in every way. You will never need to take another laxative.

Give the children a little of this delicious syrup two or three times a week. A gentle, natural stimulant that makes them eat and keeps the bowels from clogging. And saves them from so many sick spells and colds.

Have a sound stomach, active liver and strong bowel muscles that expel every bit of waste and poison every day! Just keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin on hand; take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. See if you don't feel new vigor in every way. Syrup pepsin isn't expensive.

Calvin Coolidge's Life Story

Washington was treated with the greatest reverence, and a high estimate was placed on the statesmanlike qualities and financial capacity of Hamilton, but Jefferson was not neglected. In spite of his many vagaries it was shown that in saving the nation from the danger of falling under the domination of an oligarchy, and in establishing a firm rule of the people which was forever to remain, he vindicated the soundness of our political institutions. The whole course was a thesis on good citizenship and good government. Those who took it came to a clearer comprehension not only of their rights and liberties but of their duties and responsibilities..

Surrounded by Beauty

The department of public speaking was under Prof. Henry A. Fink. He had a strong hold on his students. His work went along with the other work, practically through the four years, beginning with composition and recitation and passing to the preparation and delivery of orations and participation in public debates. The allied subject of rhetoric I took under Prof. John F. Genung, a scholarly man who was held in high respect. The course in biology, chemistry, economics and geology I was not able to pursue, though they all interested me and were taught by excellent men.

Not the least in the educational values of Amherst was its beautiful physical surroundings. While the college buildings of the early nineties were not impressive, the town, with its spacious common and fine elm trees, was very attractive. It was located on the arch of a slight ridge flanked on the north by Mount Warner and on the south by the Holyoke Range. The east rose over wooded slopes to the horizon, and the west looked out across the meadows of the Connecticut to the spires of Northampton and the Hampshire hills beyond. Henry Ward Beecher has dwelt with great admiration and affection on the beauties of this region, where he was a student. Each autumn, when the foliage had put on its richest tints, the college set aside Mountain Day to be devoted to the contemplation of the scenery so wonderfully displayed in forest, hill, and dale before the frosts of winter laid them bare.

Told to Follow Truth

It always seemed to me that all our other studies were in the nature of a preparation for the course in philosophy. The head of this department was Charles E. Garman, who was one of the most remarkable men with whom I ever came in contact. He used numerous text books, which he furnished, and many pamphlets that he not only had written but had printed himself on a hand press in his home. These he pledged us to show to no one outside the class, because, being fragmentary and disclosing but one line of argument which might be entirely demolished in succeeding lessons, they might involve him in some needless controversy. It is difficult to imagine his superior as an educator. Truly he drew men out.

Beginning in the spring of junior year his course extended through four terms. The first part was devoted to psychology, in order to find out the capacity and the limits of the human mind. It was here that we learned the nature of habits and the great advantage of making them our allies instead of our enemies.

Much stress was placed on a thorough mastery and careful analysis of all the arguments presented by the writers on any subject under consideration. Then when it was certain that they were fully understood they were criticized, so that what was unsound was rejected and what was true accepted. We were thoroughly drilled in the necessity of distinguishing between the accidental and the essential. The proper method of presenting a subject and an argument was discussed. We were not only learning about the human mind, but learning how to use it, learning how to think. A problem would often be stated and the class left to attempt to find the solution unaided by the teacher. Above all we were taught to follow the truth whithersoever it might lead. We were warned that this would oftentimes be very difficult and result in much opposition, for there would be many who were not going that way, but if we pressed on steadfastly it was sure to yield the peaceable fruits of the mind. It does.

Our investigation revealed that man is endowed with reason, that the human mind has the power to weigh evidence, to distinguish between right and wrong and to know the truth. I should call this the central theme of his philosophy. While the quantity of the truth we know may be small, it is the quality that is important. If we really know one truth the quality of our knowledge could not be surpassed by the Infinite.

HERE TODAY! VICKS NEW ANTISEPTIC that Cuts Gargling Costs in HALF

Born in a Depression Year and Priced Accordingly . . . a 75¢ Value for 35¢

TODAY the makers of Vicks VapoRub present a new antiseptic . . . Vicks Voratone Antiseptic. No extravagant claims are made for it. It is simply the best oral antiseptic Vicks Chemists could produce.

And they were aided by the chemists, bacteriologists, and pharmacologists of our 16 allied organizations . . in America, in England, and in Germany.

They examined the whole field of oral antiseptics. Some they found were too weak . . . a few were far too strong for regular use in the mouth . . . most were very good . . . but all were much too expensive.

Effective . . . and Safe

So they produced a balanced antiseptic . . . mild enough to be used daily without risk to delicate membranes . . . strong enough to do everything an oral antiseptic can and should do. You can use Vicks Antiseptic for all the customary uses . . . in your customary way. It is pleasant, effective . . . and safe.

And Vicks Antiseptic has this additional unique advantage . . . Born in a depression, it is priced accordingly. By taking advantage of today's low prices on raw materials, and Vicks facilities for large-scale production, our chemists are able to give you a large 10-oz. bottle . . . a usual 75¢ value . . . for only 35¢.

5 Million Trial Bottles

Of course, the only real proof of its economy—and its quality—is an actual trial in your own home. To furnish this proof, we have produced five million trial bottles, which we are supplying to druggists everywhere below the cost of manufacture. Each bottle contains 2½ ounces—a usual 25-cent value. The price, while they last, is only 10¢. Five million bottles shouldn't last long among America's 26 million families. So get yours soon.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Phil Cook Set For Radio Comeback

Phil Cook, the "One-Man Show," who's been absent from the microphone for some time, has his "army" of voices all set for a radio comeback. Portraying 15 roles in 10 scenes and doing all of the writing and directing, Cook has prepared a one-hour circus scheduled on NBC's red network a week from tomorrow. . . . Jack Benny plans a vacation following the conclusion of his present CBS series Thursday night . . . Emil Ludwig, noted German biographer, is to speak over WCAE from Geneva, Switzerland, Sunday . . . The Sisters of the Skillet have deserted their meat sponsor.

Mr. Cook

One of radio's most startling New Years resolutions comes to light—Gladys Rice has decided to get married during 1933!

Irvin S. Cobb is to guest-star with Sanderson and Crumit next Tuesday night . . . and the Circle program this Sunday will bring Rosa Ponselle to the microphone.

If you've wondered: the Romantic Bachelor, veiled in mystery is Tommy McLaughlin . . . and CBS's "Wandering Boy" is David Percy.

B. A. Rolfe is rehearsing a brand-new idea for radio— a musical comedy written especially for the microphone to stretch over 39 half-hour broadcasts. It's called "Tracked Around the World" and requires a cast of 60.

Kermit Roosevelt, Prentiss N. Gray, Dr. Harold Anthony, James L. Clark, William M. Newsome and Roy Chapman Andrews are listed to speak over NBC-WJZ Monday night about American big game. Another noted speaker to be heard over the same chain the same night is Dr. Albert Einstein.

When G. B. Shaw addresses the "dear old boobs" at the Metropolitan Opera House April 11, NBC microphones will pick up his remarks for a coast-to-coast network.

Easy Aces goes on a Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday-at-8 schedule, beginning January 28.

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen— It's about time to get at these letters which have followed the statement here that Mr. Roosevelt is the first answer to the Democratic women's prayer. The suffrage amendment was ratified in 1920. Warren G. Harding was the first president to receive the women's vote. And we have had no Democrat since Woodrow Wilson.

Are you a nickname griever? Does it make you want to cry, get angry, or belligerent? If your friends call you "Dizzy" remember that was once applied to Benjamin Disraeli, the Earl of Beaconsfield, one of England's greatest statesman, and John Ballantyne was burdened by "Aldiborontiphoscophornic" thanks to his very good (?) friend Sir Walter Scott.

Our "signs of spring department" is heard from again. Lewis F. Lacke, Jeannette, is getting all set for Washington's birthday with a cherry tree ready to burst into bloom. Looks like some early canning in Jeannette.

Congress right now is considering the transfer of river, harbor and flood control from the military to the Department of the Interior. The Army engineers of course will be affected by the change. Pittsburgh has turned out famous men who brought honor to themselves while serving as Army engineers. Gen. William L. Sibert was one of the great Panama Canal engineers; Gen. Jay J. Morrow was born on the North Side and rose to the governorship of the Panama Canal; Maj. Paul S. Reinecke is now with the Mississippi River Commission Service.

TELL IT TO ELSIE -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

Work Is Necessary for Any Kind of Success

He wants the girl to love him—and why doesn't she?

Because he's just a big gloom—that's why!

He's "shy," and she's a good mixer. He doesn't like to meet people and people thrill her. He doesn't like to dance and she does.

So what can he do about it?

How can he get her back? And will they be happy if he does?

What's your answer?

Dear Miss Robinson:

I have joined the ranks of the Sympathy Seekers, in spite of myself. I am just a Washout to The Only Girl, and I don't know how to square myself with her. Can you help me?

I have been going around with her for four years now, and without even trying not to, I have not looked at another girl with interest. She was just the only one I could see.

But recently she has not been satisfied with me. I think this is mostly due to my "shy" ways. And when I say shy, I mean shy in every sense of the word. I don't like to meet people, because I don't make friends easily.

Before we had this quarrel lately, we got along fine together; but now something has happened to Bee, and she is not satisfied with me. She says that I am "moody." I do get that way sometimes, I know. I try to be a good sport, but it seems there is no use. I just get to feeling gloomy. I don't know what to do. She likes people and she likes dancing, and I don't.

TRIED TO ATONE

Tonight, for instance, I was feeling blue, for no reason at all. As usual, I kept silent, and then I began to think how mean I was, so I tried to make up for it, but perhaps I was clumsy and made a mess of my efforts.

Anyway, I have failed, and she has left me flat. She even said that she wouldn't be "in" if I phoned her. I don't know what to do about it.

I hope I haven't bored you with my babyishness, but I had to do something, so I am asking you for help. Can you tell me what is wrong, and what to do? I will be very grateful for any advice you can give me.

JAY.

Well, son, you honestly couldn't expect the young lady to stand for those "moods" and that gloom, could you—not if she is a live wire and likes to live a live life?

So—what shall you do? Get busy and give yourself a new deal! If we want love, or any sort of success, in this world, we have to work for it. Goodness and loyalty are fine things, but we have to use our heads, too, if we want people to really value those qualities in us.

SHOULD FORGET SELF

You lost your girl because you didn't use your head. You were really so wrapped up in Jay, and what affected Jay, and how it affected him, that you didn't interest her.

The remedy? Forget yourself, son. If you can do that, you won't be "shy" with people. You won't find it hard to make friends. Go out to people, be interested in them, and they'll go out to you and you'll like to be with them.

Get outside yourself, and try to find out what makes other folks tick. You'll find they're as fascinating as jungles, once you get rid of Too Much Jay; once you realize that People are just Humans like yourself, just as "shy," often, as you are, and that they're hungry for appreciation and friends.

I don't know whether that will bring this girl back to you or not, but it will open up life to you, and make it a shining adventure. And whether it brings her back, or whether you find love with someone else, remember you'll have to give if you want to get.

Meeting the girl you love halfway, learning to interest her, to like the things she likes, is a small price to pay for happiness.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

7-Spot Cinches Slam

This is not the ordinary story of a lowly 7-spot which kept a King prisoner through a squeeze play. It is rather the story which amazingly demonstrates the worth of a carefully planned scheme of attack and its successful culmination.

The hand was:

South—Dealer.

North and South vulnerable.

North:
♠ K 8 7 3
♡ Q J 9
◇ K Q 10 3
♣ 6 4

West:
♠ 2
♡ K 10 6
◇ A J 8 5 2
♣ Q 10 9 2

East:
♠ 10 9 6
♡ 8 7 5 4 3
◇ 9 7 4
♣ [illegible]

South:
♠ A Q J 5 4
♡ A 2
◇ 6
♣ A K J 7 5

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ◇	2 N T	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♣	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
6 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

West correctly opened the deuce of trumps, having a hand filled with tenaces, which made any other lead seem inadvisable. South won the trick in his own hand with the Knave, and led the Ace, only to discover that West held no more trumps. The attack was continued by the lead of the diamond 6, and West, realizing that should he now take the Ace, there would be no means of successfully defending the hand further, played small, and the trick was won with the Queen.

The line of play from this point on is interesting and difficult. If South's two small clubs with his Ace-King-Knave had been the 5 and 3, probably the return of the diamond suit, with the idea of eventually establishing a diamond in the Dummy or forcing an undesirable lead from West, would have been the best, but as they were the 7 and 5 they made all the difference in the world. In fact, they practically made the contract certain against any defense.

Thus, South now led a small club from Dummy with the intention of throwing West in the lead if East played small. East, however, was wide-awake and played the 8, and thus for a moment frustrated South's plan. South now played the King of clubs and led a trump to the King in Dummy, which drew East's last trump. Again a club was led, and this time South was able to play the 7 and throw the lead to West. Now West was helpless. A club return established all South's clubs without having to use Dummy's last trump. This was reserved to ruff the Declarer's small heart after the hearts in Dummy had been discarded on the clubs. Any other lead by West established a trick in Dummy on which the losing heart might be discarded.

The 7 of clubs was the key-card, after the third trick, in determining the success of the contract. Assume that East had held, instead of the 8-3, the 9-8 of clubs. On the first club lead, South, of course, would have been forced to play the King. He would have returned to Dummy with a trump and led another club. The principle is the same. South would have covered East's 9 with the Knave, and West would have been forced to lead from his minor tenace in clubs into South's club Ace-7-5, or, as an alternative, establish a trick in Dummy.

Popularity With Crowd Is of Doubtful Value, Says Fay King

IT IS BETTER TO ATTRACT ONE MAN SERIOUSLY THAN A DOZEN INDIFFERENTLY
HE CERTAINLY KNOWS NOW TO ENTERTAIN, AND TAKES ME EVERYWHERE
BUT YOU ARE NOT IN LOVE WITH HIM!
DID I HEAR YOU ASK ME TO GO TO THE DANCE WITH YOU?
NO—BUT I'LL TAKE YOU!
THERE ARE WAYS OF FISHING FOR INVITATIONS!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

One girl is popular with everyone, but makes an unhappy marriage.

Another girl worries because she is not popular generally, but she is exceedingly popular with one worthwhile young man, marries him and lives happily forever after.

We too often judge popularity by invitations. The girl who has the most dancing and dining dates we think is the most popular.

But such popularity is a kind of a social racket. Those who cannot pretend so well, cannot play it successfully.

Serious and sincere persons never shine in the shallow popularity of wide circles.

They prefer the true and trusted friends of their own firesides, of which no one has many.

To be popular with these is all the popularity they have any desire to attain.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Introduction

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Does a young lady rise when greeting or being introduced to an older gentleman; also a distinguished gentleman?

J. AND H.

While it isn't necessary for a woman to rise under these circumstances, the gracious woman would rise, if the gentleman is a very old gentleman, or of special distinction.

(And, by the way, the gentleman, even though very old or very distinguished, is introduced to the woman, NOT the woman to the man.)

Acknowledging Gifts

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—I was recently invited to a restaurant for dinner and left feeling very much distressed as I do not know whether I should have left a tip also, or just let my friend do that as she paid for the dinner. Was I right or wrong in doing this?

2—Is it proper to acknowledge a gift in person, or should it be acknowledged by letter also? And can you give me an idea as to what to put in the note?

R.

1—It was not necessary or proper for you to leave a tip when your friend was the hostess. I am sure that she would have been very much embarrassed if you had done this, and I am glad that you didn't do it.

2—All of our gifts that are sent to us should be thanked for with letters of appreciation.

Such notes of thanks are, in general, of two parts. The first part thanks for the thought, the kindness in planning to give us happiness. And the second part is our chat about the gift . . . mentioning it by name (not a general reference to it as "your gift"), and then telling of its beauty or its usefulness or our plan to enjoy it in some special way, according to the kind of present it is.

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

Mystery is present in every sleek fold of a lovely evening cape of green velvet. It is cut on ample lines, and has heavy shirring over each shoulder. It fastens at the throat with bold ornaments.

Dangerously demure are the new little muffs that are all the go this winter. With a black and white frock and a black astrakan coat, one woman wears a round barrel muff of black astrakan with bands of ermine outlining each opening.

WHAT...

TALKIES at a cooking school?

YES ... and movies, too!

This is a new and different kind of a cooking school—this cooking school sponsored by The Kroger Food Foundation. More interesting. More entertaining. And most instructive!

First, there will be a talking picture—"Thought for Food." Acted by Hollywood stars. Full of romance and fun and new ideas on this subject of food. (It alone is well worth a special trip to town.) Then there will be cooking demonstrations by the nationally known cooking expert and lecturer—Helen Watts Schreiber. She will tell you—she will show you, in her kitchen, built right on the stage, how to take short cuts in cooking, how to put better taste into foods, how to stretch your food dollars without skimping on your meals. Yes, and she'll answer all your questions, and give you advice that you can take right home and use.

Come and see—hear and learn. The admission is free. The time is next Wednesday, Thursday, Friday. The sessions begin promptly at two o'clock, so be on time. The place is the

Soldiers-Sailors Memorial Hall

There will be worth-while door awards. There will be grand Grand Awards. And every guest will receive an envelope containing interesting information about the preparation of food. Now the thing for you to do is go to any Kroger Store in town—and get your tickets. They're free.

HEART OF A WIFE -:- -:-

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Brixton Starts on Another Mysterious Errand

I drew Ronald quickly inside my door and closed it.

"Steady, lad!" I said, for he was shaking perceptibly. "Your stepfather has gone, you say. When?"

"Just now." He put his hand on the door knob. "He thought I was asleep. Mother is, really, but I pretended, when I saw him coming over to the couch where I was lying. He stood over me a long time watching, but finally he was satisfied, then he put his revolver in his pocket, pulled a heavy sweater on and put a golf cap on his head. He hasn't any top coat, and he has heavy walking boots on. He looks as if he were going to tramp the hills. I must see where he goes."

He had turned the knob when my hand closed over his.

"Wait!" I breathed. "If he's taken all those precautions, he'll wait before starting out until he's sure he's not being followed. You mustn't go downstairs yet. Noel is sitting at the side of the lobby, effectually concealed by a chair, but you may be sure he'll spot your stepfather when he passes. We'll have some word from Noel before another minute or two, I am sure."

As if in fulfillment of my prophesy the telephone shrilled and I dashed to it, Ronald close at my heels.

NOEL CALLS

"Mrs. Graham!" The voice of the night clerk was suave, but I detected an undercurrent of excited curiosity in it. "Mr. Veritzen asks that you come down to the little sitting room back of the lobby right away; but he asks that you come by those side stairs. He said you'd understand."

"Go on down first," I told Ronald. "I'll speak to Mrs. Underwood, and be with you in a few seconds. Tell Noel so, if you see him."

"What the ——?" Lillian began, when I entered unceremoniously. "What's happened?"

I told her quickly, and she nodded.

"I ought to go," she said, "but I see. I can manage Helena if she wakens, and nobody else can do that little thing. But here! Take this!" She pushed something small and cold into my hand. "And don't be squeamish about using it," she added.

I put the little silencer pistol into the pocket of my motor coat, which I had donned on the way from my room, and kicking off my shoes I hurriedly put on the heavier ones.

At the foot of the side stairs I found Ronald, holding out a note to me.

"The night clerk said Noel wanted you to have this immediately, so I said I'd bring it up to you," he whispered.

"Come in here," I murmured, "and stand in front of me."

READS NOTE

He followed me into the darkened little sitting room, and I read the hastily scribbled note with the aid of my pocket flashlight:

"B standing front porch smoking, watching. Think will travel as soon as he thinks safe. Am behind lilac bush at side. Do you want me trail him? N."

I stood still for a minute, then turned to Ronald.

"Ask the night clerk to lend you an old cap and sweater, the most disreputable he can find," I directed. "Also, beg, borrow, buy or steal a bicycle for me; then slip out to Noel and tell him you and I are to trail Brixton, and that I want him to stay here on guard. But if Brixton starts before I come down—which will be, say, three minutes—both of you trail him, and when you are sure of his road have Noel cut back to me with the direction, while you keep on after him. I'll catch up to you."

I ran lightly up the stairs at my final word, and going into my own room took from my bag a pair of knickers that I had put in on the chance that I might have some such emergency as the one confronting me. A pair of Dicky's golf hose that have shrunk beyond his wearing also came out.

I looked in Dicky's bag for a cap and fitted it snugly to my head. My coat fortunately, was masculine looking. I gave myself a parting glimpse in the mirror as I hurried out.

But when I stole down to the lilac bush at the side of the house, there was no one waiting for me.

Household Hints

To clean and renew oak floors, rub the following mixture sparingly over them: Equal parts of sweet oil, turpentine and vinegar, well mixed.

If you have mahogany furniture it will be wasted on a room that is paneled in oak. A combination of dark and light wood never makes for harmony in the decorating of a room.

The Beauty Box -:- -:-

By HELEN FOLLETT

Gals don't buy one color of eye shadows now, but many shades. Because what tint the celestial eyelids should carry depends upon the color of the frock. Brown shadows with green frock, and vica versa. Bronze for the beige robe and the white one. Blue-green with black dresses. That is, if these tones suit the eyes and the complexion.

Ask yourself, madame Beauty-seeker, are you kind to your little dogs? Do you make an effort to provide them with shoes that have space for toe-spread, that are snug over the instep, of sufficient width that the sole of the foot is placed flat on the sole of the shoe? Nearly all foot troubles result from ill-fitting shoes. Spiked heels are a menace.

Blondies who would wear brighter, more golden halos should add half a teaspoonful of salts of tartar to one quart of the lemon rinse. Use the strained juice of two lemons. Remove the rinse with clear tepid water, tricking it over the head with a bath spray. Neither lemon juice nor vinegar should remain on tresslocks.

Maple Sugar and Syrup Are Valuable Energy Foods

These Delicious Products of the Tree Provide Easily Digested and Healthy Adjuncts to the Diet

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator From New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

When I was a boy it was a great treat for me to visit my grandfather's farm and help tap the maple trees. That was lots of fun.

The making of maple sugar as I knew it was picturesque. Modern methods of preparation are more efficient but less attractive. The old type camp has disappeared and the sap kettle is no longer used. Today, by using specially constructed machines, every ounce of the sap is converted into maple sugar within a short time.

Maple sugar is made by boiling the maple sap at a high temperature. The hot syrup is poured into moulds and allowed to cool and solidify. Maple sugar is not refined. The refining process would remove certain ingredients which give maple sugar its distinctive flavor.

Maple sugar is now looked upon as a delicacy and is eaten as a confection. In colonial days, maple sugar and honey were the only sugar products known to the pioneers. The North American Indian first made maple sugar and probably taught the early settlers the virtues of this food.

BIG TREES

Several varieties of the maple tree furnish maple sap. The two most important kinds are the "Rock" maple and "Black" maple tree. These trees are exceedingly tall and handsome. Some grow as high as 100 feet. I have one on my farm with a spread of 80 feet.

About 20,000,000 maple trees are annually tapped in the United States. Vermont, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Massachusetts, Maine, Michigan and New Hampshire are the principal sugar states.

Maple syrup is the sap reduced to a syrup consistence. It is also obtained by making a solution of maple sugar. Hard sugar, soft sugar, grain sugar and maple sugar, cream or butter, are additional products of the sap. Maple sugar cream or butter, is smooth and thick and greatly enjoyed by children. It may be used as a spread on bread or as an icing on layer cakes.

SHOULD BE KEPT COOL

Maple syrup is a favorite flavoring substance used with hot cakes and other articles of diet. It should be kept in a cold and even temperature. Avoid freezing as this will cause it to crystalize. Keep maple sugar in a dry, warm place of even temperature. Moisture makes it mouldy.

We occasionally hear a mother say that sugar is bad for the health of the child. In former years it was believed that sugar was harmful to the teeth and stomach. All these ideas have been disproven. Health authorities believe that sugar is an essential part of the diet of the child and adult. It is easily digested, gives heat and energy and, contrary to a common belief, does not cause cavities in the teeth.

As is true of all other food, excessive amounts of sugar are not good. They lead to many digestive disturbances.

Girl Cyclist, 9, Breaks Arm in Fall

Loretta Peifer, 9, of 5230 Lytle street, was in South Side Hospital today with a fractured arm suffered when she fell from a bicycle near her home last night, according to a police report.

Prudence Penny's Recipes

HUNGARIAN APPLE PITA—½ pound sweet butter, 3 1-5 cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon sugar, 2 egg yolks, ½ cake yeast, grated rind of ½ lemon and juice, 1 pint sour cream, ⅛ teaspoon salt.

Rub the butter into the flour, add sour cream, yeast, 1 egg yolk, lemon rind and juice, sugar, salt, and knead to a smooth paste. Divide dough into two pieces, line the square baking pan with the dough and spread with the following filling, then cover with the second piece of dough. Brush the top with beaten egg yolk. Bake slowly for 45 minutes.

Filling—½ pound finely chopped walnuts, 4 big sliced apples, 1 cup of sugar, 2 teaspoons seedless raisins, 2 teaspoons fine breadcrumbs, juice and grated rind of ½ lemon, 2 teaspoons cinnamon. Mix thoroughly.

* * *

DIXIE HIGHWAY CAKE—1 cup sugar, ½ cup butter, 2 eggs, 2 cups flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon each of cloves and cinnamon, 1 cup seeded raisins, 2½ cups water.

Simmer raisins in water for 20 minutes. Let cool. Cream sugar, butter, eggs, then add the cup of raisin juice left after boiling raisins. Mix dry ingredients. Add and mix. Add raisins and mix well. Bake in any kind of cake pan desired. Does not require icing.

* * *

NAPOLEONS—2 pieces (9x12 inches) of moderately rich pastry, 1 sponge cake, same size, 2 eggs, slightly beaten, ⅓ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups scalded milk, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, ½ cup each of chopped nuts, sliced dates, chopped raisins.

Scald milk in double boiler, add eggs, cook 10 minutes, add remaining ingredients and cook until thick. Add fruit and nuts. Spread one layer of pastry with ½ inch of filling, cover with a layer of sponge cake. Spread cake with filling. Top with final layer of pastry. Cut into squares or oblongs, frost each top separately and if desired sprinkle with nuts.

* * *

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE—¼ pound butter, yolks of 3 eggs, well beaten, 6 tablespoons vinegar, 6 tablespoons water, 1 bay leaf, ⅛ teaspoon salt.

Cream butter thoroughly, add yolks of eggs and salt. Put in crockery bowl set in slightly boiling water. Add to this the mixture of vinegar, water and bay leaf which has simmered about ½ hour. Cook until thickened.

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

'Anderson's New Chance. Closed Sundays Costly. Few White Sox Remain. Primo Argues His Case. Floor Conference Urged. Grid Pros' Other Side.

HUNK FACES TEST WITH OWN PRODUCTS

Hunk Anderson

WHILE HUNK ANDERSON has been signed to stay on as head football coach at Notre Dame, the fact that his contract again is for only one year would seem to indicate that the university still is feeling its way in his case and is not yet convinced he is a good gamble to be a lasting success in the shoes of Knute Rockne. In other words, Anderson, retained possibly because there was no better man available, still is on trial, and next season will be the third and conclusive year of the test.

This for the reason that on the 1933 roster there will be none but players of Anderson's own making. It has been said in Hunk's defense, for the loss of four major games in two seasons, despite a wealth of material, that he was handicapped because some of the gridders who had played a year under Rockne imagined their knowledge of football was greater than that of the new coach and were hard to handle in consequence. The last of these will be graduated before another season arrives, and Anderson will have a clear field for the test on which his future will depend. Jess Harper's status remains undetermined.

WHILE HOPEFUL THAT the time when Sunday baseball will be legalized in Pennsylvania is not far distant, Connie Mack regrets that it didn't go through before the 1932 season. With Sunday ball in Philadelphia, he says, it would not have been necessary for him to sell Al Simmons, George Haas and Jimmy Dykes.

Even with a second-place club, the A's suffered a loss of $150,000 last year. The sale of the three players for $80,000 reduced the deficit to $70,000. It is figurd that 11 home Sunday games would have put $165,000 in the treasury, at an average of $15,000 per Sunday, enabling the Macks to finish slightly in the clear.

THE FACT THAT out of seven states and the District of Columbia represented in the major leagues, Pennsylvania is the only sector where Sunday ball is not permitted, causes the Pirates, Phillies and A's to be hit harder by the depression than any of the other clubs.

The Bucs, in particular, suffer in a playing way also, by reason of having to do more traveling than any other club in making two-way jumps, for Sunday games. Every Sunday jump while the Rovers are at home means two successive nights on railroad trains, which takes something out of the club and puts the locals under a handicap.

THE LIFE OF a big league baseball club is short at best, but the White Sox have beaten the fastest standing records toward wiping out all traces of an entire squad. Of the string of 31 players taken to the San Antonio training camp by Donie Bush when he was managing at Chicago in 1930, only four will be found in the party of Pale Hose going to Pasadena for conditioning this year. All four are pitchers—Ted Lyons, Urban Faber, Vic Frasier and Ed Walsh, Jr. And of the four, only Lyons and Faber have been with the club continuously, out of a staff of 16 flingers that reported for training in 1930.

Art Shires

A TOTAL OF 31 White Sox players answered the call to camp that spring, and this year only 13 of that group are on major league rosters. The 18 others have gone to the minors or have passed out of baseball altogether.

Possibly there will be one more addition to the list soon, as it is unlikely that Art Shires will be kept long by the Braves and he probably will go back to the minors for good. That will reduce the survivors to 12. Three years ago, with the White Sox, Shires appeared to have a long career ahead of him as one of the most colorful players in the big show, but apparently he is on the way out to stay.

PRIMO CARNERA declares that his chances against Ernie Schaaf in their New York fight on February 10 are not to be measured by the beating he took when he ventured into high heavyweight society against Jack Sharkey in 1931.

Carnera explains that at that time he couldn't boast as much experience as the average amateur. He had boxed only 74 rounds in competition, and you will recall that it wasn't very hot competition. Since he returned to this country last June, the Vast Venetian has had 16 fights, losing only a disputed decision to Stanley Poreda.

IN THE OPINION of Johnny Freund, who helped to blaze the basketball trail through this region more than three decades ago, no other section of the country has so many good college fives in a small area as the Pittsburgh district boasts with Duquesne, Pitt, Carnegie Tech, Geneva, Westminster, Grove City, Allegheny College and Waynesburg, not to mention several teachers' colleges. Johnny thinks it would be a good move to form a home district conference taking in the schools named and also W. & J., West Virginia and State. He would scrap the class A and class B idea, holding that Geneva, Westminster and others have shown they are heaps better than many class A teams. The plan has been advanced before, but Pitt opposed it because the class B teams use freshmen.

IT IS FREUND'S belief that the district colleges would attract larger crowds while playing against one another than they draw in games with outsiders. He contends that local or district rivalry would arouse greater interest and bring better gates than games in which home teams meet others from a distance. And besides, he suggests, there is the saving of the visitors' heavy traveling expenses.

Freund announces that in addition to appearing in a professional floor game here on February 11, the Rosenblum Celtics will hold a clinic, with Dave Kerr in charge, in which they will demonstrate all manner of plays and systems to coaches, players and officials. Freund is booking Celtic dates at 225 Charles street, Pittsburgh (10), telephone Everglade 4297.

AND STILL WE haven't heard the last of football. One more game is on the card, to be played before the curtain falls, being scheduled for Sunday in San Francisco, when the Green Bay Packers will meet a team of stars selected by Ernie Nevers.

This contest is to be the concluding number of the season that has run over from 1932. It is an annual charity game, sponsored by the San Francisco Knights of Columbus, and will be played at Kezar Stadium, the scene of the East-West affair.

Red Grange

IN SPITE OF the strain of a long season with the Chicago Bears, Red Grange will continue to carry on by playing for the Packers in the coast game, further confounding the critics who pronounced him done a long time ago. The Packers have just returned from Honolulu. They are pointed out by defenders of the game as examples disproving the charge that pro football is just a business to the players. The Green Bay stars certainly did not make more than actual expenses on the trip to Honolulu, and their services are being donated for the charity game Sunday. It is conceded that they had a nice trip and that their stay in San Francisco will not be a hardship, but supporters of the pro game hold that if the athletes did not like football for itself it would take much more than a nice trip to keep them in action until this time.

PERRY BATTLES ALLEGHENY AT HOME

By JULIUS LEVIN

Deadlocks for first place in both sections of the City League, which have prevailed since the opening of the season, will be shattered this afternoon when the leaders in both divisions oppose each other in the scholastic basketball headliners.

Schenley High, coached by Walter Gross and defending champion of the City League, engages South High, coached by Grover C. Washabaugh, in the Section I headliner at Schenley, while Allegheny High, defending champion of Section II and coached by Harry Springer, opposes Perry High, coached by Chester Smith, at Perry High School. All four teams are undefeated.

GARCIA IS BACK

In other Section I clashes this afternoon, Fifth Avenue, bolstered by the return of Joe Garcia to the center position, invades Westinghouse, and Peabody, defeated in four successive contests, is the attraction at Taylor Allderdice.

The remaining two contests in Section II find Carrick at Langley and Oliver at Allegheny Vocational.

Schenley and South, deadlocked for first place in Section I with three victories and no defeats, both possess speedy passing attacks. Both teams work the ball under the basket before attempting to shoot. The Schenley team will take the floor with Tatum and Cates at forward, Fountain at center and Farber and Swierzyk at the guards. The South lineup will present Jesko and Galizewski at forward, Miskevics at center and Czlapinski and Jakubowski at the guards. The records of the two teams in Section I games follow:

SCHENLEY

Schenley	30	Peabody	22
Schenley	29	Connelley	24
*Schenley	25	Allderdice	24

*Extra period.

SOUTH

South	29	Westinghouse	27
South	34	Fifth Avenue	15
South	39	Peabody	24

PERRY FAVORITE

Leading by a margin of one-half game as a result of winning four in a row, while Allegheny captured all three of its league games to date, Perry goes into its battle with its North Side rivals favored to defeat the Springer passers.

Perry is striving for its second successive City League championship, having taken the football crown last fall by defeating Westinghouse in a post-season fray.

Perry did not have much trouble winning its first three league contests, piling up large scores on its opponents, but the North Siders had quite a time of it adding South Hills to its string of victims, barely winning by a 30-27 count. This same team team gave Allegheny quite a tussle, losing by a four-point margin at 22-18.

LOSE TWO STARS

If Perry wins the battle this afternoon it will stand a good chance of winning the sectional crown. Coach Smith loses only Manning and Geis for the second half of the race. The records of the two teams in league frays follow:

PERRY

Perry	55	Carrick	8
Perry	34	Vocational	11
Perry	34	Langley	13
Perry	30	South Hills	27

ALLEGHENY

Allegheny	32	Vocational	16

AMATEUR CHAMP QUITS CITY

By TOM BIRKS

When the Western Pennsylvania amateur golf tournament gets under way this season, it is quite possible that the defending champion, Maurice (Ski) Le Bosquet, of the Highland Country Club, will not defend his title.

M. Le Bosquet

The popular Highlander has returned to the Middle West, the firm for which he worked changed hands, Ski found himself out of a job, so he resigned his membership at the Highland club and returned to Chicago.

Le Bosquet won two West Penn amateur titles since he came to Pittsburgh in 1927 and joined the Castle Shannon golf club. He won his first title in 1928, defeating John Graham in the final at Westmoreland Country Club. Last season he annexed his second trophy at South Hills Country Club, defeating Wilson (Billy) Marks in the final round.

One of the most brilliant players in the district, his loss will be keenly felt by his club and the district as a whole.

THREE IN TIE FOR CUE LEAD

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—J. N. Bozeman, Jr., of Vallejo, Cal., red headed and the youngest player in the tournament, will have an opportunity tonight to grab sole possession of the lead in the battle for the world three-cushion billiards championship.

Bozeman will meet Allen Hall, of Chicago, who was defeated in his only start. At the rate Bozeman has been going, he was favored to break the three-way tie for the lead, in which Clarence Jackson, of Detroit, and Welker Cochran, the balkline wizard from Hollywood, Cal., both idle today, had a share with two victories and no defeats.

Augie Kieckhefer, the defending champion, was matched with Frank Scoville, of Buffalo, N. Y., in the first afternoon match, with Johnny Layton, of Sedalia, Mo., and Tiff Denton, of Kansas City, following them into action.

Bozeman and Cochran used their tests of yesterday to share the lead with Jackson. Bozeman led almost all the way to defeat Otto Reiselt, of Philadelphia, last year's runnerup, 50 to 45, in 45 innings. Cochran played brilliantly to defeat Arthur Thurnblad, of Chicago, champion in 1930, 50 to 43, in 39 innings.

Denton won his second victory in three matches, taking 54 innings to defeat Scoville, 50 to 39.

Geneva Names Five To Select Coach

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Jan. 20.—(AP.)—Selection of a new football coach to succeed Howard Harpster at Geneva College has been placed in the hands of a committee of five. Action is expected within two weeks.

The men who will make the appointment from a score of applicants are Dr. M. M. Pearce, president of the college; Dr. R. M. Clark, assistant to the president; Egbert Long, the Rev. Bruce Martin and A. C. Edgecombe, athletic director.

The grid mentor's position was discussed at the annual meeting of the board of trustees yesterday.

Player Uses Head To Bring Team Court Victory

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa., Jan. 20.—A slim fellow named Harmon, center of the Karns City basketball five, used his head—yes, his head—to give his team victory over Slippery Rock's team last night.

Karns City was trailing, 18 to 17, with only a minute to play. There was a scramble under the Karns City basket for the ball. It flew into the air and came down on Harmon's head. He had his back to the basket. The ball bounced up again from Harmon's head and fell squarely into the bucket.

Karns City won, 19 to 18.

BAMBINO FIRM ON DEMANDS

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—For the first time in his career, Babe Ruth, greatest star of baseball, today openly threatened to quit the game that has brought him fame and riches beyond dreams of avarice.

In an exclusive interview with the International News Service, Ruth declared that if Col. Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, refused to listen to reason and rejected his compromise offer to take a 10 per cent or 15 per cent cut in his $75,000 salary, and insisted on his playing this year for $50,000, he would "turn in his shoes."

At the same time Ruth revealed the fact that he has something like $400,000 saved up, with more coming in, and that he could step down at this moment without the slightest financial embarrassment.

PIET REMAINS ON OUTSIDE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Tony Piet, star second baseman of the Pirates, said today he is not a "holdout," although he is not satisfied with the contract tendered him by the Pittsburgh club. He held two long conferences with President William E. Benswanger yesterday, but the player and owner apparently could not reach a complete accord on the Tony's salary for 1933. Piet said:

"I trust I will not be regarded as a holdout. I received my contract; it was not entirely satisfactory, so I decided to talk things over with Mr. Benswanger. Last year I did not sign the first contract offered me, and I had little trouble reaching an agreement. I feel that our friendly difference of the present will be ironed out quickly."

Piet conferred with Benswanger yesterday afternoon. They also got together last night. There is a chance that the matter will not be adjusted until Manager George Gibson returns late next week.

Tony says his salary last season was small, and, inasmuch as he was the regular second baseman of the club from the tap of the gong until the curtain fell, he thinks he qualifies to draw a "big league" check.

Nothing definite has been given out on Steve Swetonic, who was enjoying a remarkable season last year until he injured his arm. Swetonic and French were both said to have asked for advance in pay.

Pitchers Ervin Brame and Ray Kremer are believed to have been forwarded contracts which called for drastic cuts.

LOCAL MATCHES OPEN LEAGUE CAMPAIGN

By JESS CARVER

Collegiate fists will caress collegiate chins and collegiate swings will flatten collegiate noses here tonight as the varsity boxers of Duquesne and Wash-Jeff open both the local intercollegiate boxing season and the Intercollegiate Conference campaign with a dual match in the Dukes' gym.

Each of tonight's seven bouts will count toward the winning of the Conference title, it having been decided to award the team championship on the basis of bouts won and lost during the regular campaign this year, and not in the annual individual championship tournament as was the case in '32.

MOORE FACES OSBORN

Two bouts of outstanding merit grace the card. In the 145-pound class, Freddy Moore, of the Dukes, the Conference champion, will battle a formidable opponent in Bob Osborn, of Wash-Jeff. Moore was the hit of the Conference tourney at Carnegie Tech last year, and is one of the fastest and most clever amateur scrappers in the district.

In the other bout of promise, Al Demedowitz, captain of the President squad, a star 175-pounder, will engage Johnny Chapella, Ambridge husky.

Joe Orsini, varsity coach of boxing at Pitt, will referee all matches. The program of bouts follows:

115 pounds—Fred "Speedy" Vitulla, Duquesne, vs. Tom McMahon, W. & J.

125 pounds—Bob Gibb, Duquesne, vs. Smith, W. & J.

135 pounds—Dick Ehrlich, Duquesne, vs. Younkers, W. & J.

145 pounds—Fred Moore, Duquesne, vs. Osborn, W. & J.

155 pounds—Matt Rummera, Duquesne, vs. Luppino, W. & J.

165 pounds—Sam Lathero, Duquesne, vs. Dallis, W. & J.

175 pounds—John Chappala, Duquesne, vs. Al Demedowitz, W. & J.

Cribbs Back Again

Order has been restored in the Pitt basketball ranks with the return to active duty of Claire Cribbs, rangy center star, who'll oppose Moose Krause, of Notre Dame, as the Panthers and Irish tangle in the tenth game of their six-year-old series in the Stadium Pavilion tomorrow night.

Cribbs cracked an ankle in the game with Temple two weeks ago and was out of both the Duquesne and Carnegie games. He's o. k. again now and will start tomorrow. Cribbs' return means that Russ Ochsenhirt can go back to his position at guard and that Charley Hughes can plan to perch on the bench along with the other first-string reserves, Slim Wainio and Rocco Cutri.

DUKES BEAT ALUMNI

The Dukes took care of the college basketball assignment last night as they put on their annual varsity-alumni game, with the Varsity, led by Jim MacDougall, winning, 44 to 25. Big Jim tallied four field goals. Roy O'Donovan, Brud Stephens and Johnny Serbin each accounted for three for the old-timers. The lineup:

ATHLETIC BOARD WINS

In a preliminary that was worth a tour in vaudeville, the members of the athletic department defeated the board of governors of the university's alumni association, 24 to 23 when Joe Pesci, former star distance runner, tossed a field goal with less than a minute left to play. The lineup:

HUNK TO STAY AT NOTRE DAME

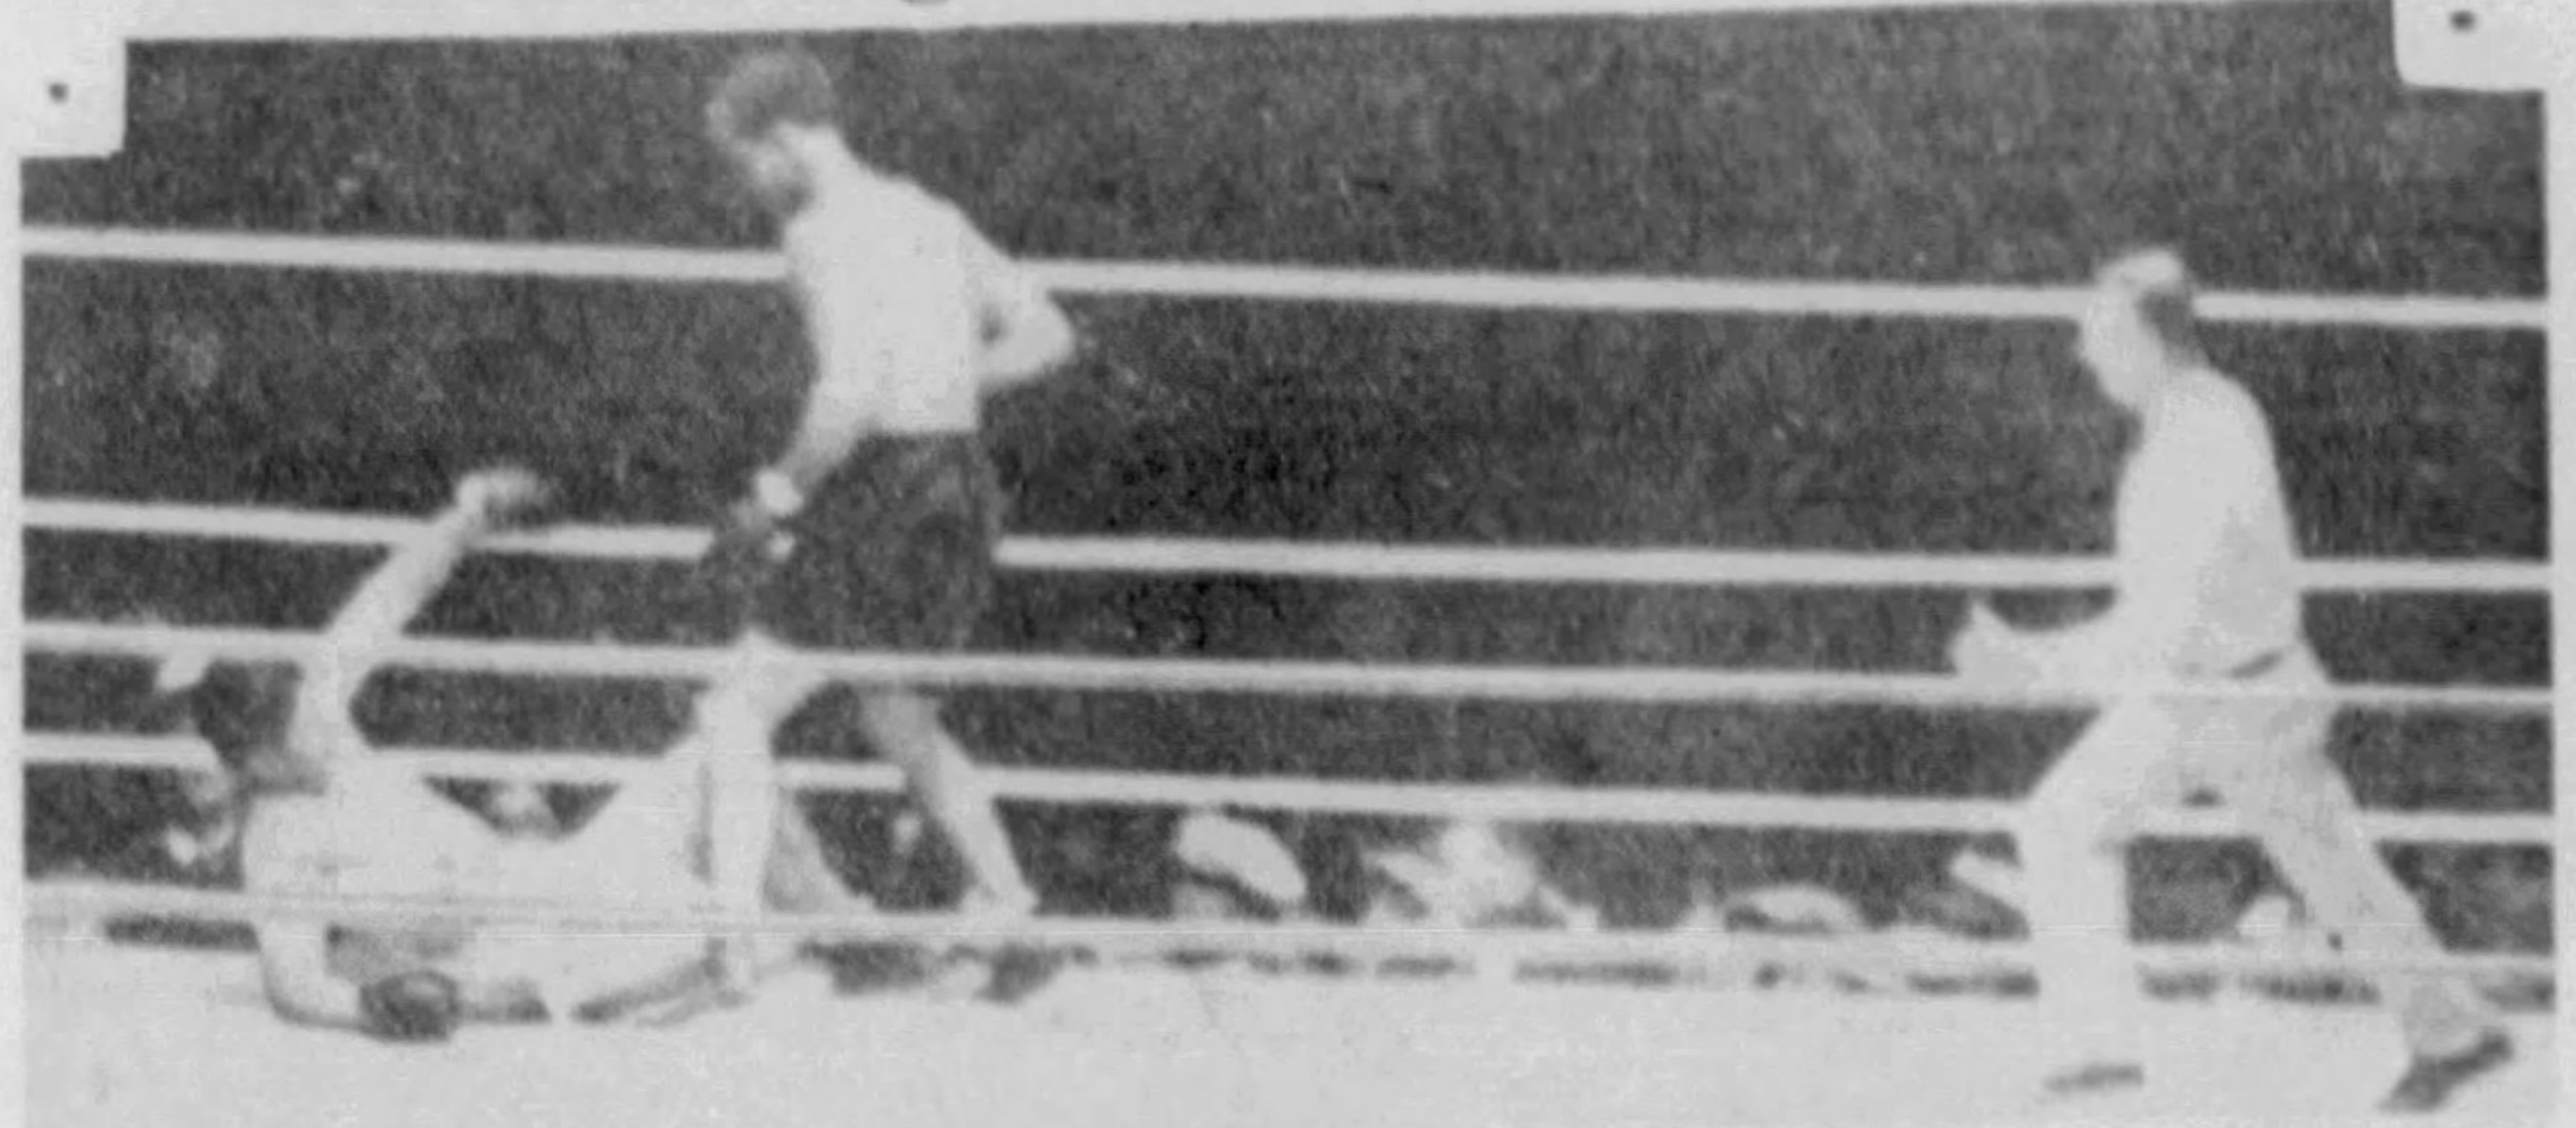
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 20.—(AP.)—Heartly (Hunk) Anderson will direct Notre Dame's football army again in the campaign of 1933.

Spiking rumors with one flourish of his pen, Hunk ended a conference with Father Charles L. O'Donnell, president of the university, yesterday by signing a one-year contract to remain as head coach. No action was taken to renew the contract of Jesse C. Harper, athletic director, but it was explained his lease on the position does not expire until May 1, 1933.

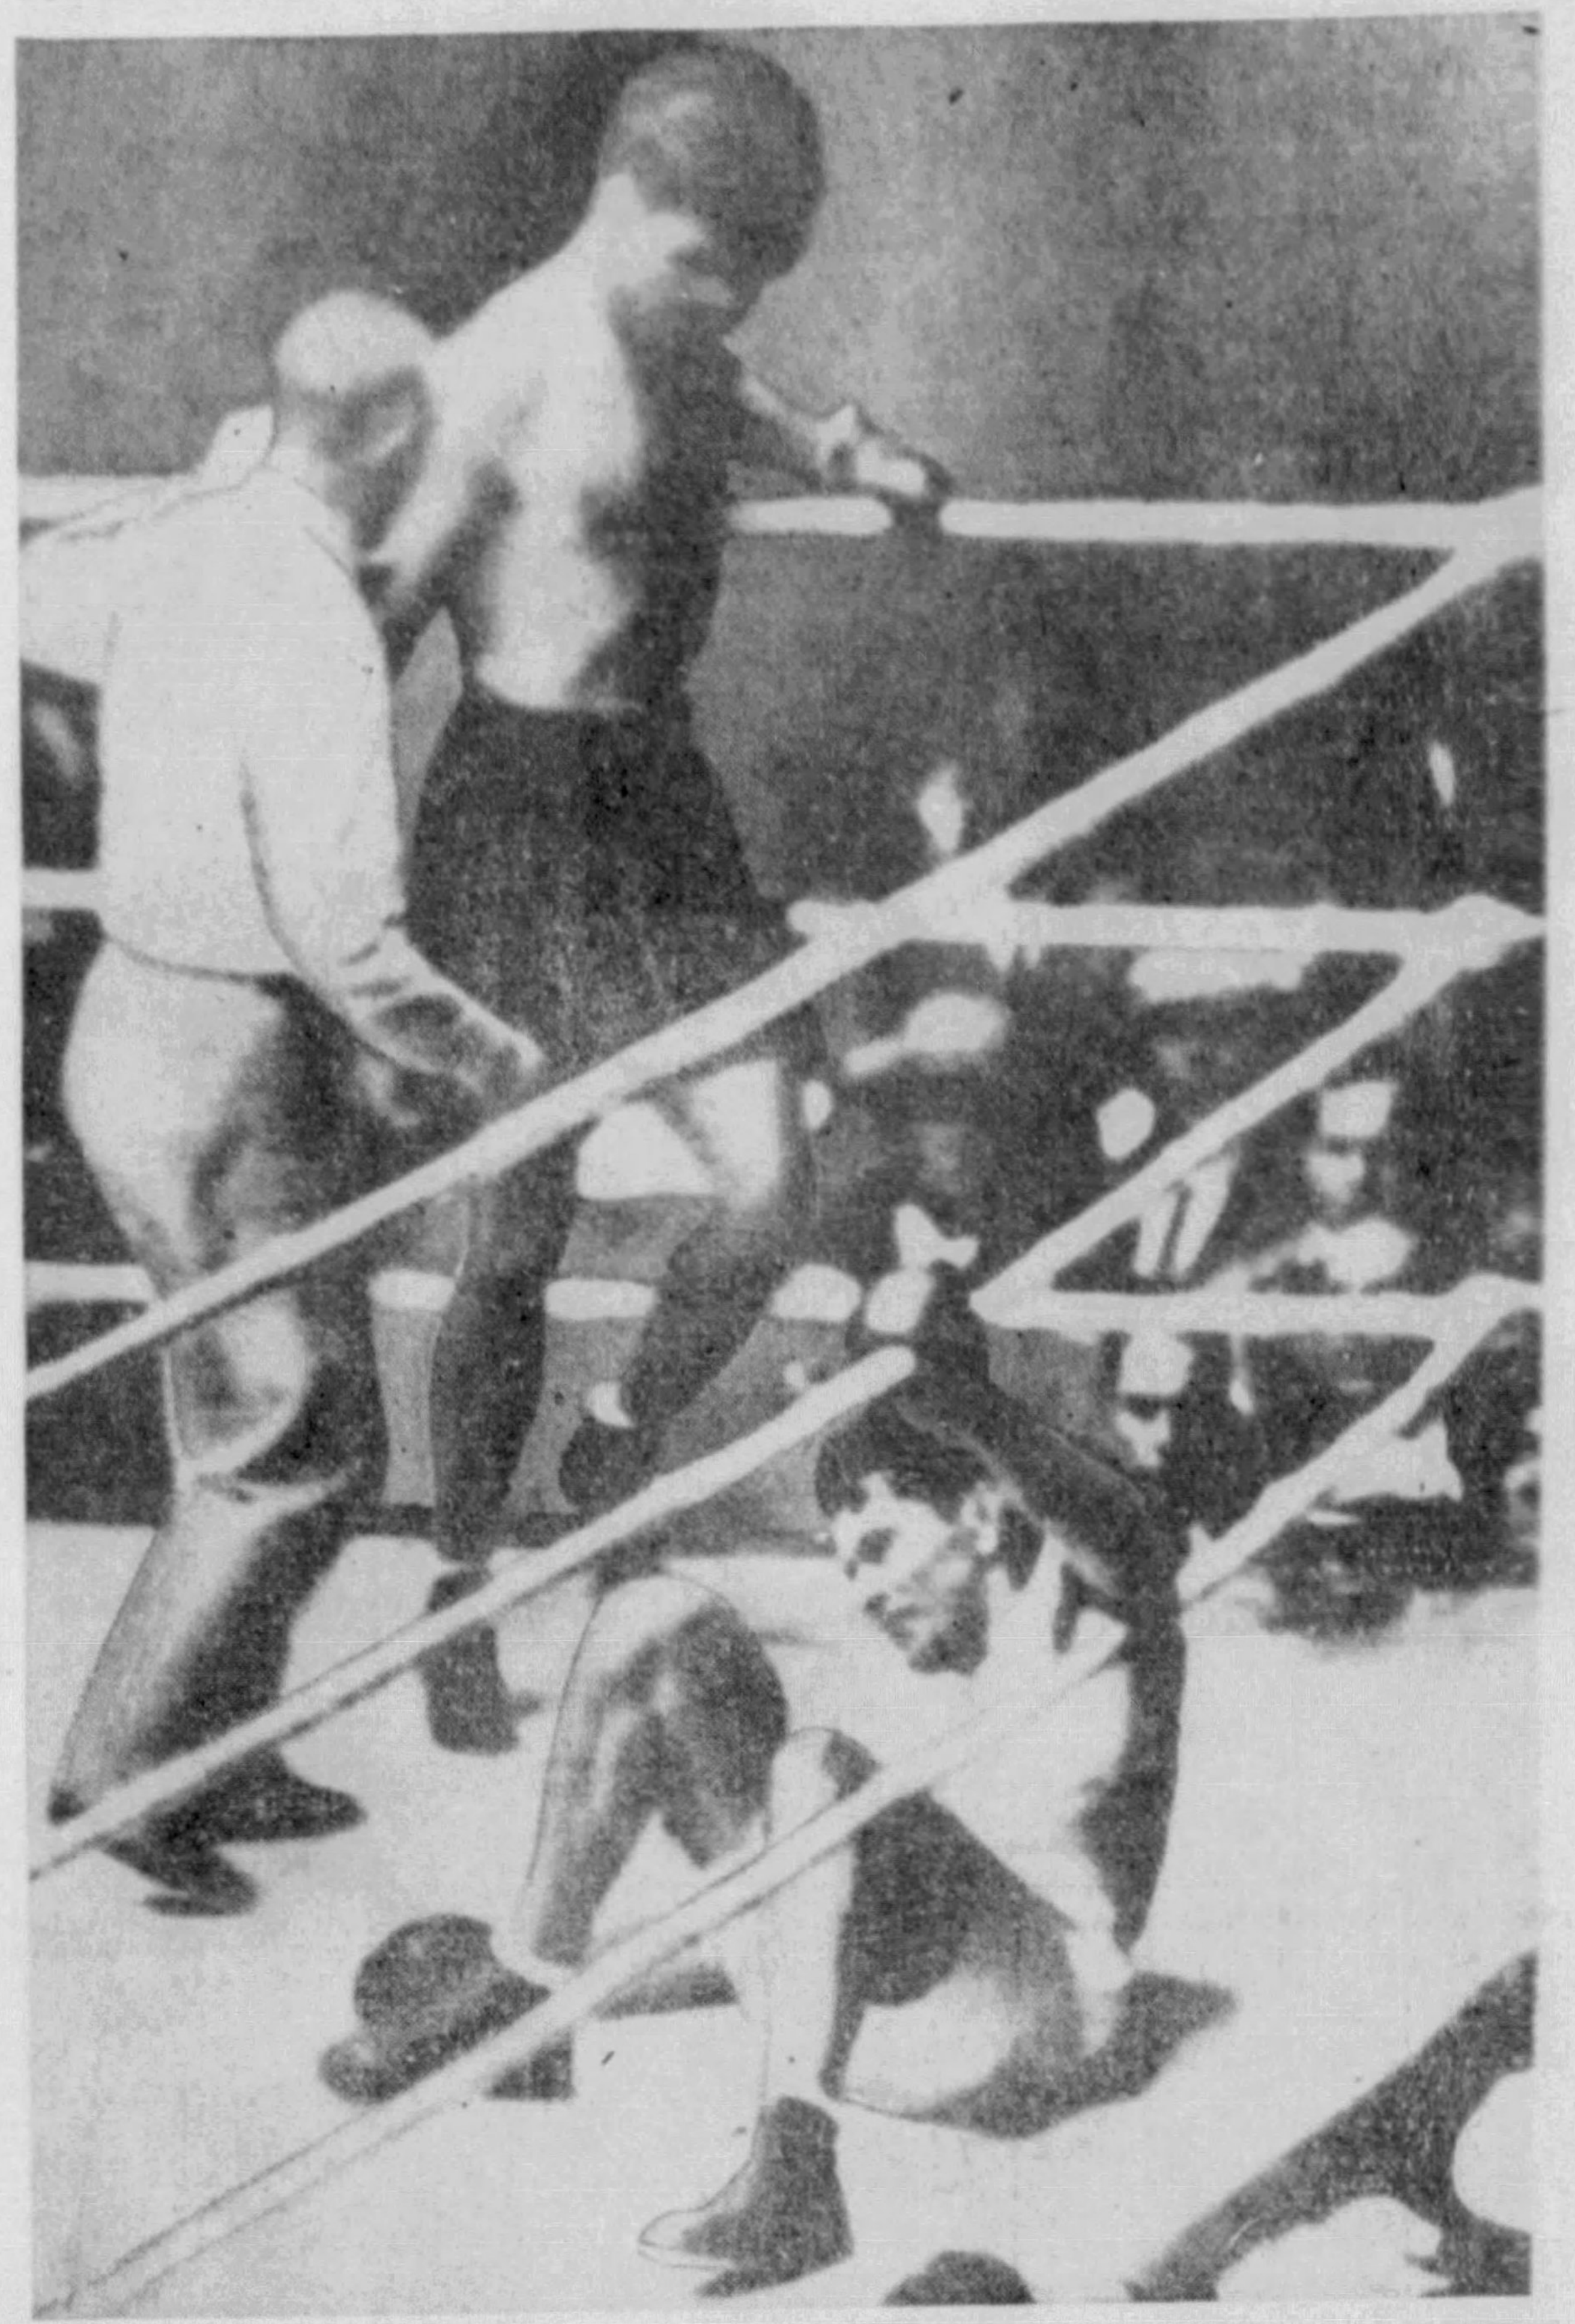
Rumors that Anderson and even Harper would be supplanted have been flying about since the Ramblers were defeated by Pittsburgh in their fourth game of the 1932 season, after piling up a point-a-minute record against Haskell, Drake and Carnegie Tech.

TUNNEY WRITES OF FAMOUS 'LONG COUNT'

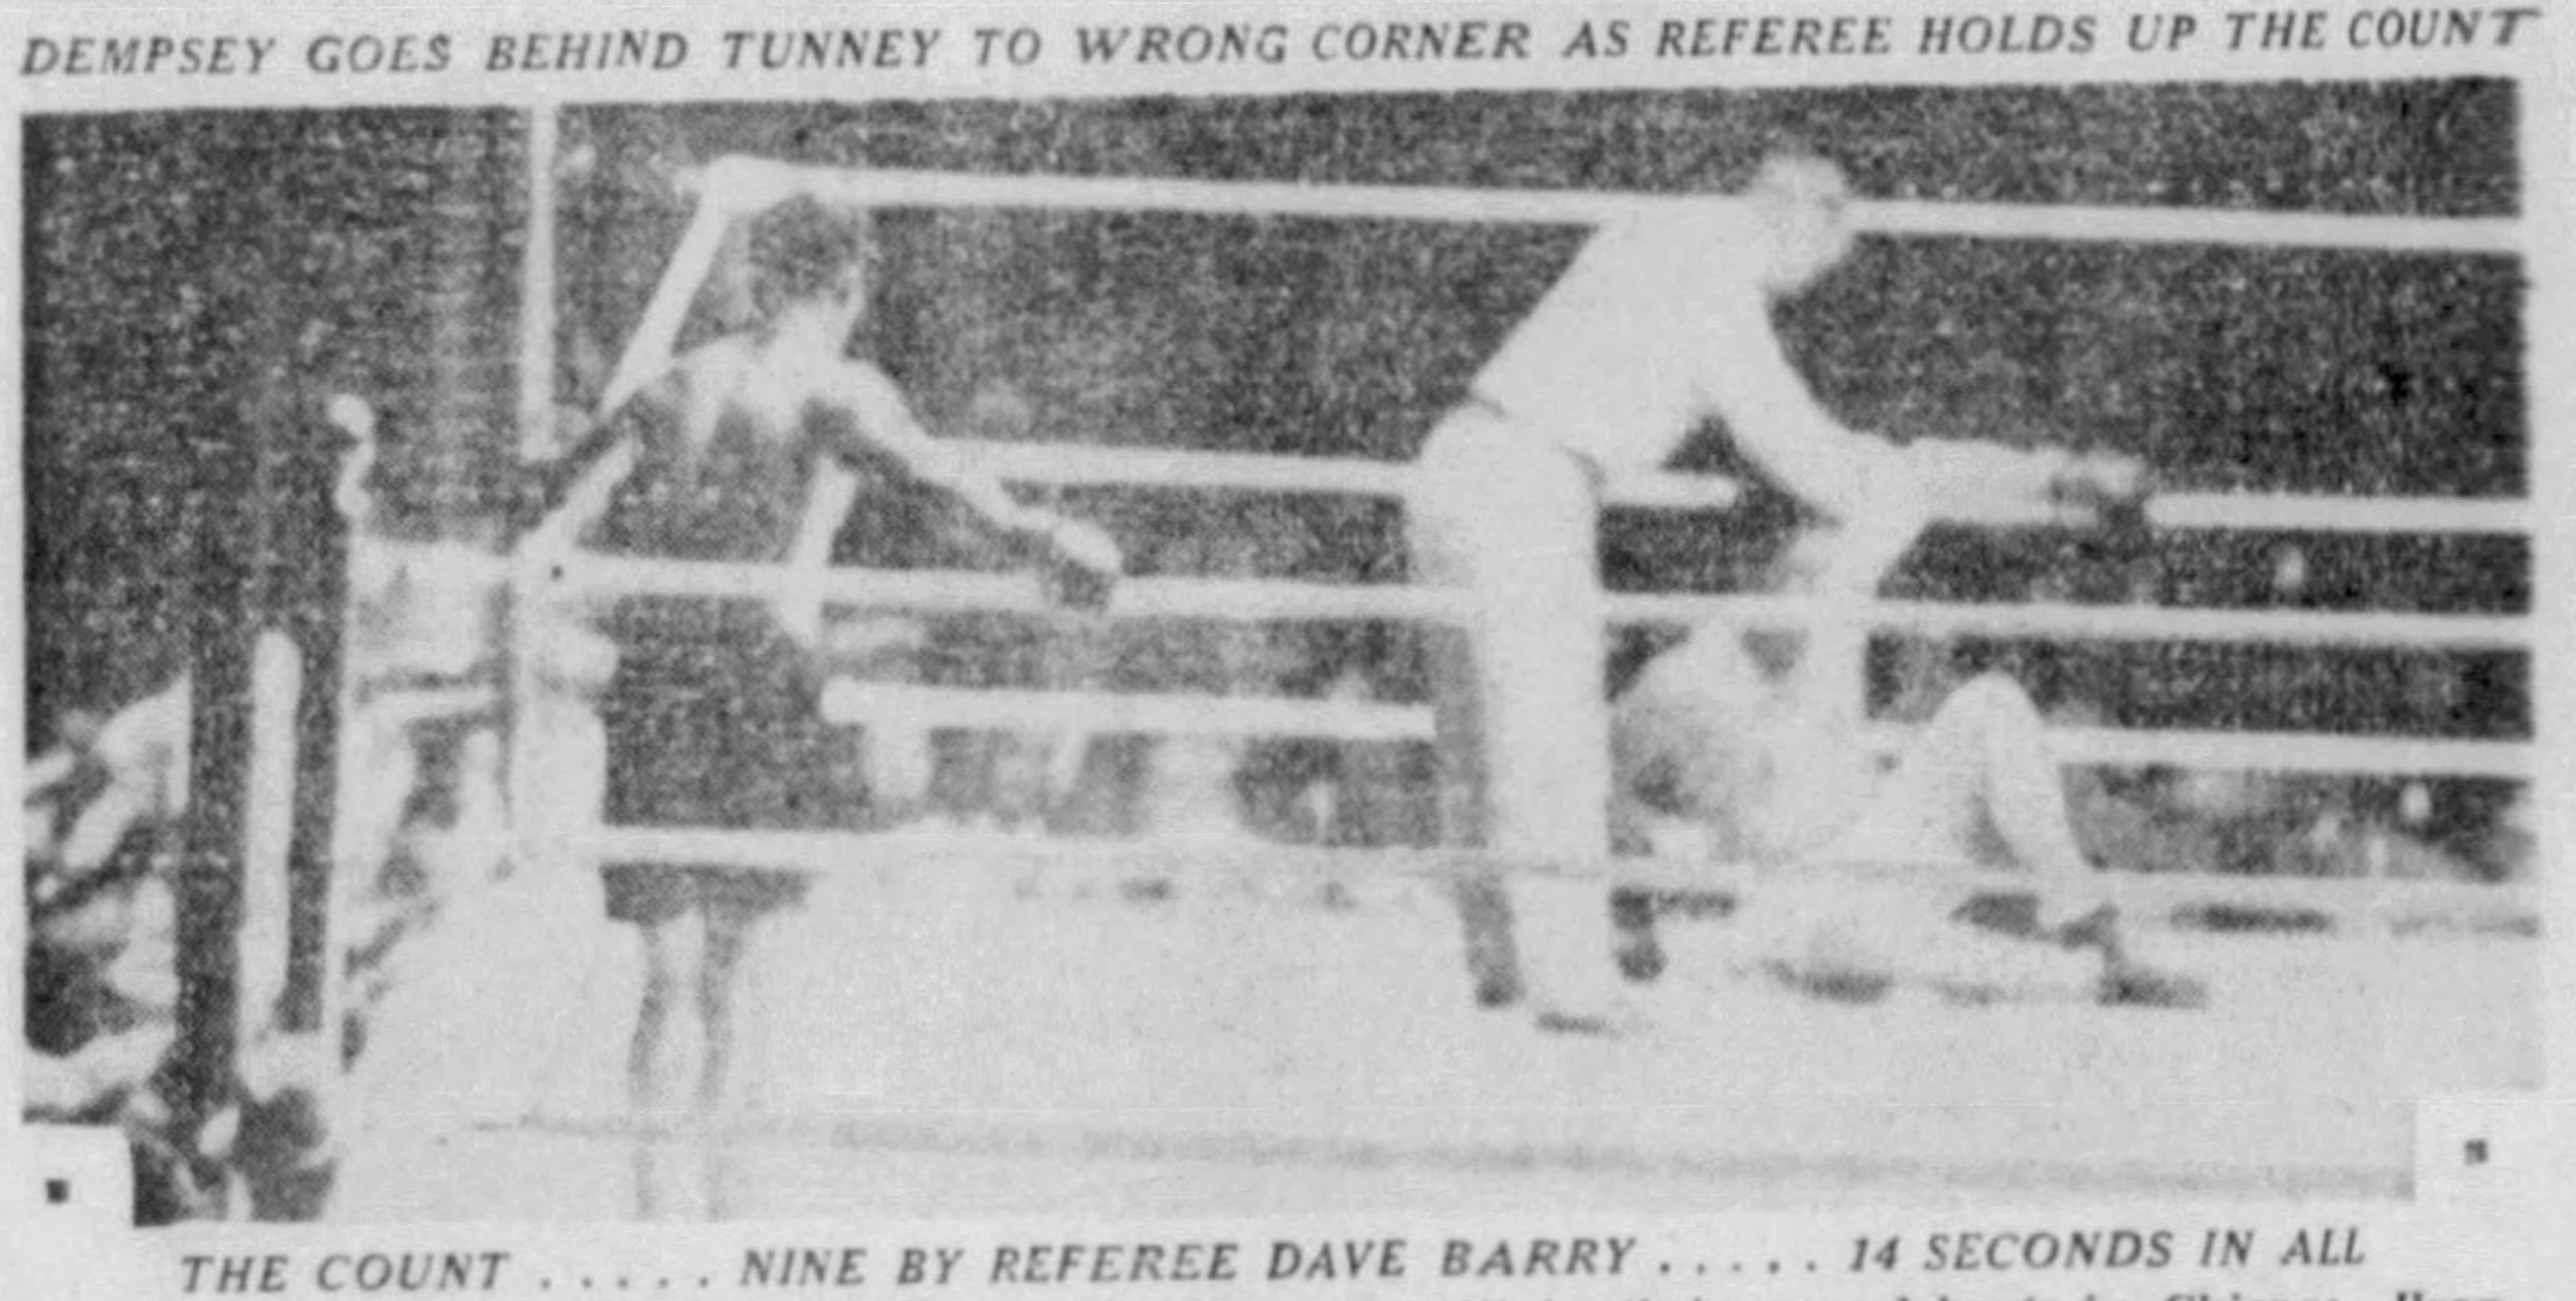
The 'Long Count' in Pictures



TUNNEY KNOCKED DOWN ALONG THE ROPES ..... DEMPSEY STILL STANDING OVER HIM



DEMPSEY GOES BEHIND TUNNEY TO WRONG CORNER AS REFEREE HOLDS UP THE COUNT



THE COUNT ..... NINE BY REFEREE DAVE BARRY ..... 14 SECONDS IN ALL

CHAMP PLANS ACTION WHILE ON FLOOR

SYNOPSIS

The fight's on at jammed Soldier Field, Chicago, on the night of September 22, 1927 . . . the referee has stressed the knockdown-neutral corner rule to both Dempsey and Tunney just before the opening gong . . . The time now is the rest minute between the sixth and fateful seventh rounds . . . Gene believes he is leading "by a big margin of points" . . . Jack has covered up so well that Gene is finding it hard to open him up for a good shot at his jaw . . . He has tied up Jack rather than in-fight so as to limit Dempsey's use of the illegal and nerve-deadening "rabbit punch" . . .

CHAPTER XXXIX

Despite repeated warnings from the referee, he continued to use the rabbit blow whenever I failed to tie him up. This rabbit blow is the most dangerous blow in boxing. It was barred originally through the action of Jack Dempsey in his fight with Bill Brennan in Madison Square Garden. After Brennan had started to the canvas from a body blow, Dempsey hit him a fearful blow on the back of the neck on his way down. This left Brennan prostrate on the canvas.

Gene Tunney

When I asked Carpentier what effect the rabbit blows had on him in his match with Jack he pressed his temple and said:

"Zis is where zey hurt."

The rabbit blow is particularly dangerous and damaging because it is directed at the point where the base of the skull and the cervical vertebrae meet—the lower brain stem, called the medulla oblongata. This nerve center is actually the center of life. It controls respiration, heart action and locomotion. Many doctors are agreed that it is the twisting of this brainstem by a blow or jolt that causes the so-called knockout.

RABBIT BLOWS USED

No man can stand 80 or 90 rabbit blows from the fists of a heavy hitter like Dempsey, as I did in each fight, without feeling the effects. It brings a deadening headache which seems to rest in the base of the skull. There is a numbness which reacts on the whole nervous system.

The blow was barred by all boxing commissions because it is not a scientific blow that you make an opening for, but one that is used when men are locked in a clinch, animal fashion. It is about as scientific as the blow of a hugging bear. There is no defense against it but to tie up the hands of an opponent.

My bodyguard, Sergt. Bill Smith, of the Chicago Police Department, who was in my corner, became wildly excited because the referee apparently was doing nothing to stop Dempsey's rabbit punches. Between the fifth and sixth rounds he climbed to the outer platform of the neutral corner in which the referee was making his notes and yelled:

"You blankety - blank - blank, if you don't stop those rabbit punches you'll be carried out of here dead."

The faithful bodyguard was feeling each blow more than I.

In the seventh round, after some 50 seconds of jabbing, feinging and mixing, I led a straight left which Dempsey crossed with a long right. This hit me high. I realized it. So did Dempsey. I danced back a step or two. Dempsey followed. With a long left swinging hook, he hit me on the right side of the chin. It was a savage punch and shook me up. To this day I cannot understand how I missed seeing it as it came.

I got furious at myself for being hit by that kind of a swing. It had actually been telegraphed. How stupid of me! Such was my reaction. Suddenly a right followed which I partially rode. My back was to the ropes. I leaned against them quite relaxed. Rebounding with a spring I raised my guard.

Dempsey slipped in with another left hook that go inside my guard and hit me as I sprang from the ropes. This blow had the added force of catching me as I hurled myself forward. It landed again on the right side of the chin. It was a terrific blow. I began sagging against the ropes. It was the fourth he had landed in quick succession.

FIRST TIME ON FLOOR

As I slowly crumpled to the canvas, being partially supported and held up by the ropes, he followed with a hard right, a left and another right. By the time the last right landed I was just short of sitting on the canvas. Seven vicious punches in all. I have no recollection of the last three.

This was the first time in my life I had been knocked down. After getting to the floor I slowly went back toward a reclining position. Before my shoulder blades touched the canvas I instinctively reached out with my left hand and, taking hold of the lower rope, pulled myself into a sitting position.

My first conscious reaction was one of comfort. Gosh, the padded floor felt good! I noticed that the distance between my eyes and the canvas seemed short—I was sitting on it. I must be down; I must be down!

TAKES "LONG COUNT"

"You must have been knocked down," I told myself rather foolishly. "You have been knocked down. Look here, Tunney, you must get up. Sure, sure, get up! But . . . . . What shall I do when I do get up?"

I looked over at my corner. Bronson and Gibson were wild-eyed, beckoning me to stay down. I nodded, recognizing them and their message. I looked up. There was the referee. I heard him say "Two." I had lots of time—lots of time.

What to do when I did get up became the problem. Although I never had been knocked down before, I had thought of the possibility of it from the early days of my career. I had decided that one of two courses might be followed to try to ward off defeat after a knockdown. Every thoughtful boxer goes on the assumption that sooner or later he will have the experience of being knocked down. To anticipate is to be prepared.

THOUGHTS ON CANVAS

Since a man who has been knocked down usually loses the power of locomotion, it follows that he must clinch if and when he rises. I had never seen a man completely knocked out or seriously knocked down get up and propel himself out of danger. When a complete knockout is administered the recipient usually has to have his legs lifted up so he may get through the ropes and out of the ring. Because of the belief that this partial paralysis of the legs always followed a knockdown, I decided it would be wiser to clinch with an opponent and hold on until my head cleared. Morever, a clinch affords one a chance to take a light blow on the shoulder or chest as an excuse to go down for another count. These extra nine seconds would enable one to clear one's head entirely and get back the strength of the legs.

But now I had to dismiss this first alternative because of the danger of Dempsey's rabbit blow, which I knew he would use if I attempted to clinch when I got up, and which, probably, would cause a complete collapse.

DECIDES ON ACTION

There was left the other alternative. It was to gamble with an opponent. Usually after a fighter knocks another one down, particularly when it is unexpected, he gets excited in spite of himself. In this excitement and his desire to "kill" he usually leaves himself open. At this moment a well-placed punch, properly timed, is apt to turn defeat into victory.

I realized that Dempsey, by constant and conscious effort in his training bouts, shadow-boxing and road work, had learned to keep his chin on his chest. This constant precautionary measure developed an instinctive habit of keeping his chin tucked down when in action. In the 20 rounds I have boxed Dempsey, I never once landed a hard punch on his chin. It always was on the forehead, the cheek, the upper jaw, behind the ear or on the nose. But never once on the chin. This was only because of Dempsey's sub-conscious habit of keeping his chin buried. I missed many well-aimed attempts!

Because of this habit, I knew that Dempsey, as he came at me for the "kill," would be a bad gamble. My blow probably would land on the top of his head or on his forehead, while his undoubtedly, would hit me on the chin or jaw. Another blow on either, after getting up, was not going to help me. That I realized.

Therefore, in those few seconds that I rested on the canvas waiting for the referee to say "nine!" I had to discard the plans that I had thought of for years and expected to put to use in such an emergency as I now faced.

Tomorrow, Tunney will relate how "I rose as the referee raised his hand to say—TEN!" after Dempsey had retired reluctantly to a neutral corner during which delay the knockdown count was suspended.

DUAL WINDUP AT ARENA TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

College boxing makes its bow in Pittsburgh tonight to vie with the weekly professional show at the Arena on the North Side, where a double windup of two 10-round bouts will be offered, featuring Mose Butch, local bantamweight, against Ross Fields, of Weirton, W. Va., in the main event, and Billy Holt, local Negro welterweight, against Ray Lyle, of Akron, in the under half.

The battles between the collegians involve Duquesne University and W. & J., and will be the first of the series of team matches in the Eastern Intercollegiate Conference this season. The show will be held in the Dukes' gym, and indications are that it will attract quite a turnout.

Two six-round bouts round out the Arena's show, bringing together Billy Clair, a veteran boxer out of the Army, and Walter Ketchel, of the East End, middleweights, and Young Pace and Joe Salino.

Butch will be making his first appearance as an orthodox boxer tonight, having shifted around from being a southpaw. It also will be his last showing here before he leaves, within a couple of weeks, for California for a series of bouts.

Between Rounds

Marty McHale and Marty Gornick finally have been matched for a return bout. They will meet in the eight-round semi-final to the Billy Holt-Manuel Quintero repeat, which will reopen the Moose Temple for boxing next Wednesday night.

The Gornick-Jimmy Columbo bout is out as the semi-final at the Garden on the Ted Yarosz-Eddie (Kid) Wolfe card, Monday night, and in its place is an eight-rounder between Jack December, of Mt. Clemens, Mich., and the Alabama Kid, Dover (O.) Negro welterweight. December has boxed Jackie Purvis, Freddie Edwards, Larry Madge and others of that caliber and has been a good card around Cleveland for some time.

Eddie (Kid) Wolfe was suggested as a substitute for Bep Van Klaveren against Billy Petrolle in Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight, but was turned down by Jack Hurley, Petrolle's manager, according to Eddie Borden, Wolfe's manager.

The California Boxing Commission will recognize the winner of the Speedy Dado-Baby Arizmendi fight at Los Angeles, next Tuesday night, as the world featherweight champion.

Luke Carney is the manager of Jimmy Dundee, an Italian featherweight, of Brooklyn, just back from a two years' visit in California. He was recommended to Luke by the latter's brother, who is in the government service on the coast.

La Barba May Sub For Kid in Bout

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(INS.)—Kid Chocolate's troubles with United States immigration authorities at Key West, Fla., threatened today to cause the cancellation of the Cuban's scheduled bout with Seaman Watson, British featherweight champion, at Madison Square Garden a week from tonight.

James J. Johnston, Garden boxing director, said today he would substitute Fidel La Barba, of Los Angeles, for Chocolate against Watson if the Cuban is unable to gain admission to the States by tonight. If Chocolate eventually smooths out his difficulties, he will box the winner here later.

STOCKS CLIMB AS SHORTS COVER

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—The stock market was in a more cheerful frame of mind today and although trading volume remained light a fair rally developed.

The market appeared to take a cheerful view of the possibilities in the Hoover-Roosevelt meeting. Furthermore, professional traders who had tested the list on the short side earlier this week had uncovered a definite resistance; the result was further short covering which lifted the major classifications.

In financial quarters, the fact that President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt had found a common ground on which to meet and discuss governmental policy was interpreted favorably.

It was recalled that several important moves in the direction of co-operation had recently been made. These included the clarification of American policy with regard to the economic conference, strengthening of the State Department's hand in Far Eastern matters and today's statement by Senator Robinson that Mr. Roosevelt supported the projected bankruptcy revision legislation which already bore the approval of President Hoover.

The weekly trade reviews recited the continuance of certain adverse factors in business, but were in ageement that favorable influences were now in the ascendancy.

A fresh indication that the federal reserve credit expansion program was bearing fruit was furnished in the New York Clearing House announcement that interest rates on bank deposits would be cut in half, beginning next week. The new scale calls for ½ of 1 per cent interest on time deposits and ¼ of 1 per cent on demand deposits. The continued piling up of idle money in banks was given in banking quarters as an explanation. Announcement that the present "lame duck" session of Congress had decided to throw up the sponge in the struggle to balance the national budget was not unexpected. The financial markets presumably had concluded some time ago that this matter would be left to the next Congress.

MELLON QUITS POSITION

R. B. Mellon, president of the Mellon National Bank, has retired from the presidency of the Pittsburgh Clearing House Association, it was learned today. He is being succeeded by A. E. Braun, president of the Farmers Deposit National Bank, a Mellon institution.

James C. Chaplin, president of the Colonial Trust Company, is being succeeded as vice president of the Clearing House Association by F. F. Brooks, president of the First National Bank of Pittsburgh.

Mr. Mellon has been president of the association for more than a dozen years with the exception of a single year when the late John R. McCune, then president of the Union National Bank, headed the organization.

Wall Street Interprets Current Steadiness as Accumulation

As time passes with the market holding in the same narrow range that has held sway for some four months, a great many observers in the speculative fraternity are coming to view the period as one of accumulation. This point of view is held also, it would appear in some banking quarters, judging by comment credited to such sources. It appears—that the market has been encountering demand of a substantial nature on recurrent dips. Also it would seem that the heavy transfer of stocks accomplished in the long period of narrow movements could not have taken place had the selling in the interval been better than the buying.

Wall street interpreted the action of the market early today as a reflection of the importance which attaches in speculative circles to the matter of possible foreign debt adjustment. The brisk upturn, due primarily to rather hasty withdrawal of shorts, was ascribed to nervousness in such quarters over the possibility of some announcement of real progress out of today's Washington conference. It was not the advance itself which held the real interest for the financial community, but the demonstrated disposition of the market to respond quickly and decisively to anything in the way of suggestion that the debt question may be moving more rapidly to actual adjustment than appears evident on the surface.

Halving of interest rates by Clearing House banks will bring the return on balances with those institutions to the lowest level in history. The action affects a total of $6,760,000,000 deposits, of which about $914,000,000 was in the form of time deposits. What part of the latter will remain in the category of time deposits is open to question, however, in view of the action of the banks in making deposits up to 90 days come under the classification of demand deposits on which the new rate will be one-quarter of 1 per cent. This move, it was believed, might stir the owners of such funds to seek to employ their balances rather than leave them on deposit.

The reduction in interest rates was perhaps a factor in accounting for the better tone in the bond market. The investment list appeared inclined to anticipate a movement of at least some of the enormous volume of funds into more lucrative employment. Bonds, however, were also aided, according to observers, by the growing belief that the treasury is less inclined to undertake anything in the way of a long-term bond issue at this time. Accordingly the new offering would be much smaller and less burdensome than had been anticipated recently.

Wall street showed keen interest today in the latest daily gold statement of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, showing a reduction of $25,101,200 in its foreign gold holdings. Presumably this reduction was in gold held for the American bank's account in the Bank of England. The British treasury on December 15 set aside $95,500,000 gold for American account in making the British war debt payment on that date. The gold statement also showed the receipt of $6,527,000 gold from England. Consequently, it was assumed that the Bank of England has repurchased $18,574,200 gold from the New York bank—or the difference between the $25,101,200 reduction in American holdings abroad and the day's receipt of $6,527,000.

National Biscuit Company directors meet on January 24 and the annual report will be published the same time. This report probably will show around $2.40 a share earned on the stock, which would compare with an annual dividend outlay of $2.80. With the company's strong cash position there seems little reason to expect a dividend reduction at this time.

Worn-out Cars Give Promise of Auto Boom

By B. C. FORBES

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Jan. 20.—Miami looks busy. I don't know yet what Chamber of Commerce statistics show; but the city is swarming with people and automobiles.

Mr. Forbes

But the automobiles. I was here several times during the boom. Then the city and state sported a bewildering array of spanking, sporty, expensive cars, most of them shining with newness.

Today, how different. Eight of every 10, I should estimate, are either well worn or worse. Many, many weird specimens are crawling, hiccoughing along. And roadside repairing is everywhere in evidence.

Depressing? The very reverse. Think of the pent-up business in store for the automotive industry. Do you think owners of wheezy old cars are in love with them and want to hold on to them until the last gasp is gasped? No. When the man in the street becomes definitely convinced that things are moving upward, you'll see a demand for automobiles such as is at this moment unimaginable.

INSTALLMENT BUYING will be unleashed. Strangely, perhaps, manufacturers have found that installment payments have been maintained extraordinarily satisfactorily all through the economic debacle. Countless families having money in savings banks, who have been conserving every penny, will begin being themselves again, begin buying things they have gone without though it hurt.

As business picks up, ponder the number of retailers and others who will need and will order new delivery wagons, to say nothing of a family car. Later, as dividend omissions give place to divided resumptions, our investing classes will start replenishing their rundown automotive equipment. Some historically huge fleet orders will be placed by gigantic corporations that have been worrying along with tenth-rate vehicles, costly to run and to keep in repair.

Verily, we are nearing a "new era" motorwise.

WHAT SUBJECT has crept into conversation more often than any other during the writer's peregrinations.

Taxes, taxes, taxes.

Much has been said of the admirable self-restraint exercised by the unemployed. It is doubtful if taxpayers will much longer consent to sit idly by and let tax eaters and tax leviers go on their merry, extravagant way.

"I simply can't pay taxes."

That statement is made in sober earnestness by a disturbingly large number of men in all walks of life.

The revolts we read about in certain agricultural states, revolts in which lynch-rope has figured ominously, are symptomatic. Farmers are not the only ones who can't meet their obligations and who are demanding leniency at the hands of their creditors.

Debt revision is essential in many directions. Action had better be taken amicably. Legislators should take heed. Impossible tax burdens have undone more than one once-strong nation in history.

ONCE AGAIN the writer pleads with the powerful directors of the United States Steel Corporation not to stop dividends on the preferred shares. Their attitude is that they must give first consideration to what is best for the corporation, that is, to the corporation's stockholders. Sure. But as I tried very earnestly to impress upon some of them, any action that would have an unfavorable influence upon the whole country would not, in the long run, prove favorable to Steel stockholders.

The whole is greater than a part. Each of us, humble or high, must give thought to the effect of our acts, not merely upon our own little selves, but upon the whole national situation—as the ocean is composed of tiny drops of water, so the nation is composed of individuals, mostly individuals of no special prominence.

One man tells me that his widowed sister has had every dividend stopped except that on Steel preferred, and that if it goes, she will have to sell out.

Omission of this dividend would wreck faith in American shares and render doubly difficult the raising of needed capital for the development of the country when development is again in order.

So, gentlemen of the Steel board, don't stop paying anything. Cut it, if you must—and you probably must. Cut it in half, if you feel you must. If you can, pay at least 1 per cent this quarter. By another dividend date, the sun may have begun to shine.

Shipments of sugar from Cuba to the United States during 1932 approximated 1,702,000 long tons—raw sugar value—compared to 2,085,000 tons in 1931, according to Lamborn & Co.'s statistician. The 1932 Cuban shipments to this country were the lowest in 20 years.

LOCAL MARKET DULL AND NARROW

The trading stalemate continued on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. Business was restricted to a few sales, mainly in the fuel division, at prices showing no changes from the levels prevailing on the previous close.

Absorption of offerings on a moderately rising trend in the New York market had practically no influence on the trading here. Leading issues on the "big board" started the day with fairly substantial overnight advances and most of them reflected a pretty thoroughly sold-out condition. One factor contributing to the general strength was the anticipation of a very favorable carloadings report for the week. Another was the better showing of the rail earnings for December.

DROUGHT AIDS GRAIN PRICES

CHICAGO, Jan. 20. — Grain prices went upward early today, influenced by continued drought in domestic winter wheat territory southwest and by prospective thawing and freezing in the Ohio Valley. There were also reports locusts had destroyed half the corn crop of Cordoba Province, Argentina. Opening ¼ to ⅝ higher, wheat afterward held near the initial range. Corn started ¼ to ½ up and subsequently altered little.

A quick advance of about a cent a bushel took place in corn. In addition to 50 per cent corn crop damage done in Cordoba, locusts were reported menacing the corn in Santa Fe Province. Corn arrivals in Chicago were scantier, 76 cars, compared with 144 a week ago and 138 at this time last year. Oats were responsive to upturns of corn. Provisions kept about steady.

POLITICS MUDDY WATERS OF COMMERCE

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Instead of pursuing the straight line of adopting policies which would contribute the maximum to economic recovery, Congress has been muddying the waters of commerce by its negative attitude.

Mr. Rukeyser

As the scholars of the Harvard Economic Society have pointed out, the emergence of political factors makes scientific forecast of near-term trends virtually impossible. These same observers thought that the rise in their computed business curve in December "may prove to be of decisive significance."

In their review of economic statistics, the Harvard technicians thus summarize the present tempo of business:

"As we have pointed out from time to time, war or monetary unsettlement may reverse the conditions. In the absence of such developments, events may be expected to confirm the forecast of business improvement given by the technical reading of the chart. The possibility of monetary disturbance now lies chiefly in action regarding the federal deficit and in the recrudescence of inflationary proposals—political factors about which scientific forecast is impossible.

FOREIGN RECORDS

"The charts reflecting conditions in some foreign countries are of particular interest at present in showing the emergence of favorable conditions resembling those apparent in the United States. In Germany, following relaxation of money rates, prices of stocks rose moderately in the second half of 1932. At about the same time prices of sensitive commodities advanced sharply, while money rates finally fell below the normal line. The British record shows somewhat similar conditions, with money rates declining and then stock prices rising, while exports of manufacturers later turned upward. British commodity prices have moved approximately sidewise since the suspension of the gold standard in September, 1931. Stock prices in France showed little increase in the second half of 1932, when they were rising elsewhere . . . the most important retarding element is the general disruption of international trade."

BUSINESS NEEDS SHOWER

Opportunities exist at every stage of the business cycle. Some of the strong conservative trust companies, which have been free of security affiliates, have been capitalizing their disinterestedness during the depression. A local bank has called attention in its advertising to the small extent to which it is involved in German short term loans under the Standstill Agreement. A number of insurance companies has boasted an ability to avoid seeking financial succor from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

LONDON BUYING U. S. GOLD

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Great Britain began yesterday to buy back some of the gold it has placed under earmark for this country.

Just a month after it paid the $95,550,000 war debt installment, the British treasury bought back from the Federal Reserve Bank of New York $18,574,200 in gold.

This was revealed when the Reserve bank announced a reduction of $25,101,200 in its gold held abroad. The announcement was not amplified, presumably in deference to the wishes of British authorities.

It was generally believed here that England, having obtained the benefit from the publicity surrounding its costly action in paying 150 tons of gold bullion against the war debt, had decided it would be better to keep some of the gold and spend instead some of the dollar balances Great Britain has on deposit here.

Writer Predicts Eleven-Year 'New Era'

Mark Hamilton, in the Boston Financial News, says the country started on a new cycle in July, 1932, when the lowest prices were reached, and the new cycle may run just as long as previous one—11 years—and may go just as far as previous one—500 per cent increase in securities value. He says:

"The same foundation we had in 1921 is still intact—the greatest stock of gold in the history of the country."

LESS RESERVE CREDIT OUT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(AP.) The daily average volume of Federal Reserve Bank credit outstanding during the week ending January 18 was reported by the Federal Reserve banks as $2,104,000,000, a decrease of $42,000,000 compared with the preceding and an increase of $266,000,000 compared with the corresponding week in 1932.

On January 18 total reserve bank credit amounted to $2,068,000,000, a decrease of $38,000,000 for the week. This decline corresponds with decreases of $29,000,000 in member bank reserve balances and $5,000,000 in unexpended capital funds, non-member deposits, etc., an an increase of $17,000,000 in monetary gold stock, offset in part by an increase of $13,000,000 in money in circulation.

The system's holdings of discounted bills, of bills bought in open market and of United States government bonds showed little change for the week, while holdings of United States Treasury notes increased $9,000,000 and those of Treasury certificates and bills decreased $43,000,000.

ELECTRIC BOND NET HALVED

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—The Electric Bond and Share Company today reported for the year 1932 net income of $13,566,666 aginst $25,050,084 the year before.

After dividends on the company's $5 and $6 preferred stocks, there was a balance equivalent to 99 cents a share on 5,190,275 shares of common stock outstanding against $1.15 a share the year before on 14,676,754 shares outstanding. During the year, the company exchanged three shares of the old common stock for one share of new.

Gross income of the company was $18,896,884 against $32,560,483 the year before. After preferred stock dividend payments, the balance for the common was $5,132,736 against $16,929,829 the year before.

The company's assets were carried at a book value of $552,196,826 on December 31, 1932, against $553,575,634 the year before. Current assets at the end of last year stood at $46,521,575 against total current liabilities of $4,591,930. On December 31, 1931, the figures were $33,713,584 against $6,229,010.

Bank Acceptance Volume Declines

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The volume of bankers acceptances outstanding on December 31 was $709,729,568 compared with $719,551,303 on November 30 and $974,059,350 on December 31, 1931, the American Acceptance Council announced today. The reduction of $9,800,000 during the month, the council said, was largely due to a general let-down in demand for acceptance credits.

New Industries Needed For General Recovery

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE DEVELOPMENT of new industries has been a major factor in economic recovery from industrial and commercial depressions of the past.

The Administrative and Research Corporation, which is affiliated with the sponsors of several outstanding investment trust organizations, has completed a study of this vital factor in the recoveries from previous slumps.

The report makes no prediction that history will repeat itself, but it does list new industries which may be on the eve of great developments.

* * *

Inventions Lead Trade Recoveries

NEW INVENTIONS and their development have provided the influence which have brought the world out of depressions in the past. A study of the 15 major depressions through which this country has passed in the last 110 years reveals:

The development of canals and railroads following the depression of 1837.

The discovery of gold in California shortly after the depression of 1847.

The big spurt in railroad building after the hard times of 1884 and 1885.

The development of the automotive, oil and road-building industries following the depressions of 1903 and 1907.

The growth of the motion picture, radio and airplane industries succeeding the post war recession of 1921.

* * *

Sees Hope In New Industrial Growth

LOOKING TO THE future, but with no attempt at prophecy, the report suggests as possible great new industries which may help to pull us out of the present depression the following:

Air-conditioning—Bringing to every American home, office and shop the most healthful temperature and humidity of cleansed air.

Modern home construction—Mass production of scientifically designed homes for America's inadequately housed majority.

Television—A duplication of the growth of radio broadcasting, with even greater ramifications.

Transoceanic aviation—Making a week-end in Paris possible, or a trip to London, via the stratosphere, in a few hours—eventually.

Farming for industry—Producing materials for automobile tires, artificial leather, new plastic construction, and many other things, with the aid of laboratory research.

LOCAL TRADE UNCHANGED

Business conditions in this district have shown comparatively little change, thus far during the current year, weather conditions having been unfavorable for the movement of wearing apparel, says Dun's review. Clearance sales of men's wear have been in progress, but prices are very low and the dollar volume of business has been decidedly below that of a year ago. The movement of shoes has not been large, the cheaper grades moving much more freely than the medium and higher-priced shoes. The demand for rubber footwear has been slow, with weather conditions unfavorable. Buying of dry goods and notions continues quiet, with future orders small in volume. There is but little activity in the jewelry trade, sales being decidedly lower than a year ago. There has been a moderate upturn in the demand for drugs and chemicals. Grocery sales are being maintained at about the level prevailing for the past few weeks, but with prices showing some weakness.

The industrial situation has shown a slight improvement since the first of the year, the rate of steel plant operations estimated at about 17 per cent, but not much further expansion is anticipated in the near future. Demand for plate and window glass continues quiet, although safety glass has been moving in moderate volume.

BROKERS LOANS DECREASE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by reporting Federal Reserve member banks in New York City decreased $14,000,000 during the week ended January 18 to $367,000,000. This compares with $381,000,000 in the preceding week, with the record high of $6,804,000,000 on October 2, 1929, and the record low of $331,000,000 on July 27, 1932.

New York Banks Cut Interest Payments

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—With idle money continuing to pile up in New York, sending member bank reserves to high levels, the New York Clearing House Association today cut in half its interest rates on deposits.

Effective next Wednesday, it was announced, interest on demand deposits will be reduced to ¼ of 1 per cent. The present rate is ½ of 1 per cent. Time deposits, of not less than 90 days, will draw ½ of 1 per cent against 1 per cent formerly.

Flat Rolled Sheet Steel Sales Down

December production was equal to 22.7 per cent of capacity. Shipments were equal to 19.7 per cent of capacity. Unfilled orders January 1, 1933, were equal to 24.7 per cent of capacity.

The Great Outdoors

By GIB MARSH

So far this winter has included almost ideal weather for the training and running of sporting dogs and the schooling of young bird dogs and beagles. True, not so many sportsmen with their favorite setter, pointer, spaniel or beagle are to be observed in the rural districts on week-end days as in former years, for many patrons of the hunting and field trial pastimes have been compelled to dispose of their dogs because of the expense. However, the more fortunate of the legion of sportsmen who have been able to keep their dogs have been taking advantage of the weather for running and schooling their dogs. They have been finding plenty of birds and rabbits upon which to work their dogs.

In the East, the members of the various fox-hunting and country clubs have been enjoying themselves by following on foot over the fields packs of beagles in the chase for the cottontail. The following of the chase behind a pack of beagle hounds provides an ideal means for an outing and recreation. It is a harmless sport, for at this season the cottontail is in good running form and has no hesitation about seeking his hole if pressed hard. The kill never is the objective.

When the lawmakers of Pennsylvania wrote on the statute books the regulations for the training and running of sporting hounds and training of gun dogs, the members of the various country clubs recognized a new form of winter pastime, and groups of men and women who love the thrill of the chase were attracted to the pastime of running packs of beagles. Also the patrons of the raccoon hound were given an opportunity of enjoying runs, not kills, between the regular raccoon hunting seasons.

Pennsylvania was the first state to include in its hunting code laws for the training and running of gun dogs and sporting hounds. Many states now have such laws. The season in Pennsylvania ends March 1. Until the economic gloom swept over the country, several years ago, it was common to observe hundreds of sportsmen with their hunting dogs in the field on week-end days. While the depression has killed off forever lavish indulgences and orgies at night clubs, the healthy recreation participated in by lovers of outdoor pastimes remains and will gain in popularity.

MARY FAITH -:- Story of a Girl With Husband Who Wouldn't Grow Up -:- By BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER XXXVI.

It was a day or two after Christmas that Kim said to Mary Faith:

"Did Claire say anything to you about a party on New Years Eve? Jack tells me they're planning a party for that night. Would you like to go?"

Mary Faith knew what a New Years Eve party at the Maldon home would be like. The tea-wagon would be loaded with glasses and bottles and cracked ice. There would be more cracked ice in the kitchen. The bridge tables would be set up, and there would be frozen fruit salad and toasted cheese and anchovy paste sandwiches. There would be drinking and dancing and a great deal of noise. Kim would disappear into the kitchen to help Claire make punch, and his gray eyes would become glazed and bloodshot as the night wore on.

Synopsis

Mary Faith, secretary to Mark Nesbit, wealthy businessman, gives up her position to marry Kimberley Farrell shiftless young lawyer. She realizes he has an eye for every girl, but hopes that married life will sober him and make him successful in his profession. Instead, Kim is annoyed at Mary Faith's "Puritanism," and his friends, Claire and Jack Maldon, find her a dull companion. Learning that she is to become a mother, Mary Faith, for the first time, visits Kim's office. Kim is furious when Mary Faith finds him flirting with his blonde secretary. That night he informs his mother and Mary Faith that he is leaving. Heartbroken, Mary Faith decides not to tell him of her approaching motherhood. She gets a temporary job as a stenographer Kim returns after a son is born. Kim's attentions to other girls worry Mary Faith. Later he apologizes to her.

Now Go On

"No, I don't want to go," Mary Faith said. "For one thing, I don't like to leave the baby. We'll be gone most of the night, and your mother sleeps so soundly. Suppose he kicked off his covers and caught cold—"

"Oh, piffle! Mother will take care of him," Kim broke in. "Send my dinner jacket to be pressed, will you?"

Then it turned out that Mother Farrell wouldn't be able to take care of the baby. She told Mary Faith that Dr. Thatcher had invited her to go to the theater with him that night.

"And afterward we're going to the Hofbrau for supper," she said. "I don't know what I'm going to wear. I haven't a thing."

GOES SHOPPING

She spent half the day poking among her bandboxes and trunks. At 1 o'clock on the day before New Years she decided to go downtown and get a new dress with the money that Kim and Aunt Ella had given to her for Christmas. She did not return until 6 o'clock, and she found Mary Faith waiting for her in the sitting room, hatted and cloaked for the street.

"Oh, I'm so glad you're here!" Mary Faith greeted her. "The market closes at 6:30, and I want to go down and pick out my chickens for tomorrow's dinner. I'll be right back. Go ahead and get dressed. When Kim comes tell him we aren't going to the party. He'll be glad to hear it, I imagine. He wasn't particularly enthusiastic about going."

She hurried out into the street. There had been a high wind and a snowstorm that afternoon, but now everything was clear and bright. It would be pleasant to stay at home with Kim — far pleasanter than spending the evening in the chaos of the Maldon flat.

"I want two nice tender hens," she told Joe, the smiling, red-faced butcher.

"Three dollars and eighty cents," said Joe, after weighing the hens. "How did you like the goose liver sausage yesterday?"

KIM EXPLAINS

Yesterday? Why, yesterday she hadn't even been in the meat market. Kim had telephoned early in the afternoon that he would not be home for dinner, and she and Mrs. Farrell had had a pick-up supper.

"I wondered if you wanted to pay for it now," Joe was saying. "Mr. Farrell forgot to." He slammed open the metal drawer of his cash register and laid a slip of paper before her. On it was written in blue pencil: "Farrell. Two pounds goose-liver sausage—$1.20."

She knew that there was no mistake. But why had Kim bought two pounds of goose-liver sausage?

He was at home when she got there. She could hear him singing as she entered the flat. The bathroom door stood open, and from the hall she watched him for a moment as he stood before the mirror, shaving.

"Kim," she said, "did you buy two pounds of goose-liver sausage at Joe's yesterday?"

"I did. What of it?"

"Nothing, I suppose. But I had to pay for it just now, and, Kim, two pounds of goose-liver sausage is such a funny thing to buy. No one person could eat two pounds of that rich stuff."

"Wait a minute!" He let out a short angry laugh. "I'll explain the great mystery to you, and then you get out and let me finish shaving in peace, will you?"

He flung his towel over the rack and went on: "Yesterday I drove Jack Maldon out from town, and he asked me to go up to his place to have a drink. After we'd had a couple of highballs, it was time for dinner. I told Claire I'd go out and buy some kind of cooked meat, so she wouldn't have to fuss around the kitchen. She and Jack suggested that I call you up, but I knew you'd have a fit if you saw me taking a drink, and besides I knew we'd both be there tonight—"

"We aren't going," Mary Faith cut in. "Your mother's going out with Dr. Thatcher, and we'll have to stay home with the baby."

All her anticipation of happiness for the evening was dead. The warm lovely feeling that had lain around her heart all day was gone. Kim had not only lied to her the night before, but just now he had admitted to her that he hadn't wanted her on the party the night before. He had told her—as good as told her—that she spoiled his fun.

"I think one of us ought to go over there tonight," his voice cut across her thoughts sharply. "They'll be hurt if one of us doesn't show up. . . . Did you have my dinner jacket pressed?"

"I pressed it myself last night," she said dully.

Forever after, that New Years Eve lived in Mary Faith's memory as a nightmare that went on and on and on through endless hours. At half past seven Dr. Thatcher called for Mrs. Farrell. At nine o'clock Kim left for the Maldons' party. He went without kissing Mary Faith goodbye, but he did tell her that he would be home early. "Long before twelve o'clock," he promised.

Left alone, Mary Faith busied herself for a half hour putting away the things that he and Mrs. Farrell had left lying about. Both were as careless as children when it came to taking care of their belongings.

PROMISE BROKEN

On her way back to the sitting room she stopped to see if the baby was warm and sung, and to marvel, for the thousandth time, at his likeness to his father. She bent over him and kissed his tiny cheek. The touch, light and swift as it was, gave her a feeling of peace. Here was her love for Kim and his love for her. Herself and Kim, forever and ever.

She settled herself on the sitting room couch to read and wait. Ten, 11, and then 12 o'clock crept slowly by, and Kim had not kept his promise to come back early. Some time after the sound of the midnight bells had died away, she fell into a doze. She was awakened by voices. Then a key turned in the lock, and Mrs. Farrell came in, holding a pink paper parasol and dangling a cowbell from one wrist.

"Just look at these things! They were giving them away at the restaurant where we had supper," she cried, as Mary Faith started up from the couch. "I never saw such crowds in my life! We had to go to three places before we could get a thing to eat! I haven't had such a good time in 30 years," she went on. "Kimberley's father never took me out anywhere after we were married. But he was a great one for running out himself every night in the week—and I'd sit up and wait for him to come home, just as you're doing, Mary Faith, this very minute . . . And I can see now, after all these years, that it's the wrong thing to do. A wife's place is at her husband's side, after all, isn't it? If she doesn't take that place, some other woman will. Don't you think that's so?"

She went right on talking while Mary Faith sat turning her words over and over in her mind. Perhaps Mrs. Farrell was right. Perhaps that was the way to hold Kim. To go wherever he went, instead of staying at home, watching the clock and waiting for him.

"I think I'll go over to Maldon's if you don't mind," she said suddenly. "I won't be gone more than an hour. If I don't go, Kim will probably stay there until daybreak."

She telephoned for a taxicab, and while she was waiting for it she slipped into an old sapphire-blue party dress that made her eyes look theatrically large and dark, and hunted up a pair of silver brocade slippers that she had bought long before her wedding day . . . How many miles she had danced in them with Kim, and how jolly and innocent and decent their amusements had been in the long-ago days before he joined the Maldon crowd.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

They're going to have a good time at the South Hills-Dormont Chapter meeting of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club tomorrow. Eddie Carmell, who always gets a big welcome with his accordion, will play and lead the community singing. Catherine Marshall is going to do some of her really expert dancing and Woods' educated police dog, which does everything but talk, will be featured on the program. Manager Harry Koch announces a lot of added numbers. Nearly 1,000 boys and girls attended last Saturday's meeting. That's almost a record.

While it will be the rule that children, unless accompanied by parents, will not be admitted to the Enright Sunday benefit show for Father Cox, the members of the Enright Chapter will not be barred. To get in, however, they must bring a liberal donation of food. The feature picture will be Lee Tracy and Dick Powell in "Blessed Event." Manager Frank E. Roberts will make an announcement about it at tomorrow's meeting.

DOLL CONTEST

Doll contests are getting to be popular features. There was an unsually big and interesting contest of this character at the Plaza Chapter meeting last Saturday and a lot of unique and dainty dolls were paraded. The winners were Anna Gudone, Eleanor Carruval, Hilda Bazilia, Elizabeth Aldilio, Marie Kleber, Helen Kleber, Jean Simond, Marie Chica, Louise Martin, Martha Kamp and Mary Helen Hannan. Tomorrow there will be a vaudeville and "Dog Show" in addition to the regular big program.

Manager Blowitz of the Squirrel Hill Manor Chapter is making the other managers sit up and take notice when it comes to stunts to excite the members of the Junior Komic Club. Last Saturday he had a milk drinking contest, the bottles were equipped with rubber nipple and the race was to see who could finish a bottle of milk in the shortest time. There was unusual excitement and cheering while the contest was on. Carleton Moorehead won the boys' prize and Irene Bass was the winner in the girls' class. Among others who appeared on the entertainment program were Miriam Schonstein, Cruvant Altman, Jack Goldstein and Rhoda Hart.

Good Will Has Gone Bad

Say, there's one thing we have noticed in the realms of finance.

The bankers have tightened up like frozen brakes. There is no more good will.

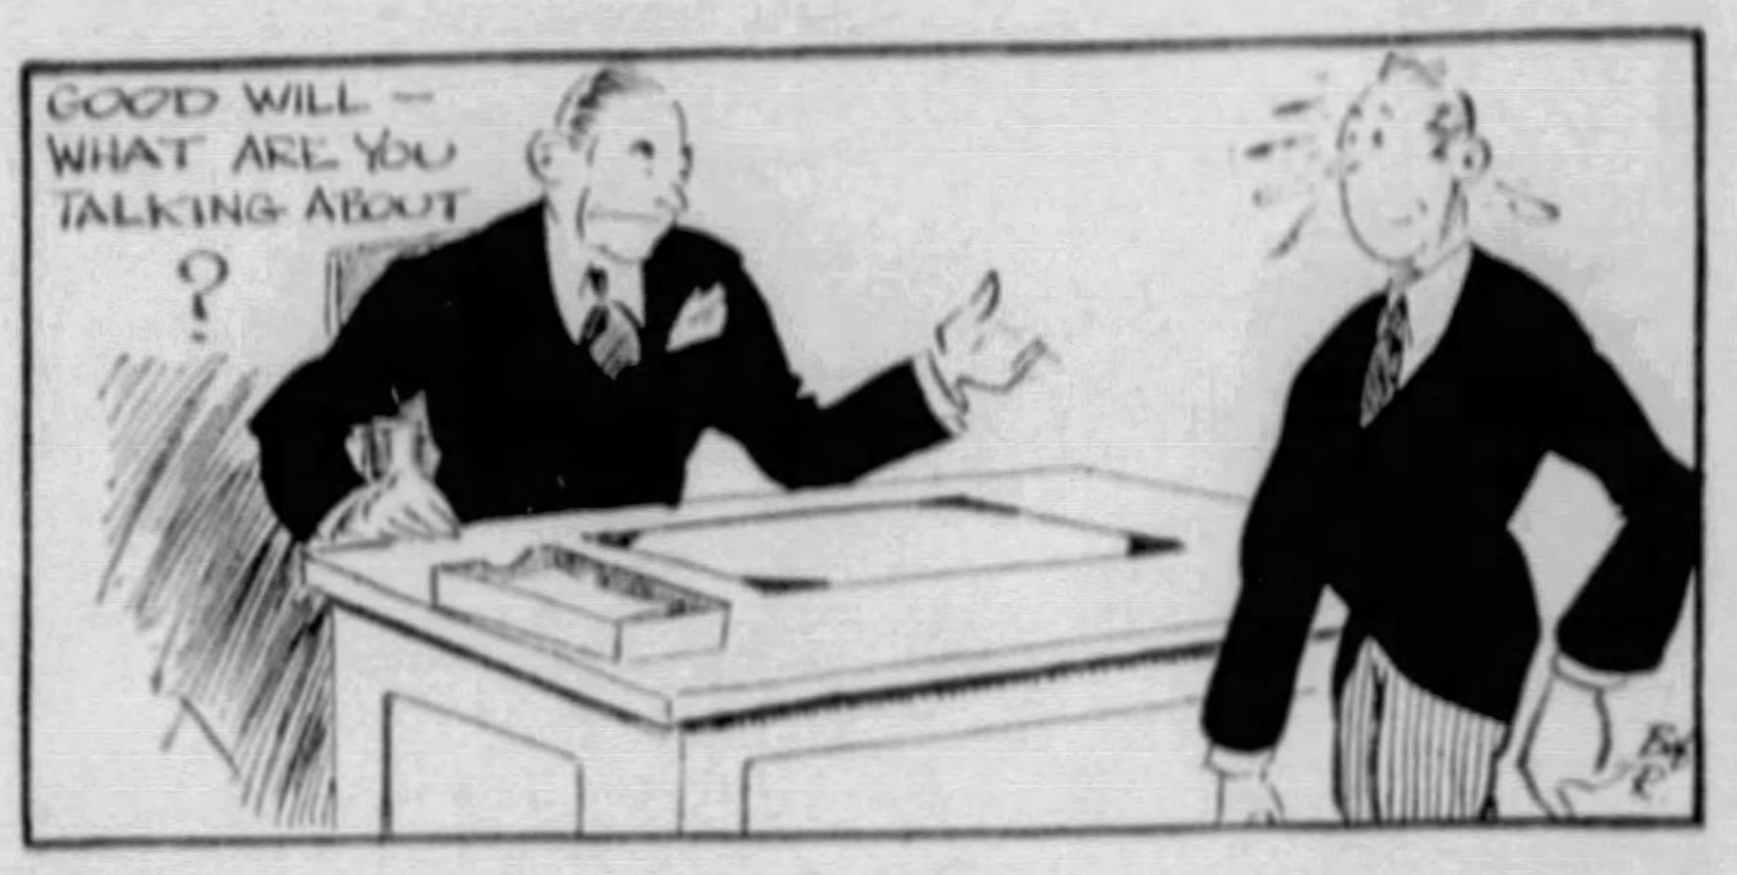
When you walk into a bank these days you must lay it on the line. There was a time when a million dollars' worth of health was all the collateral you needed.

It was only a couple of years ago you could borrow money on a nod. Now, a banker wouldn't lend you a bent dime on a royal flush.

All you needed in the old days were a good front, a smile, a flower in your buttonhole and two reliable witnesses who never heard of you.

They cared so little about indorsement they would accept 16 blots from a postoffice pen.

But now, it's strictly business. A banker has a human side like a mustard plaster. That's the side that's all blistered and red.



GOOD WILL — WHAT ARE YOU TALKING ABOUT ?

You better have plenty of collateral. They insist on taking everything. One bank in our town even has a toy department.

You can hardly blame the certified accountants. In the last five years they have absorbed more raps than a speakeasy door.

Conditions will gradually get better, the bankers will thaw out and next year they'll be getting clubby again. Right now, they're scared and cautious and wouldn't trade needles for crowbars without first waking up the board of directors.

We miss the absence of good will. It certainly filled in many an awkward pause in the cash balance.

After all, a man's reputation should be worth something.

And it is worth something. But not very much. The market price on good will is so small these times that you couldn't pick it up with mittens on.

Americans Can Build Up Merchant Marine by Using American Ships

CONGRESS IN May, 1928, authorized government loans for the purpose of building ships, to be operated under the American flag.

At the same time provision was made for a subsidy to such ships in the form of mail pay contracts. The act required the ships to be built in the United States, anticipating that employment would thus be created for thousands of American workmen in American shipyards.

It is estimated that a sum approximating $500,000,000 is paid every year in marine freight charges on the imports and exports of the United States.

Of this huge expenditure, the greater part is paid, NOT TO AMERICAN SHIPS, but TO FOREIGN SHIPS.

The relative proportion is $300,000,000 to foreign ship owners and $200,000,000 to domestic ship owners.

This employment of foreign vessels in our carrying trade, which results so ruinously to American interests, is due to the INADEQUACY of the AMERICAN MERCHANT MARINE to take care of business which should BY RIGHT be ITS OWN.

* * *

THE traditional indifference of the United States to its merchant marine, and our national insensibility to its value and importance, are responsible for the diversion of this great sum of money annually into foreign hands.

Under the law as it stands—the Jones-White act passed by Congress in 1928 — definite and substantial encouragement is given to our citizens to build and operate ships under the American flag.

The loans authorized by this law cover the greater part of the construction cost and leave only a light burden upon the private capital which is required. The substantial mail subsidies go far in assuring profitable operation.

While private capital has responded well to the inviting terms offered by the government, such resources will find their way into ship building with increasing rapidity and in growing measure only as the commercial demand for cargo space in American ships becomes greater than existing tonnage can supply.

This point would be quickly reached if AMERICAN SHIPPERS AND IMPORTERS would TAKE TO HEART the PATRIOTIC DUTY to BUY AMERICAN — to buy American transportation service, American cargo carrying capacity, the services of American sailors, deck officers, engine room officers and crew. The demand for these services—all of which, be it remembered, are AMERICAN SERVICES, quite AS IMPORTANT TO BUY as AMERICAN MERCHANDISE—will keep pace with our patronage of American ships.

* * *

AS the patronage and use of American ships increase, so will the purchase and use of AMERICAN SERVICES increase.

It is a most effective, far-reaching and practical application of the Buy American principle.

But in addition to the reasons of sound commercial policy for "stepping up" our ship building industry, there is the duty we owe the national defense to provide our Navy with an adequate merchant marine as a vital auxiliary and support.

In both the wars in which the present generation of Americans has been involved—the Spanish-American War in 1898 and the Great War which we entered in 1917—we PAID BITTERLY for our incorrigible neglect of our merchant marine.

In the Spanish-American War we had hardly a respectable nucleus of a merchant marine. The fortunes of war carried us into the distant Philippines as a scene of military operations. The transportation of men and munitions across the Pacific put a strain upon our little handful of merchant ships which, of course, they could not meet.

We were compelled to hire foreign vessels at extortionate rates, accepting ships of antiquated and inferior pattern,—wherever we could procure them and on whatever terms—to meet the unforeseen exigencies of the war.

Its duration happily was brief, We were fighting a feeble foe. Had the conflict been prolonged, we would have expiated in anguish and misfortune the neglect of our merchant marine.

By the time we entered the Great War in 1917, twenty years later, we had learned nothing from our grievous omissions in the past.

* * *

AGAIN at war, we found ourselves at a tragic disadvantage for lack of transports and cargo ships.

The foreign nations whom we allow to run off with our carrying trade were all, directly or indirectly, involved in the European struggle. Their tonnage, withdrawn from our commercial service, was not available to make our aid effective as a belligerent.

Compelled to pay the most exorbitant rates for an insufficient amount of chartered shipping, we were forced into an emergency ship-building program which quickly involved us in an expenditure of public money, the most appalling in amount and the most wasteful in character that was ever known.

"Experience is a dear teacher, but fools will learn from no other," said Benjamin Franklin, "and some not even from that."

Can it be that the American people are such fools as not yet to have learned, despite their repeated lessons, the importance of their merchant marine, both as an economic resource and as a vital element in the nation's security?

We should not hesitate a moment to throw our energies as a people into this great field of constructive effort,—particularly NOW—of all times—when by so doing we will provide abundant WORK FOR THE UNEMPLOYED and give to PROSPERITY'S RETURN A FAR-FELT AND POWERFUL IMPETUS.

No Cut in Education!

Desirable As Economy Is, It Must Not Be Attained at the Expense of the Public Schools.

Education has made phenomenal strides in Pennsylvania in recent years.

The passage of the Edmonds Act, fixing minimum salaries for public school teachers and providing for increases of salary with duration of service, put a stop to the practice of certain school boards of giving teaching positions to the applicants who offered to accept the lowest remuneration.

The result is that the teaching profession has attracted persons of superior attainments.

Whereas, before the enactment of the Edmonds law, a considerable number of the public school teachers in Pennsylvania had not even graduated from high school, now a large percentage have had college training.

Along with improvement in the quality of the teaching has gone improvement in the character of the school buildings and their equipment.

Hundreds of one-room rural schools have been closed, and their places taken by large consolidated schools, with plant and teaching staff equal to those in the cities. Fifty-nine such consolidated schools were established in the last school year.

The improvement in the schools has brought increased demand for public education. A striking example may be found in the gain in high school enrollment. In the five-year period ending June 30, 1932, the number of pupils enrolled in grades 9 to 12 of the public secondary schools of Pennsylvania increased from 257,493 to 369,135, a gain of 111,642 pupils, or 43 per cent.

These gains must be held.

Proposed cuts in school budgets, proposed reductions in the educational program, will imperil them.

Bills have been introduced in the Legislature which would reduce teachers' salaries to a level at which they would no longer attract the best teachers.

Here in Pittsburgh politicians, under the pretext of a desire to effect economies, have been striving to get control of the schools. Their attacks must be repelled.

This depression is only temporary, but the effect of restricting education will be permanent.

A New Canal Survey

The Plan Is Chiefly for Youngstown's Benefit, but Pittsburgh Should Also Profit.

United States engineers from the Pittsburgh office yesterday began a survey of a canal route to connect the Youngstown steel district with the Ohio River by way of the Beaver and Mahoning Rivers.

The canal would terminate at Struthers, O., about five miles below Youngstown, and would cost, it is estimated, only about one-fourth as much as the proposed canal following the same route but extending all the way to Lake Erie.

Pittsburgh has been working for the Lake Erie and Ohio River Canal for a half century, and will continue to work for it.

Advocates of the Allegheny River-French Creek route tell us we should oppose the canal to Struthers because it would not give us the much desired outlet to the Great Lakes but would benefit our Youngstown competitors in the steel business.

But Pittsburgh would benefit by the shorter canal, too. It would permit us to ship coal to the Youngstown district at a lower cost than is possible by railroad.

Moreover, with a waterway completed to Struthers the outlook for an ultimate connection with the lake would be improved.

A Superstition Defied

Gov. Pinchot Sets a Good Example by Showing Contempt For the Belief That "13" Is Unlucky.

Learning from James M. Clark, Director of Public Safety, that the Pittsburgh police courtesy card bearing the serial number "13" was never issued because of superstitious fear of its evil influence, Gov. Gifford Pinchot asked that it be issued to him. The request has been granted.

The Governor has set a good example in thus showing his contempt for a silly fancy unworthy of intelligent people.

The prevalence of superstition is an indictment of our good sense. It is a disgrace that large hotels should find it necessary to omit "13" in numbering the floors because of guests' ridiculous fear that to occupy a room on a floor so numbered may bring bad luck.

Parents and teachers should strive to eradicate this nonsense by telling the children how silly it is.

ACTS OF KINDNESS

By Winifred Black

There they stood on the door-step—the three youngsters in Boy Scout uniform.

The curly-headed one was as white as a sheet, and his uniform was flecked with blood, and he held a little red bird fluttering in his two brown, boyish hands.

"This bird has broken its wing," said the Boy Scout. "It's bleeding to death, and we don't know what to do about it. Can you set the wing?"

"No," said the woman at the door, "I can't; but I know someone who can. There's my car at the door. Let's all jump in and run over to the hospital."

So they all jumped in the car at the curb—the woman, the three Boy Scouts and the little fluttering, frightened, bleeding bird.

"Of all things," said the woman, "it's a red bird from somewhere down South! They don't belong in this part of the country at all, the red birds. I wonder how this poor thing ever got here, at all. And the wing—I suppose somebody saw the pretty thing and threw a stone at him."

Now the hospital that the woman knew was a military hospital, standing in a green garden of trim lawns and growing trees.

The surgeon general was busy, so the orderly at the hospital door said, but the woman said she must seem him anyhow, just for one instant. So the orderly went inside, and presently he came back with the surgeon general right behind him.

A fine, upstanding man, the surgeon general, with a sharp eye and kindly smile!

Then the curly-headed Boy Scout showed the surgeon general the bird.

"Um, I see," said the surgeon general; "quite so!" And he led the way into the operating room.

"I'd like to give him a local anesthetic," said the surgeon general, "but I'm afraid it would frighten him too much. No, I'll set the wing for him, just as he is."

So the surgeon general set the wing, and the bird cried out in pain; but he was no coward, even if he was a thousand miles from home, and wounded, and in the hands of strangers, so he tried his very best to peck the eyes of the surgeon general right out of his head.

The surgeon general dodged.

"So you're a scrapper, are you, little fellow?" he said. "You ought to belong to the Army.

Then he asked the boys their names and where they found the bird, and when the boys asked him how much he charged for his services, he looked very serious.

"Well," said the surgeon general, "this is an emergency case, so—" He hesitated, and the Boy Scouts looked anxiously at each other, and began feeling in their pockets with something a good deal like apprehension.

"I'll tell you," said the surgeon general, "just name the bird after me and that will be my fee."

As the surgeon general opened the door of the operating room for the woman and the three boys, he said, "Let me know how the bone sets, and if there's any trouble just telephone me, and I'll be right over."

There isn't a thing to this story, is there? Rather a silly little affair, when you come to think of it. But somehow it made the gray old world just a bit brighter for me when I heard it, so I'm passing it on—to you.

Things aren't so very bad, after all, when we have three boys and a woman and a surgeon general in a great hospital — like that. Don't you think so, yourself?

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

The Gay Nineties

Oh, love was sweet and very fair,
When girls wore roses in their hair;
When lovers talked a lot of gush—
And maids did not forget to blush.

When ardent wooing was the fashion,
And no one ever spoke of "passhun";
When Don Juans sought to be disarming,
And tried to imitate Prince Charming.

NOW JOHN !
BUT DEAR I DO LOVE YOU !

When scented notes were written neatly,
And tucked in nosegays most discreetly;
And girls broke hearts with feathered fans—
And love was made on plush divans.

When kissing went by special favors,
And came not in assorted flavors;
When women won by charm or wit—
And men had never heard of "IT".

When sweet discretion marked a lover,
And everything was under cover;
When collars reached up to the chin—
And kissing was a pleasant "sin".

Yes, love was sweet and very fair,
When girls wore roses in their hair;
And manners were like melted honey—
And all roads led to matrimony!

But, gone, alas, the silk-plush lover!
His sun has set—his day is over.
Gone the romance of Long Ago—
But NOW, we have the GIGOLO!

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Parents of marriageable daughters often make the young men who call on them wary, because of the evident desire of the parents to find a husband for the girl.

They appear too cordial and too anxious to extol their charms.

In fact the more effort parents make to impress the young man, the less likely he is to become interested in the daughter.

Matters of this kind should be allowed to take their own course.

Marriages schemed at and planned by parents seldom turn out happily.

Parents who are sensible realize this and should not be guilty of seeming to try to ensnare a son-in-law.

But fathers and mothers desire the happiness of their children and especially as they grow older want them to find the right one.

Marriage is a serious undertaking and a life time is sometimes a long time to spend with a person who loses in interest as the novelty wears off.

It would be far better for a girl never to marry than to find herself attached to one who does not love her sincerely.

Only the most selfish of parents could wish such a fate for their girl.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Thoughts while strolling: They giggle at Mayor O'Brien and hiss Walker in the news reels. What do they want? Two Rhodes scholars, writers and pals—Elmer Davis and Christopher Morley. Marshall Nielan begins to look like Richard Bennett. One word description of H. L. Mencken—squatty.

Mark Sullivan, an Avondale, Pa., boy, who made good in the city. Always, I grow edgy when a car pulls up at my side along a deserted street. Whatever became of Betty Inche? Few human beings interest me more than a circus barker. Mrs. Kent Cooper suggests a Madonna. Grace George looks a young girl.

Wellington Cross is getting a touch of gray, too. How matinee girls used to go for him. One of my favorite people—Isaac Marcosson. Nobody has the contagious laugh of Dick Berlin. Harvard propaganda: Horatio Alger, Jr., Harvard graduate, wrote "Ragged Dick," at 34.

That disdain of live lobsters in a sea food window. Jack Haley looks impish off stage, too. Bob Reud, who puts on the ballyhoo for Radio City. And what smart Alec called it Radio Pity? The nerve of that mug wanting to borrow 50 bucks today to go into bankruptcy. Emile Gauvreau, Napoleon of the tabloids.

Ethel Barrymore's daughter looks like her father. Also, there's a resemblance between Temple Bailey and Kathleen Norris. And I wonder if others have noticed the likeness of ex-Mayor McKee to the Prince of Wales. Time to mosey home. And catch up in my self-pitying.

A diversion for crack-pots is the Merry-Go-Round. There is a circular bar on a moveable floor and, on the outer edge, gilt horses, lions, giraffes and other animals. A mechanical wheezing of "Good Old Summer Time" heightens the illusion. Animals revolve with the bar and the neat trick is to straddle them and imbibe your drink while the whole business whirls. If you do it after two drinks, you're good. After six—excellent.

I spent hours last night getting gurgled over an idiotic volume called "And Now All This," which belies repeated insinuations the Englishman has no sense of humor. This is a thin British brochure and offers such nuttiness as this: "Effect of Knitting on the Mind: in 1865, a Bosnian police inspector, name of Rosenpanz, nursed an ambition to knit a pink stock. In February, the following year, unable to turn the heel, he changed his intention to that of knitting a pink stocking. The case came to the attention of the police in 1867 when R., failing again and again to turn the heel, offered his entire product to the Tiergartendirecktor as a soft collar for the Wintergiraffen." This goes on and on.

In fact, near daylight my wife found me in a back hall—whither I crept to keep from arousing the household. With tears cascading gaunt cheeks, I was gazing at the cock-eyed illustrations of simple and practical demonstrations for knitting beginners. Fig. 1 offered a knitted dust sheet for ham sandwich; Fig. 2—a body belt for a cobra; Fig. 3—a pullover for a dromedary; Fig. 4—a shawl coatee for a winter turnip. And then came garments for advanced knitters. Thus: Fig. 1—cow cosy or milchardian (proceed as for child's pilch-breechette); Fig. 2—golf ensemble for octopus (which can be used as bagpipe cosy).

An exaggerated hysteria afflicts gigglers in the gloom of night. Many times I've been caught by it. Like noise, humor magnifies in the dark. Mark Twain once said, the only time he ever laughed out loud at his own humor was when, during a sleepless spell, he roared over a completed manuscript. If the sombre light of day he found it only so so.
